... White House Considers Short-Term Assistance

©The New York Times

Washington — The White House Thursday officially softened its position on financial aid to New York City and indicated it was considering short-term assistance to ease the city's cash-flow problems once Gov. Hugh L. Carey's fiscal plan was implemented.

Ron Nessen, the presidential press secretary indicated that such aid would now be considered because the White House regarded Carey's fiscal plan as a de facto default. He recalled that President Ford had said he would "veto any legislation that has as its purpose a federal bailout of New York City to prevent default."

Congressional supporters of financial aid to the city noted, however, that the governor's proposed moratorium on the payment of city notes did not constitute a legal default, much less the bankruptcy upon which Ford had conditioned federal aid to assure essential services.

They nonetheless welcomed the presidential shift even though it was based on what they considered a political tactic to enable Ford to take action without appearing to change his mind.

For the first time in two months, Nessen declined to say Ford's opposition to aid for New York had not changed.

Asked if Ford had changed his position, Nessen replied, "Due to the President's forcefulness and firmness, the situation we're talking about has changed."

Nessen, reminded that Ford had said he would take no action to prevent a default, replied that "you have to figure out what default really means."

"To most people, failure to meet payments on interest and principal constitutes a default," Nessen said.

He said he had seen newspaper reports of Carey's fiscal plan, which includes a moratorium on the payment of principal on $1.6 billion of city notes held by private investors. Former federal judge Simon H. Rifkind, one of the governor's top legal advisers, said there was a legal distinction between a default and a moratorium, which had been upheld by the Supreme Court.

Nessen said pending legislation to provide federal loan guarantees to prevent New York City default "now becomes somewhat irrelevant because none of it applies."

The bill's sponsors disagreed. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said, "If the White House wants to call it whatever they do, and then get on board, great."

"It is my understanding that it is not a default," Proxmire continued. "It was done in the thirties and held constitutional."

The senator added, "If the administration agrees to provide assistance to New York to prevent the disaster of bankruptcy, the President deserves great credit for it. What he wanted was discipline, getting in line, and that is being achieved in no small part through his efforts."

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House Banking Committee, said, "The White House proposal was that New York go into formal bankruptcy, and our bill seeks to prevent that."

"If the White House wants to change its position, which I hope and pray they do, they don't have to engage in these charades," Reuss said.

Nessen told newsmen, "Obviously there has been finally, at long last, some serious action by New York City and New York State to solve their own financial problem."

"The President feels that this action largely is the result of his own firm position against a federal bailout for New York City," Nessen added.

The press secretary declined, however, to define the term "bailout."

Nessen said Carey's plan had not yet arrived at the White House.

"I don't think there's anything to consider at the moment, since the plan isn't here," he said.

Nessen declined to rule out short-term aid. Asked if it were being considered, he replied, "I don't think we're up to that stage yet."

The House Democratic leadership, meanwhile, scheduled debate on a New York loan guarantee bill for Monday, and a vote on Tuesday. The Senate Democratic leadership has scheduled floor action for Wednesday or Thursday.

Evers Favors Wallace In No. 2 Spot

Jackson, Miss. (UPI) — Civil Rights Leader Charles Evers said he wouldn't want to see George Wallace get the Democratic presidential nomination but would support the Alabama Governor for the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

Evers, mayor of the little town of Fayette, predicted Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., would get the 1976 nomination.

But added: "I would like to see Wallace the No. 2 man." He said

Wallace had just as much "potential as any of the rest of them."

Officials Told To Reply To Funding Questions

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A number of top state officials have been ordered to answer questions about funding problems being faced by community mental retardation programs.

Warrants were being served Thursday on State Institutions Director Jack Cleavenger, Welfare Director Al Ihms, budget analyst Don Leuenberger, Social Services Director Larry Nedrow and Office of Mental Retardation Director Arnold Carmel.

U.S. Attorney Louis Thrasher reportedly had the warrants issued ordering the officials to give sworn depositions on Nov. 20.

Officials were ordered to produce documents relating to the state Title XX social services plan for 1975-76, budget requests from the six mental retardation programs and interoffice correspondence regarding the need for supplemental funds.

Thrasher represented the federal government in the recent lawsuit settlement concerning the Beatrice State Home. As an intervenor, Thrasher argued that the constitutional rights of the retarded were being denied at Beatrice and that most of the 1,100 persons at Beatrice should be transferred to community programs.

In the settlement, Gov. J. James Exon and other state officials agreed to work toward a reduction in the Beatrice Home population.

The regional retardation programs, however, say they are in severe financial straits caused by the reallocation of funds under the $24 million Title XX programs.

The Exon administration in September realigned the distribution of Title XX funds for a wide range of programs including day care, services for the elderly and mental retardation.

The regional programs said they were expecting a larger slice of the funds that the administration approved. As a result, the programs, including the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation, have had to cut back staff.

Since then they have sought a $3.5 million deficit appropriation to avoid the lay-offs. Exon, however, citing the rapid increase in funds for mental retardation and instances of alleged mismanagement, refused to support any deficit.

'Gag Rule' Case Returned To Nebraska's High Court

Washington (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun Thursday remanded to the Nebraska Supreme Court a "gag rule" case involving Nebraska media.

Attorneys for Nebraska media groups said they had only received part of the 11-page opinion issued by Justice Blackmun, and therefore could not interpret it.

The case involves an Oct. 27 Lincoln County District Court order restricting press coverage of testimony in the preliminary hearing of Erwin Charles Simants.

Simants is charged with first degree murder in the deaths Oct. 18 of six members of the Henry Kellie family of Sutherland.

The U.S. Supreme Court opinion said, in part:

"The expectation which I think is now clear and appropriate to have, that the Supreme Court of Nebraska forthwith and without delay, will entertain the petitioners' application made to it and will promptly decide it in the full consciousness that 'time is of the essence,' I hereby give the Supreme Court of Nebraska that assurance if desired that, at least for the immediate present, I neither issue nor finally deny a stay on the papers before me."

"My inaction, of course, is without prejudice to the petitioners to reapply to me should prompt action not be forthcoming."

If action by the Nebraska Supreme Court could not be anticipated by Dec. 1, as a communication from the State Supreme Court clerk indicated, "I would not hesitate promptly to act," Blackmun wrote.

The case was filed Oct. 31 in the State Supreme Court and when that court did not take prompt action, attorneys filed it on Nov. 5 with the U.S. Supreme Court.

An original Oct. 22 "gag order" imposed by Lincoln County Court Judge Ronald Ruff the day of the preliminary hearing barred news coverage of essentially everything but the names of witnesses and court motions.

Stuart's amended order on Oct. 27 barred coverage of several elements of the hearing and disallowed coverage of several parts of the order itself.

"The issue raised is one that centers upon cherished First and Fourteenth Amendment values ... The order in question obviously imposes significant prior restraints on media reporting," Blackmun's opinion stated.

"If therefore comes to me 'bearing a heavy presumption against its constitutional validity.' But we have observed that the media may be prohibited from publishing information about trials if the restriction is 'necessary to assure the defendant a fair trial before an impartial tribunal.'"

James Koley, an attorney for the media groups, said Thursday night he was "encouraged" by Blackmun's opinion.

Blackmun said "it is highly desirable, of course, that the issue, concerning as it does, an order by a Nebraska state court, should be decided in the first instance by the Supreme Court of Nebraska."

But he said that if no decision by the state Supreme Court could be anticipated before Dec. 1, "a definitive decision by the state's highest court on an issue of profound constitutional implications, demanding immediate resolution, would be delayed for a period so long that the very day-by-day duration of that delay would constitute and aggravate a deprivation of such constitutional rights, if any, that the applicants possess and may properly assert."

Resolution Backs Class I Merger

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

After much dissent, the Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA) Delegate Assembly approved two resolutions Thursday to reorganize school districts and abolish the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission.

But delegates defeated another resolution which urged repeal of the Lincoln-Omaha-Bellevue city sales tax.

The reorganization measure favors legislation requiring every Class I school district to merge with a district that provides secondary education through grade 12 by July 1, 1980.

Class I districts provide only for kindergarten through 6th grade, or K-8. An amendment to move the deadline to 1978 was defeated. The final vote on the resolution was 55-24.

Continue Operating

NSSBA Vice President J. Paul McIntosh of Norfolk said the reorganization proposal would not close down Class I schools. Rather, they would continue operating, but as part of another district.

Such legislation would provide time for voluntary reorganization, the resolution said. Further, it would end non-resident high school tuition for Class I students, accommodate declining enrollments, result in fewer non-accredited schools, and allow Class I residents to be represented on school boards in districts where their children must be transferred.

Opponents of the resolution were scornful of any legislative mandate on how or when to reorganize their districts. One delegate cited popular support for testing the concept in the State Supreme Court, and predicted no chance of its approval in the Unicameral.

NPPC Move Loses

Delegates defeated 37-29 an amendment to strengthen the Nebraska Professional Practices Commission (NPPC), which enforces teachers' ethics and competence. The proposal would have authorized NPPC to issue binding orders subject to appeal, instead of only recommending action to the State Board of Education.

Today's Chuckle

The assembly then voted 53-26 favoring legislation to abolish NPPC, reasoning that authority for suspending or revoking teacher certificates lies in the state board, anyway.

Proponents said NPPC recommendations to the board aren't always followed, adding the commission controlled by the teacher's union erodes local school boards' authority in hiring and firing. Opponents argued unsuccessfully NPPC allows the profession to police itself using no state funds.

Delegates defeated on a voice vote the resolution favoring repeal of the city sales tax. The taxes were unfair to rural residents who trade in the three cities, because proceeds say for urban schools, one delegate argued.

Objections Listed

Opponents declared losing the city sales tax would injure school operations, that property taxes would have to be raised, and that it doesn't deter increased state aid to schools, as critics claim.

The assembly soundly rejected two proposed NSSBA policies endorsed by the Lincoln Board of Education, introduced by Williamette Shafer. One encouraged schools to recognize cultural diversity, the other to provide for sexual equality.

Since "schools have subscribed to the melting-pot theory too long," said Lincoln board member Pearl Goldstein. "We need to recognize there is no one model American." And girls should learn they can become doctors as well as nurses, she said.

Opponents objected to pushing cultural pluralism artificially in rural schools, questioning if that must extend to Germans or Irish, and decrying censoring materials for sexism.

For Tenure Study

In a slate of 11 policies approved, one urges the State Board of Education to study teacher tenure law for possible repeal or revision to guard against perpetuating inferior performance. Another favors finding a more equitable tax method for state financing of public schools, instead of relying disproportionately on the property levy.

Other resolutions approved:

—Urge appointment of a full-time attorney general staff member to assist the Nebraska education commissioner.

—Oppose a federal collective bargaining law.

—Support legislation permitting school board elections at large by district or a combination of the two methods.

—Oppose public funds supporting non-public schools.

—Urge full state funding of all school programs required by state law and deficit appropriations where necessary.

Blast Kills 6 In Jerusalem

Jerusalem (AP) — A bomb exploded Thursday near busy Zion Square in downtown Jerusalem, sending bodies flying through the air and killing six persons and wounding 48, including an American woman, authorities said.

Hospital officials said 14 of the wounded were released within five hours of the explosion.

The bomb went off in a shop only 20 yards from the spot where explosives packed in a refrigerator blew up last July 4, killing 15 and wounding about 70. Thursday's blast shattered windows only recently replaced after the summer attack.

In Beirut, an Arab guerrilla splinter group of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine called the Popular Democratic Front claimed responsibility for the bombing. The general command of the guerrilla forces in Beirut and the umbrella Palestine Liberation Organization in Damascus issued statements saying Palestinian guerrillas were responsible without specifying the PDF.

Israeli police threw a dragnet around Jerusalem and the army radio station said 200 Arabs had been detained for questioning.

The blast came on the first anniversary of PLO leader Yasser Arafat's address to the United Nations General Assembly and three days after the current assembly passed three pro-

Palestinian resolutions, including one condemning Zionism as a form of racism.

The wounded American woman identified herself as Mrs. Lola Nunberg, 53, a tourist from Brooklyn, N.Y. At least one other foreigner, a resident of the Netherlands, was ported among the wounded.

The bomb went off in a food store specializing in Bulgarian delicacies. Police said it apparently was hidden in a package placed on a porter's dolly.

An hour before the explosion, another bomb was found less than a mile away and dismantled by a police bomb squad expert.

"I was just getting on a bus when I saw fire and heard a loud bang," said Mrs. Nunberg. "I fell down. Somebody was trying to pick me up because I couldn't walk. I was sitting on the ground with blood all around me. Then the ambulance came and took me."

The blast occurred at 7 p.m. as Israelis began entering the center of the city for an evening's entertainment. It was a few hundred feet from the main police station.

The street was littered with bodies of wounded and glass blown out of store fronts. Police and ambulances raced to the area and passersby loaded the wounded into them and private cars.

—Call for the Legislature to clarify roles of educational service units and office of county school superintendent.

—Support a substantial increase in the $4,800 annual pay for state senators.

—Urge a more equitable taxation spread to insure equal educational opportunity, and reaffirm that half the cost of operating public schools be paid by the state.

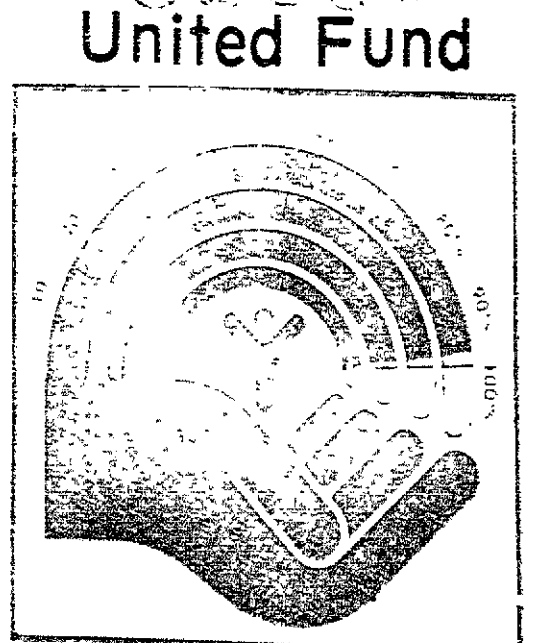

—Oppose legislation to restrict local school control.

—Support a law that would allow schools to appeal state fire marshal rulings on regulations, their interpretation and administration for school buildings.

The NSSBA recognized Dr. Marvin C. Stewart, former Lincoln Board of Education member and past NSSBA district director, for his service to the association.

Cecil Stanley of Lincoln, past state education commissioner, and Charles A. Peters of the Omaha Board of Education were presented the Richard C. Brown Award Thursday night for their outstanding contribution to Nebraska public education.

The NSSBA and Nebraska Association of School Administrators joint convention continues through Friday, as the 700 participants attend self-improvement workshops.

Ford Softens Bailout Position

... White House Considers Short-Term Assistance

Washington — The White House Thursday officially softened its position on financial aid to New York City and indicated it was considering short-term assistance to ease the city's cash-flow problems once Gov. Hugh L. Carey's fiscal plan was implemented.

Ford For Truck, Bus Deregulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford asked Congress on Thursday to abolish many federal regulations governing the trucking industry and interstate buses, a move that one trucking association said could impair service to small towns.

The primary provisions of Ford's plan would give trucking and busing firms authority to raise or lower prices quickly and ease restrictions that make it more difficult for new firms to enter business.

Ford, in a message to Congress, said his plan was designed to stimulate competition, lower prices and restore the 40-year-old regulatory system administered by the Interstate Commerce Commission "to its original purpose of serving consumers."

Current federal regulations have "become in practice the protector of special industry interests," he said.

Trucking and busing firms and the Interstate Commerce Commission are expected to oppose the proposals. The American Trucking Association described Ford's plan as the "ultimate in government irresponsibility," asserting it would put small shippers and small communities at a disadvantage.

"Without adequate regulation, there would be no obligation to provide necessary service to any shippers or to any community," the association said.

Trucking Leader Against Proposal For Deregulation

James Preston, managing director of the Nebraska Motor Carriers Assn., said the effect of the Ford proposal to limit federal regulation of the trucking industry would be "destructive to truck transportation" in Nebraska.

The Nebraska organization has about 500 members.

Preston said his association is "very much opposed" to deregulation.

Instead of increasing competition, Preston foresees in five years the possibility of "a dozen to 25 major truck lines in the United States instead of the 18,000 that exist today."

In smaller populated states, such as Nebraska, he said, "the Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. disputed the trucking association's assertions, saying the plan would improve trucking service to small towns.

If adopted, the legislation would have a major impact on cities and citizens across the nation. According to the Census Bureau, trucks carry 58.4% of all manufactured goods. The American Trucking Associations said 15,100 trucking firms served 36,000 cities in 1974.

The pricing provision of Ford's bill would permit regulated trucking and bus firms to raise or lower rates by 7% the first year, 12% the second year, and 15% in the third year. In subsequent years rate adjustments would be limited to 15% upward and no limit downward without fear of Interstate Commerce Commission intervention.

The ICC also would be prohibited from considering the adequacy of service given by existing carriers when considering applications by new firms to start interstate trucking or busing operations. This would substantially ease the way for new firms to enter business.

The trucking proposal is the third major deregulation legislation submitted by the Ford administration. It earlier asked Congress to make similar changes in rules governing the nation's airlines and railroads.

giant trucking firms would not serve towns that produce marginal traffic revenues." Smaller trucking firms today can make a profit from such traffic, he said.

"Who's going to take care of the small town merchant who needs a shipment of a few auto or farm implement parts, or some pharmaceutical supplies?" Preston asked. Most Nebraska truck shipments involve less than full loads, he noted, suggesting that such shipments would not attract a "giant" truck line.

He said national statistics compiled by the American Truckers Assn. show that 70% of businesses using truck shipments oppose free entry by trucking firms. But, he added, "Giant shippers in major metropolitan areas" support proposals such as Ford's.

Nominee Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee on Thursday rejected the renomination of a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, the third time in two weeks that a committee has refused to support a nomination by President Ford.

The panel voted 10 to 7 along party lines not to report to the full Senate the nomination of Isabel Burgess, after senators criticized her for missing board meetings, traveling more than all other board members except the chairman, and owning stock in an airline.

Two weeks ago, the Commerce Committee rejected Ford's nomination of Joseph Coors to be a member of the Public Broadcasting Corp.

On Wednesday, the Senate Banking Committee rejected the nomination of former Rep. Ben B. Blackburn, R-Ga., to be chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Concorde supersonic passenger jet will sound twice as loud and create five times as much structural vibrations in houses under its takeoff path than the loudest conventional passenger jet, a government study concluded Thursday.

The controversial plane also will produce slightly more pollution at airports than conventional jets and will have enough of an impact on the stratosphere to possibly create 200 new cases of non-fatal skin cancer each year in the United States, the report found.

The conclusions were contained in the final environmental impact statement on the 1,400 mile per hour jet which is being built by the British and French governments.

Leftist Workers Besiege Premier

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Thousands of leftist workers demonstrating for higher pay Thursday invaded parliament and the garden of Premier Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo's official residence.

The invaders were moved out quickly, but the premier remained a virtual prisoner of an estimated 20,000 workers and Communist cadres surrounding the official buildings for the second straight day.

It was learned there had been serious high-level discussions about moving the government to Oporto in the more conservative north.

At Oporto, about 20,000 Socialists, centrist Popular Democrats (PPD), and moderate Social Democratic Centrists (CDS) demonstrated in favor of Azevedo and of moving the government, chanting: "Long live the north of Portugal."

Late Thursday night, a delegation of workers went to the presidential palace in Lisbon with demands including an annual wage increase worth $480 million a year and the immediate dismissal of the labor minister and his chief deputy. A senior Socialist party official said meeting the demands would ruin the government.

Military leaders meeting with the workers said they couldn't negotiate unless Azevedo were present. At the premier's residence the crowd shouted: "No, no. Azevedo stays here."

The Socialists and the PPD leadership moved out of their downtown headquarters and met at an undisclosed location.

Abductions Renew Violence In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Bands of gunmen took over Beirut streets Thursday in a wave of kidnappings that touched off renewed clashes between Christian and Moslem militias.

Army commandos killed two armed men in an exchange of fire at Beirut International Airport. The gunfire spread panic among hundreds of passengers awaiting flights out of the jittery Lebanese capital.

The renewed violence emptied offices and shops. Most Beirut residents fled home, fearing the 10-day-old cease-fire in Lebanon's civil war was heading for collapse. By late afternoon the city was deserted.

Premier Rashid Karami called an emergency meeting of his cease-fire commission consisting of heads of Moslem and Christian private armies, national security chiefs and Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

But a police source said there was increasing evidence militia leaders and guerrilla captains were unable to control their own gunmen, leaving local cease-fire committees powerless to halt the abductions.

More than 17 persons were captured by roaming gangs before nightfall, police reported, adding to the 120 captured overnight. The victims often are held

Bar Association Asked For Advice On Successor To Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration asked the American Bar Association for advice Thursday on a replacement for Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and promised the choice would be made quickly but with great deliberation.

President Ford has not yet set any special standards for the nominee and has no time schedule for making the appointment, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

Douglas, who has served longer than any one else in history on the Supreme Court, retired Wednesday because of ill health.

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent a list of possible court nominees to the American Bar Association for a review of their qualifications, Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said. Havel said the list was prepared in consultation with the White House, but he said he could not disclose details.

Lawrence E. Walsh, president of the ABA, said its Committee on Federal Judiciary has received some names of prospective nominees for review but did not say how many names were received or whether any women's names were on it.

In addition, the committee was invited to give additional names for consideration.

"The committee's investigation concerns only professional qualifications such as his or her integrity, judicial temperament and professional ability as known to other members of the profession," the statement said. An ABA committee is expected to meet Wednesday to make its review.

The ABA expects to complete its review of the potential nominees and deliver a report to the Justice Department early next week, said a high-ranking ABA source.

The bar group probably will not add additional names to the list despite Levi's invitation to do so, the source said.

Supreme Court officials announced that Justice William H. Rehnquist will take Douglas' duties as circuit justice for the ninth circuit in the Far West. The alignment may be changed when a new justice is named, however.

Douglas told reporters Thursday he reluctantly stepped down "because the pain is too great." He suffered a stroke last Dec. 31 and is partially paralyzed.

most important decisions that any President is called upon to make," Nessen said. He added that Ford "will do it with great deliberation."

Nessen said that "there is a certain urgency to have a full court" since Douglas has been unable to carry a full burden since he was stricken and Ford wants to act "as quickly as possible."

The list of possible nominees may be weighted with women and conservatives.

Douglas himself volunteered no thoughts about a successor when reporters asked him about it. His only comment was, "I have no prejudices against women."

Women who have been mentioned include Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Shirley M. Hufstедler of Los Angeles; Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development; former Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich.; U.S. District Court Judge Cornelia Kennedy of Detroit and Michigan State Supreme Court Justice Mary Coleman.

Among the men are Atty. Gen. Levi and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

In replacing Douglas, Ford could tip the present liberal balance on the court.

White House counsel Philip Buchen said that the President is "very eager" to start considering a successor and will seek a large range of choice in making the decision.

As the early speculation

mounted, Buchen said he thought the list was "far too narrow" and that Ford would be making his decision from a larger range of suggested names. Ford will be expecting the leadership of the American Bar Association to provide "input in whatever way they desire" in suggesting possible candidates, Buchen said.

Only last month in California, Ford told Stanford University law students that he thought a Supreme Court nominee should be "a person of great integrity," and of very high competence in law but not necessarily a practicing lawyer.

He also said he would prefer someone "in a relatively middle age group, because I think continuity on the court, in certain matters, is important."

First Lady Wants Woman

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford said Thursday she urged the President to appoint a woman to fill the current Supreme Court vacancy and intends to continue her lobbying campaign on it.

"I think there are many very capable judges in the country and I think as a matter of equal opportunity and equal rights this would be a very fine example," she said in explaining why she thinks a woman should be appointed.

Mrs. Ford was questioned by reporters when she entertained members of the National Council of Negro Women at the White House.

Asked if she had given President Ford any advice she replied, "When have I ever stopped giving him advice on anything."

She said, "We discussed it," when asked about the court vacancy and reported "I have my candidates" but she declined to reveal them.

Asked if she was pushing for a woman she said: "What else?"

Asked what President Ford's reaction was, she said, "He smiled."

Douglas, 77, a vigorous outdoorsman before his stroke, also said he wished to be remembered as "someone who made the earth a little more beautiful."

Nessen said that Ford has not had time to draw up a lengthy list of qualifications for the successor.

"It is obviously one of the

Sex, Politics Said Not Part Of Good Judge

Sex and political philosophy are not qualifications for a Supreme Court justice, according to Nebraska legal leaders.

Speculation in Washington leans toward a woman replacement for Justice William O. Douglas, who retired Wednesday after 37 years on the Supreme Court.

"A good lawyer" is all that President Ford should consider,

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas said. Sen. Carl Curtis agreed with Douglas.

"The quality of the judge is of supreme importance — more than party, philosophy, geography or sex," he said.

Nebraska State Bar Association President Alfred Ellick said that although philosophy and sex are not too important, a woman might be a good idea.

"A woman just might give the court a more humanitarian outlook — something we all need," the Omaha attorney said.

Republican National Committeewoman Pat Smith of Lincoln said Douglas' retirement was overdue and that a woman should replace him.

She mentioned Rita Houser, New York lawyer on the U.S. Human Rights Commission, and

Carla Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, as successors.

Mrs. Hills is one of two possible nominees discussed in Washington, according to First District Rep. Charles Thone. The other is Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., a longtime friend of Ford who is considered a conservative.

Persistent Housewife Leads Battle For Residential Historic District In San Francisco

San Francisco — A determined urban housewife who took a liking to her threatened neighborhood is on the verge of victory in a three-year struggle to create this city's first residential historic district.

Neighbors and city officials credit the research, petitions and plain persistence of Anne Bloomfield for the recent unanimous vote of San Francisco's Landmarks Advisory Board on a "resolution of intent" to designate 25 old Victorian homes in the Pacific Heights area as a historic district.

The designation is now being converted into detailed legislation for expected approval by local legislators and the mayor in this hilly city that seems to have such a fondness for its past.

Until now, that affection for age and protection from demolition have been lavished only on places of proven historic prominence or architectural gems of famed building designers.

But Mrs. Bloomfield's beloved Webster Street houses, about two miles west of downtown Union Square, were the homes of notable 19th-century nobodies whose ranks included a Turkish tobacconist, a grain merchant, a hairdresser, a Western Union operator and a wholesale liquor dealer.

Like the older buildings of countless communities across the country, the well-kept, two-story structures here are under severe economic pressures to give way to modern, lucrative high-rise apartment or office developments. In recent years, local critics of such tall structures have derided the "Manhattanization" of San Francisco. But the residents of two blocks of Webster Street have drawn the line now.

"It's a very friendly neighborhood," said Mrs.

Bloomfield, mother of three children, "and some of us got to thinking we'd like to keep it that way."

So, for the last 11 years, led as often as not by Mrs. Bloomfield, residents have fought many unheralded skirmishes to keep their neighborhood as it is.

The residents got their area downzoned to restrict the number of housing units per lot and thus discourage development. They got the sixth floor of a planned research center lopped off and the height restrictions elsewhere set at 40 feet instead of 160.

And by themselves they planted trees and shrubs in front of their homes where busy pedestrians walk in the shade of green branches that graze their heads as they scurry about on city errands. However, in one acknowledgment of the realities of urban life, a number of people have cemented their flower pots in place.

From these scraps, residents said, developed a real sense of neighborhood. Mrs. Bloomfield came to be known as the blocks' organizer and people would greet her at the door saying, "What petition is it this time?"

Committee Approves Rumsfeld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee on Thursday unanimously approved the nomination of Donald Rumsfeld to become secretary of defense.

The committee acted on a 16-0 vote in open session after adopting a resolution praising outgoing Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger for "excellence in office, intellectual honesty ... courage and independence."

Committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said he expects Rumsfeld's nomination to be brought up in the Senate for confirmation next week.

Although many senators have deplored Schlesinger's ouster by Ford, it appeared that Rumsfeld will be confirmed by the full Senate with little or no opposition.

The Armed Services Committee voted after two days of generally friendly questioning of Rumsfeld, now Ford's White House chief of staff.

Congress OKs Debt Lid Boost

Washington (UPI) — Congress Thursday passed and sent to President Ford an $18 billion increase in the national debt ceiling to $595 billion, rejecting Republican attempts to attach Ford's ceiling on federal spending.

The Senate quickly passed the bill by voice vote after the House finally passed it 213-198 over strong GOP opposition and political maneuvering by a large bloc of Democrats.

The current ceiling expires at midnight Saturday. After that time, the government would have been unable to borrow money to pay its bills.

Ransom Paid; Youth Released

Bloomfield Hills, Mich. (AP) — A General Motors executive whose 13-year-old son was released safely following a $150,000 ransom payment said Thursday he does not believe his corporate position was the reason his son was kidnapped.

"I think it was strictly random," Robert C. Stempel, director of engineering at Chevrolet, said of the kidnapping of his son Timothy, who was abducted at gunpoint by a group of men late Monday afternoon.

Bar Association Asked For Advice On Successor To Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration asked the American Bar Association for advice Thursday on a replacement for Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and promised the choice would be made quickly but with great deliberation.

President Ford has not yet set any special standards for the nominee and has no time schedule for making the appointment, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said.

Douglas, who has served longer than any one else in history on the Supreme Court, retired Wednesday because of ill health.

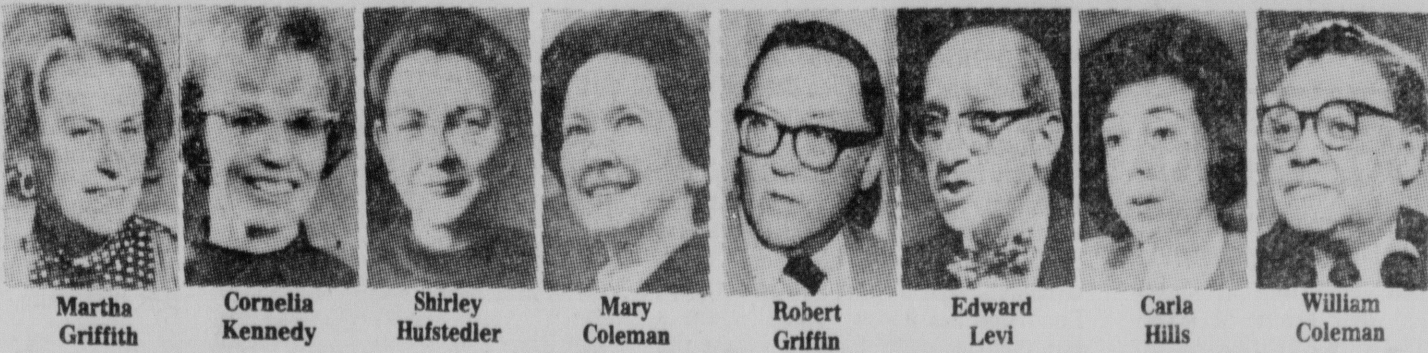

Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi sent a list of possible court nominees to the American Bar Association for a review of their qualifications, Justice Department spokesman Robert Havel said. Havel said the list was prepared in consultation with the White House, but he said he could not disclose details.

Lawrence E. Walsh, president of the ABA, said its Committee on Federal Judiciary has received some names of prospective nominees for review but did not say how many names were received or whether any women's names were on it.

In addition, the committee was invited to give additional names for consideration.

"The committee's investigation concerns only professional qualifications such as his or her integrity, judicial temperament and professional ability as known to other members of the profession," the statement said. An ABA committee is expected to meet Wednesday to make its review.

The ABA expects to complete its review of the potential nominees and deliver a report to the Justice Department early next week, said a high-ranking ABA source.

The bar group probably will not add additional names to the list despite Levi's invitation to do so, the source said.

Supreme Court officials announced that Justice William H. Rehnquist will take Douglas' duties as circuit justice for the ninth circuit in the Far West. The alignment may be changed when a new justice is named, however.

Douglas told reporters Thursday he reluctantly stepped down "because the pain is too great." He suffered a stroke last Dec. 31 and is partially paralyzed.

most important decisions that any President is called upon to make," Nessen said. He added that Ford "will do it with great deliberation."

Nessen said that "there is a certain urgency to have a full court" since Douglas has been unable to carry a full burden since he was stricken and Ford wants to act "as quickly as possible."

The list of possible nominees may be weighted with women and conservatives.

Douglas himself volunteered no thoughts about a successor when reporters asked him about it. His only comment was, "I have no prejudices against women."

Women who have been mentioned include Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Shirley M. Hufstедler of Los Angeles; Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development; former Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich.; U.S. District Court Judge Cornelia Kennedy of Detroit and Michigan State Supreme Court Justice Mary Coleman.

Among the men are Atty. Gen. Levi and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich.

In replacing Douglas, Ford could tip the present liberal balance on the court.

White House counsel Philip Buchen said that the President is "very eager" to start considering a successor and will seek a large range of choice in making the decision.

As the early speculation

mounted, Buchen said he thought the list was "far too narrow" and that Ford would be making his decision from a larger range of suggested names. Ford will be expecting the leadership of the American Bar Association to provide "input in whatever way they desire" in suggesting possible candidates, Buchen said.

Only last month in California, Ford told Stanford University law students that he thought a Supreme Court nominee should be "a person of great integrity," and of very high competence in law but not necessarily a practicing lawyer.

He also said he would prefer someone "in a relatively middle-age group, because I think continuity on the court, in certain matters, is important."

First Lady Wants Woman

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford said Thursday she has urged the President to appoint a woman to fill the current Supreme Court vacancy and intends to continue her lobbying campaign on it.

"I think there are many very capable judges in the country and I think as a matter of equal opportunity and equal rights this would be a very fine example," she said in explaining why she thinks a woman should be appointed.

Mrs. Ford was questioned by reporters when she entertained members of the National Council of Negro Women at the White House.

Asked if she had given President Ford any advice she replied, "When have I ever stopped giving him advice on anything."

She said, "We discussed it," when asked about the court vacancy and reported "I have my candidates" but she declined to reveal them.

Asked if she was pushing for a woman she said: "What else?"

Asked what President Ford's reaction was, she said, "He smiled."

Douglas, 77, a vigorous outdoorsman before his stroke, also said he wished to be remembered as "someone who made the earth a little more beautiful."

Nessen said that Ford has not had time to draw up a lengthy list of qualifications for the successor.

"It is obviously one of the

Sex, Politics Said Not Part Of Good Judge

Sex and political philosophy are not qualifications for a Supreme Court justice, according to Nebraska legal leaders.

Speculation in Washington leans toward a woman replacement for Justice William O. Douglas, who retired Wednesday after 37 years on the Supreme Court.

"A good lawyer" is all that President Ford should consider,

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas said. Sen. Carl Curtis agreed with Douglas.

"The quality of the judge is of supreme importance — more than party, philosophy, geography or sex," he said.

Nebraska State Bar Association President Alfred Ellick said that although philosophy and sex are not too important, a woman might be a good idea.

"A woman just might give the court a more humanitarian outlook — something we all need," the Omaha attorney said.

Republican National Committeewoman Pat Smith of Lincoln said Douglas' retirement was overdue and that a woman should replace him.

She mentioned Rita Houser, New York lawyer on the U.S. Human Rights Commission, and

Carla Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, as successors.

Mrs. Hills is one of two possible nominees discussed in Washington, according to First District Rep. Charles Thone. The other is Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., a longtime friend of Ford who is considered a conservative.

Persistent Housewife Leads Battle For Residential Historic District In San Francisco

©The New York Times

San Francisco — A determined urban housewife who took a liking to her threatened neighborhood is on the verge of victory in a three-year struggle to create this city's first residential historic district.

Neighbors and city officials credit the research, petitions and plain persistence of Anne Bloomfield for the recent unanimous vote of San Francisco's Landmarks Advisory Board on a "resolution of intent" to designate 25 old Victorian homes in the Pacific Heights area as a historic district.

The designation is now being converted into detailed legislation for expected approval by local legislators and the mayor in this hilly city that seems to have such a fondness for its past.

Until now, that affection for age and protection from demolition have been lavished only on places of proven historic prominence or architectural gems of famed building designers.

But Mrs. Bloomfield's beloved Webster Street houses, about two miles west of downtown Union Square, were the homes of notable 19th-century nobodies whose ranks included a Turkish tobacconist, a grain merchant, a hairdresser, a Western Union operator and a wholesale liquor dealer.

Like the older buildings of countless communities across the country, the well-kept, two-story structures here are under severe economic pressures to give way to modern, lucrative high-rise apartment or office developments. In recent years, local critics of such tall structures have decried the "Manhattanization" of San Francisco. But the residents of two blocks of Webster Street have drawn the line now.

"It's a very friendly neighborhood," said Mrs.

Bloomfield, mother of three children, "and some of us got to thinking we'd like to keep it that way."

So, for the last 11 years, led as often as not by Mrs. Bloomfield, residents have fought many unheralded skirmishes to keep their neighborhood as it is.

The residents got their area downzoned to restrict the number of housing units per lot and thus discourage development. They got the sixth floor of a planned research center lopped off and the height restrictions elsewhere set at 40 feet instead of 160. And by themselves they planted trees and shrubs in front of their homes where busy pedestrians walk in the shade of green branches that graze their heads as they scurry about on city errands. However, in one acknowledgment of the realities of urban life, a number of people have cemented their flower pots in place.

From these scraps, residents said, developed a real sense of neighborhood. Mrs. Bloomfield came to be known as the blocks' organizer and people would greet her at the door saying, "What petition is it this time?"

Committee Approves Rumsfeld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee on Thursday unanimously approved the nomination of Donald Rumsfeld to become secretary of defense.

The committee acted on a 16-0 vote in open session after adopting a resolution praising outgoing Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger for "excellence in office, intellectual honesty ... courage and independence."

Committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said he expects Rumsfeld's nomination to be brought up in the Senate for confirmation next week.

Although many senators have deplored Schlesinger's ouster by Ford, it appeared that Rumsfeld will be confirmed by the full Senate with little or no opposition.

The Armed Services Committee voted after two days of generally friendly questioning of Rumsfeld, now Ford's White House chief of staff.

Congress OKs Debt Lid Boost

Washington (UPI) — Congress Thursday passed and sent to President Ford an $18 billion increase in the national debt ceiling to $595 billion, rejecting Republican attempts to attach Ford's ceiling on federal spending.

The Senate quickly passed the bill by voice vote after the House finally passed it 213-198 over strong GOP opposition and political maneuvering by a large bloc of Democrats.

The current ceiling expires at midnight Saturday. After that time, the government would have been unable to borrow money to pay its bills.

For 36 Years, The Good Fight

There is a universal feeling of admiration for Justice William O. Douglas as he retires from the U.S. Supreme Court. It is accompanied, for those who shared Douglas' views on the rights of men and the role of government, by a terrible sense of loss.

Douglas said the pain he has to endure interfered with his work so, in good conscience, he quit. It must be awful pain, to make him leave his work, his causes, and to allow an old political enemy — a man who once tried to throw him off the bench — to name his successor. He could have tried to wait out the final months of the Ford administration, hoping for the election of a liberal in 1976. He could have ignored his work and tried to meet the pain head-on, while still a member of the court. But the fact that he quit now, when he most assuredly didn't want to quit, is a testimonial not just to his progressively worsening physical condition, but to his character and sense of responsibility.

In a filmed interview rebroadcast upon the announcement of his retirement Wednesday, Douglas was commenting on what makes America great, a nation to admire and respect. For Douglas it isn't military strength or standard of living, but the precious opportunities for individual expression guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and especially, the First Amendment. Consistent with that, Douglas saw his role as helping to keep government off the back of the citizen. What values or goals should Americans more highly prize? It is an ironic contradiction that many of those who profess to be the rugged individualists, those who claim to oppose a Big Brother society and the restrictions imposed by a powerful central government on American life, hate Douglas so much. In many ways Douglas stands for the things his detractors profess to stand for. The distinguishing factor, in our opinion, is that Douglas fearlessly and passionately believes in the individual's ability to live well with freedom while the others, down deep, do not.

Now the balance tips even farther away from the liberal essence of the ground-breaking Warren Court. Speculation centers not on what philosophic mold Douglas' successor will spring from, but on the stature of President Ford's appointment.

Surely the President will attempt to secure the "conservative" hold on the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Burger, to remake the court in the Nixon-Ford image. That is only to be expected. But hopefully Ford will avoid the Nixon tendency now and again to try to pull a fast one on the Senate by nominating the representatives of mediocrity, judges who had little to recommend them but superficial conservatism. The nation and the memory of Justice Douglas' monumental service deserve more than that.

Reason To Worry

Although many observers predict President Ford will pick Housing and Urban Development Secretary Carla Hills or Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan or Attorney General Edward Levi or some other noncontroversial and capable figure to fill the Douglas seat, the President's recent record in the appointments field is none too good.

Ford's cabinet shuffle was clearly political. Secy. Schlesinger's abrasiveness notwithstanding, he brought experience and brilliance to the defense job — and Ford substituted his own version of Haldeman. To the highly sensitive CIA directorship Ford nominated a former congressman and GOP national chairman — making it seem that the top job in the security area is a political plum or a training ground for the vice presidency.

JAMES RESTON

The Ohio Indicator

CLEVELAND, Ohio—President Ford has been betting for a long time that there is a conservative tide running in the country against excessive government spending and bloated government payrolls, and at least in this part of the country the evidence is on his side.

Here in Ohio, 84% of the state's 2.7 million voters rejected a $1.75 billion transportation bond issue in last week's elections, and 82% turned down a $2.75 billion issue for capital improvements in communities all over the state.

After the elections, George Gallup took a nationwide poll which, he said, reflected "the public's belt-tightening mood and gave early indication that federal spending and big government may be a dominant issue in next year's presidential campaign."

The Gallup survey indicated that 57% of those polled said they would vote for, rather than against, any candidate who promised to try to cut the number of federal employees by 5% each year for the next four years.

Also, Gallup found that Ford's offer to cut $27 billion in taxes if Congress would reduce the federal budget by a similar amount, was apparently gathering wide support. Though this deal was roundly denounced by the Democrats and many prominent newspapers as a political trick — since he suggested giving the tax cut early in the new year and cutting the budget after the election — 57% of those polled said they felt he had a good idea and only 19% said it was a bum idea.

The trend, of course, is not new. Even such liberal candidates as George McGovern, Burch Bayh and Gary Hart of Colorado got to the Senate in the 1974 election by clipping their own left wings, but the New York fiscal crisis has obviously extended the conservative trend and scared even the last of the big spenders.

For example, it was a Republican governor here, Jim Rhodes, who backed the big bond issue as a "blueprint for Ohio," but it was a young Democratic lieutenant governor, Dick Celeste, who called it a "blueprint for bankruptcy," and it didn't see a majority of votes in a single one of Ohio's 88 counties, including those who year-in-year-out vote Democratic.

Ohio was only the most dramatic evidence of a wider tendency to curb government spending. As Terry Robards of the New York Times pointed out, 93% of the $6.33 billion in bond issues up for consideration in last week's elections were rejected.

But it is risky to generalize about this negative vote response. Some were rejected, as in New Jersey, without much reference to New York's crisis, but simply because the people thought they were poor or even deceptive proposals.

One theory of the anti-bond issue vote of last week was that in times of recession, voters pull back and reject additional spending. But according to the experts at the Daily Bond Buyer who follow these things, the rejection rate decreased in the Great Depression, from 40% in 1929 to 31% in 1930, to 22% in 1931, to 33% in 1932, and to 17% in 1933.

So maybe something is happening at the beginning of the 1976 election campaign, and in the midst of the New York City financial muddle that is politically significant, and the presidential candidates are crisscrossing the country trying to figure out what it is.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen was out here in the Middle West the other day proclaiming that "if we Democrats would quit debating how to run our party instead of talking about how to govern the country, then we'll be able to elect the next president."

But all the Democratic candidates, except maybe Mo Udall, Jimmy Carter, and Fred Harris, are not leading the debate but watching the trends. All the rest of them are covering more country than American Airlines, but are saying very little and saying it very tentatively.

President Ford, however, seems to have made up his mind, and also seems so sure that the conservative tide is running that he lets Nelson Rockefeller go and is even willing to let New York go over the side. He has read the bond issue returns from Ohio, and is clearly more worried about fending off the conservative challenge of Ronald Reagan than losing the liberal support of Nelson Rockefeller.

But even the conservative supporters of Ford and Reagan here in Ohio have their doubts about this massive opposition to spending. What if this indicates not merely a prudent caution about big spending and big government payrolls, but also a lack of confidence in both Republicans and Democrats alike? A tendency to hunker down, save and pull back from investment?

If this should happen, then the present recovery from the worst economic slump since the thirties could be stopped or even reversed in 1976. This is what is concerning the presidential candidates of both parties as they tour the country, all that is, except the President.

He says "There is a fair degree of unanimity" between him and Reagan. "I am in the middle of the road, he may be somewhat to the right, but on many basic issues we have a considerable degree of unanimity."

In short, he is sure that the conservative tide is running, and he is "comfortable" with it, and out here in the Middle West, most people seem to think he is right.

RONALD REAGAN

CALIFORNIA — Maybe it's time for all Americans to examine detente more closely to understand what it means to us and to the Soviet Union.

A very fine writer and historian, James Burnham, recently did this in National Review magazine. He pointed out that our leaders "think of detente as a diplomatic equivalent of a business deal." Each side has its own special interests but they agree to function within the rules of the marketplace — something for something. Each will receive some of what it wants, but each will in turn give something.

In the case of detente, the plus for both sides is believed to be some assurance against that horror of horrors — nuclear war. With that agreed upon, we hope for eventual trade, cultural exchange and, in time, legitimate friendship as we get to know each other better.

That is the way we see detente. Not so with the communists. For them, detente is not a "step toward peace." Nor is it, Mr. Burnham says, "an effort to achieve an evenly balanced equation." It is a way for them to carry on the revolutionary struggle with the advantage for them increased by detente. Indeed, they see the whole arrangement as the result of our weakness. Gus Hall, leader of the Communist Party, U.S.A., has written that detente represents a new "qualitative change in international relations, a deterioration of our strategic situation."

Detente Issue Wears Two Faces

GUS HALL
... Communist Party leader expounds on results of detente ...

It is explained that we have been forced to accept detente on communist terms and they don't lack for evidence to support that claim.

There is our retreat from Indochina, retreat of the West from such important strategic areas as Mozambique and Angola. Then there is the Marxist push in Portugal, the Greek-Turkish trouble in NATO, the oil squeeze on the West, increased communist influence in Italy, France and Britain. We could add the increase in Soviet naval strength, the terrorist activities we seem unable to halt and the Soviet Union's arrogant violations of the SALT agreements on arms limitation. They arm and we limit.

We are blind to reality if we refuse to recognize that detente's usefulness to the Soviet Union is only a cover for their traditional and basic strategy for aggression.

It would appear that our situation is worse than just not recognizing facts.

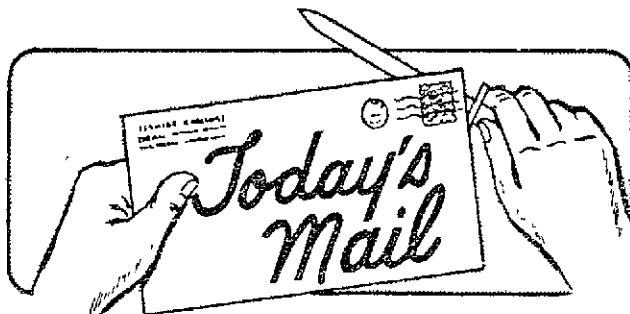

Not seeing the facts is useful for those who can turn a profit from dealing with the Soviets, even though such trade increases our danger. And, according to Burnham, free world diplomats can use it to cover up their mistakes and hide their "lack of a cohesive policy." In other words, politicians can hide their lack of willingness to be real leaders, their lack of courage and their governing by public opinion polls.

Detente is for the Soviet Union a no-can-lose proposition. It fits their communist dialectic. According to this dialectic, "opposites clash and become ultimately fused into a synthesis on a higher plane."

In Soviet eyes, the primary clash today is between imperialist capitalists and revolutionary workers; the synthesis is the proletarian dictatorship led by the communists.

All communist strategy is conceived against that doctrine or background — and that most assuredly includes detente.

Violation Of Rights

In a recent news story, the Nebraska State Bar Association is quoted: "Nebraska now has the lowest representation of lawyers in the Legislature, of any state. Any further regulation depleting representation would be inconsistent with the public interest."

Is that not a conflict-of-interest statement? Many would say zero representation for lawyers would improve the Legislature.

Recently our state court ruled the police could randomly stop drivers and check if they had driver's licenses. To do this, they had to forget about what they learned in law school.

You are innocent until proven guilty. A police officer can stop (arrest) only when he has knowledge of the commission of a crime (misdemeanor or felony). The knock in the middle of the night is not so far away when the highest court in our state permits the violation of a person's civil rights in such an outrageous manner as okaying random highway checks.

Favors Skating Rink

With reference to the article appearing in the Monday, Nov. 10 Star, written by Mark Champion and regarding the need for an ice-skating rink in Lincoln for our hockey team and also available for ice-skating — I genuinely agree with Mark that if we can supply money for the 27th Street Bicentennial fountain, why can't we supply money for our "fountain of youth"?

When my son was a 12-year-old, he was much interested in ice-skating. He attended summer skating school in Green Bay, Wisconsin, where he received more encouragement from John Carlos, his pro. Because there was no ice-skating facility here, and because of his interest in skating, I would take him to Aksarben for lessons and practice. Pershing Auditorium management was not particularly interested in ice-skating. The Lincoln Figure Skating Club tried hard to promote skating, but it was a lost cause, with ice too seldom available.

Can't we encourage and promote this worthy cause? Let's get behind Mark Champion and our hockey team and promote his cause.

One Typical Day

Picture a young Nebraska farmer in a field of corn waiting to be husked. He has a husking pin and cotton flannel mittens, a wagon and sideboard. Let the ears fly—bang!—two or three a minute or more.

He is young, say, 25, slim and a hard worker. He can come in in the morning with a 100-bushel load, come to the house, put a small pumpkin pie under his belt, go out and unload, with a shovel, mind you. He can come in and eat a big dinner the good wife has prepared — meat, potatoes, vegetables, and more pumpkin pie. He goes out in the afternoon and repeats. Comes in about 4:30, unloads, puts the horses up and milks five or six cows. Does the rest of the chores, comes to supper, then reads his paper.

This is a typical Nebraska farmer. Don't fool yourself. A farmer is no dummy. It takes brains to farm the good earth and not abuse it.

We must remember that Nebraska and others are the breadbasket of the world.

A Time For Gratitude

Have we all checked off our blessings lately? Since Thanksgiving is just around the corner, it's a good time to be aware of the care God has given us.

The earliest Thanksgiving in America was kept by the Pilgrims at Plymouth in 1621, in spite of a winter of great hardships. The Indians shared this first thankful feast of wild turkey.

In 1863 the holiday was officially proclaimed on Nov. 26, but since 1941 by joint resolution of Congress, the holiday falls on the fourth Thursday in November.

The customary turkey is a reminder of the four wild turkeys the Pilgrims and Indians shared in humble gratitude to a God who had walked beside them during many days of hunger and cold. They found they could still be thankful for the better days.

And so should we also be grateful for our blessings, large or small.

Continued Opposition

Claude Canaday writes (Nov. 7) of unhappy refugees. How would he feel if day in and day out he could expect a phone call or telegram informing him that his brother, son or some other relative had been executed? How would he feel if, after many years, he could still remember the bang of the rifles that took away the lives of three peasant boys, one 18 years old and the other two 17 years old? We knew the trial was to start at eight o'clock, but the graves were already dug at seven o'clock.

How can the American Revolution be compared with Castro's? Has anyone ever heard of the American revolutionary government having thousands executed after victory?

As long as there is injustice in Cuba, we Cubans who believe in justice will oppose actions that ignore the right of the Cuban people to be free.

THE FORD TEAM: STILL PLAYING WITHOUT HELMETS

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

Ford's Vulnerability

WASHINGTON — When "The Making of the President 1976" is written, or some other book like it, the days and weeks of early November, 1975, will doubtless figure prominently in chronicling the fate of Gerald Ford.

These were the days when Mr. Ford stumbled over more than his syntax; they were days when Vice President Nelson Rockefeller announced that he did not want to be considered for renomination (while his aides put out the word that the President was really not very bright); they were also the days when at least three Republican senators — Baker of Tennessee, Mathias of Maryland and Percy of Illinois — gave some public or private indication that they might run in the spring primaries against the incumbent President of their own party. To assert himself, Mr. Ford has been obliged to indicate that he will run in all 30 state GOP presidential primaries.

It is virtually unprecedented — at least in recent times. The political revolt that ultimately toppled Lyndon Johnson in the March, 1968, New Hampshire primary had relatively little form or substance in the late autumn of 1967. Hardly anybody took Eugene McCarthy seriously. Robert Kennedy was still quiet, biding his time. And in Hubert Humpfrey, Lyndon Johnson had a loyal vice president.

Gerald Ford, by way of contrast, must take stock of a frighteningly different situation. First, the implications of Vice President Rockefeller's decision to take up a posture of political independence. Washington already hums with speculation that Rockefeller will jump into the late spring primaries if Gerald Ford is irretrievably defeated in the opening contests. And in the meantime, the Rockefeller Republicans — hitherto an important organizational element of Ford intra-party strength from New England to the Midwest — are clearly free agents once again.

Secondly, Mr. Ford's principal party opponent, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, is now close to Mr. Ford in some polls and ahead of him in one or two. Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss is already describing Reagan as a rougher potential opponent in the general election because he would not have to defend the Ford administration's record.

Lastly, a large element of the feudal baronage of the Grand Old Party — senators, governors and other power brokers — are openly in revolt or maneuvering behind the thinnest of political veils. Each new senator who hints at a primary bid rips another seam from the robes of Mr. Ford's presidential and party authority.

Consider: if this is the situation that prevails three and one half months before New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary on Feb. 24, what will the circumstances be in February, March or April? If Gerald Ford cannot win a fairly decisive victory in Florida and New Hampshire, the whole pack will be upon him. And once the aura of presidential office has been thus stripped away, it will be difficult to restore. After Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson were badly injured in the New Hampshire Democratic primaries of 1952 and 1968, they both announced their retirement. The chance of Gerald Ford's similar retirement is becoming steadily more possible.

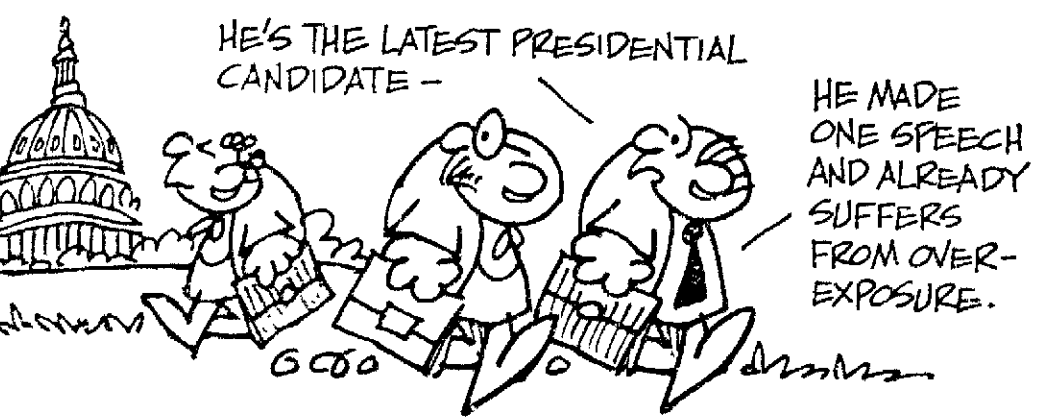

Does this mean that Ronald Reagan is the probable Republican nominee? Perhaps, but Reagan, like Eugene McCarthy in 1968, may be out front too soon. If he unhorses President Ford in the early primaries, he too will have to face a pack of new opponents, possibly including Vice President Rockefeller.

Moreover, after such a brutal, fratricidal clash, the Republican nomination might not be worth very much (barring the realignment possibility of Reaganite fusion with Wallace forces). My own feeling is that Ronald Reagan remains unaware of the magnitude of either his under-taking or opportunity.

Now the balance tips even farther away from the liberal essence of the ground-breaking Warren Court. Speculation centers not on what philosophic mold Douglas' successor will spring from, but on the stature of President Ford's appointment.

Surely the President will attempt to secure the "conservative" hold on the Supreme Court under Chief Justice Burger, to remake the court in the Nixon-Ford image. That is only to be expected. But hopefully Ford will avoid the Nixon tendency now and again to try to pull a fast one on the Senate by nominating the representatives of mediocrity, judges who had little to recommend them but superficial conservatism. The nation and the memory of Justice Douglas' monumental service deserve more than that.

Reason To Worry

Although many observers predict President Ford will pick Housing and Urban Development Secretary Carla Hills or Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan or Attorney General Edward Levi or some other noncontroversial and capable figure to fill the Douglas seat, the President's recent record in the appointments field is none too good.

Ford's cabinet shuffle was clearly political. Secy. Schlesinger's abrasiveness notwithstanding, he brought experience and brilliance to the defense job — and Ford substituted his own version of Haldeman. To the highly sensitive CIA directorship Ford nominated a former congressman and GOP national chairman — making it seem that the top job in the security area is a political plum or a training ground for the vice presidency.

The Ohio Indicator

CLEVELAND, Ohio—President Ford has been betting for a long time that there is a conservative tide running in the country against excessive government spending and bloated government payrolls, and at least in this part of the country the evidence is on his side.

Here in Ohio, 84% of the state's 2.7 million voters rejected a $1.75 billion transportation bond issue in last week's elections, and 82% turned down a $2.75 billion issue for capital improvements in communities all over the state.

After the elections, George Gallup took a nationwide poll which, he said, reflected "the public's belt-tightening mood and gave early indication that federal spending and big government may be a dominant issue in next year's presidential campaign."

The Gallup survey indicated that 57% of those polled said they would vote for, rather than against, any candidate who promised to try to cut the number of federal employees by 5% each year for the next four years.

Also, Gallup found that Ford's offer to cut $27 billion in taxes if Congress would reduce the federal budget by a similar amount, was apparently gathering wide support. Though this deal was roundly denounced by the Democrats and many prominent newspapers as a political trick — since he suggested giving the tax cut early in the new year and cutting the budget after the election — 67% of those polled said they felt he had a good idea and only 19% said it was a bum idea.

The trend, of course, is not new. Even such liberal candidates as George McGovern, Birch Bayh and Gary Hart of Colorado got to the Senate in the 1974 election by clipping their own left wings, but the New York fiscal crisis has obviously extended the conservative trend and scared even the last of the big spenders.

For example, it was a Republican governor here, Jim Rhodes, who backed the big bond issue as a "blueprint for Ohio," but it was a young Democratic lieutenant governor, Dick Celeste, who called it a "blueprint for bankruptcy," and it didn't get a majority of votes in a single one of Ohio's 88 counties, including those who year-in-year-out vote Democratic.

Ohio was only the most dramatic evidence of a wider tendency to curb government spending. As Terry Robards of the New York Times pointed out, 93% of the $6.33 billion in bond issues up for consideration in last week's elections were rejected.

But it is risky to generalize about this negative vote response. Some were rejected, as in New Jersey, without much reference to New York's crisis, but simply because the people thought they were poor or even deceptive proposals.

One theory of the anti-bond issue vote of last week was that in times of recession, voters pull back and reject additional spending. But according to the experts at the Daily Bond Buyer who follow these things, the rejection rate decreased in the Great Depression, from 40% in 1929 to 31% in 1930, to 22% in 1931, to 33% in 1932, and to 17% in 1933.

So maybe something is happening at the beginning of the 1976 election campaign, and in the midst of the New York City financial muddle that is politically significant, and the presidential candidates are crisscrossing the country trying to figure out what it is.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen was out here in the Middle West the other day proclaiming that "if we Democrats would quit debating how to run our party instead of talking about how to govern the country, then we'll be able to elect the next president."

But all the Democratic candidates, except maybe Mo Udall, Jimmy Carter, and Fred Harris, are not leading the debate but watching the trends. All the rest of them are covering more country than American Airlines, but are saying very little and saying it very tentatively.

President Ford, however, seems to have made up his mind, and also seems so sure that the conservative tide is running that he lets Nelson Rockefeller go and is even willing to let New York go over the side. He has read the bond issue returns from Ohio, and is clearly more worried about fending off the conservative challenge of Ronald Reagan than losing the liberal support of Nelson Rockefeller.

But even the conservative supporters of Ford and Reagan here in Ohio have their doubts about this massive opposition to spending. What if this indicates not merely a prudent caution about big spending and big government payrolls, but also a lack of confidence in both Republicans and Democrats alike? A tendency to hunker down, save and pull back from investment?

If this should happen, then the present recovery from the worst economic slump since the thirties could be stopped or even reversed in 1976. This is what is concerning the presidential candidates of both parties as they tour the country, all that is, except the President.

He says "There is a fair degree of unanimity" between him and Reagan. "I am in the middle of the road, he may be somewhat to the right, but on many basic issues we have a considerable degree of unanimity."

In short, he is sure that the conservative tide is running, and he is "comfortable" with it, and out here in the Middle West, most people seem to think he is right.

RONALD REAGAN

CALIFORNIA — Maybe it's time for all Americans to examine detente more closely to understand what it means to us and to the Soviet Union.

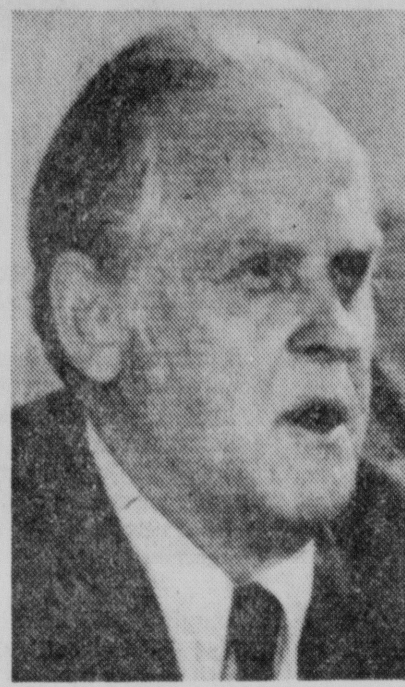

A very fine writer and historian, James Burnham, recently did this in National Review magazine. He pointed out that our leaders "think of detente as a diplomatic equivalent of a business deal." Each side has its own special interests but they agree to function within the rules of the marketplace — something for something. Each will receive some of what it wants, but each will in turn give something.

In the case of detente, the plus for both sides is believed to be some assurance against that horror of horrors — nuclear war. With that agreed upon, we hope for eventual trade, cultural exchange and, in time, legitimate friendship as we get to know each other better.

That is the way we see detente. Not so with the communists. For them, detente is not a "step toward peace." Nor is it, Mr. Burnham says, "an effort to achieve an evenly balanced equation." It is a way for them to carry on the revolutionary struggle with the advantage for them increased by detente. Indeed, they see the whole arrangement as the result of our weakness. Gus Hall, leader of the Communist Party, U.S.A., has written that detente represents a new "qualitative change in international relations, a deterioration of our strategic situation."

Detente Issue Wears Two Faces

GUS HALL ... Communist Party leader expounds on results of detente ...

It is explained that we have been forced to accept detente on communist terms and they don't lack for evidence to support that claim.

There is our retreat from Indochina, retreat of the West from such important strategic areas as Mozambique and Angola. Then there is the Marxist push in Portugal, the Greek-Turkish trouble in NATO, the oil squeeze on the West, increased communist influence in Italy, France and Britain. We could add the increase in Soviet naval strength, the terrorist activities we seem unable to halt and the Soviet Union's arrogant violations of the SALT agreements on arms limitation. They arm and we limit.

We are blind to reality if we refuse to recognize that detente's usefulness to the Soviet Union is only a cover for their traditional and basic strategy for aggression.

It would appear that our situation is worse than just not recognizing facts.

Not seeing the facts is useful for those who can turn a profit from dealing with the Soviets, even though such trade increases our danger. And, according to Burnham, free world diplomats can use it to cover up their mistakes and hide their "lack of a cohesive policy." In other words, politicians can hide their lack of willingness to be real leaders, their lack of courage and their governing by public opinion polls.

Detente is for the Soviet Union a no-can-lose proposition. It fits their communist dialectic. According to this dialectic, "opposites clash and become ultimately fused into a synthesis on a higher plane."

In Soviet eyes, the primary clash today is between imperialist capitalists and revolutionary workers; the synthesis is the proletarian dictatorship led by the communists.

All communist strategy is conceived against that doctrine or background — and that most assuredly includes detente.

Violation Of Rights

In a recent news story, the Nebraska State Bar Association is quoted: "Nebraska now has the lowest representation of lawyers in the Legislature, of any state. Any further regulation depleting representation would be inconsistent with the public interest."

Is that not a conflict-of-interest statement? Many would say zero representation for lawyers would improve the Legislature. Recently our state court ruled the police could randomly stop drivers and check if they had driver's licenses. To do this, they had to forget about what they learned in law school.

You are innocent until proven guilty. A police officer can stop (arrest) only when he has knowledge of the commission of a crime (misdemeanor or felony). The knock in the middle of the night is not so far away when the highest court in our state permits the violation of a person's civil rights in such an outrageous manner as okaying random highway checks.

Favors Skating Rink

With reference to the article appearing in the Monday, Nov. 10 Star, written by Mark Champion and regarding the need for an ice-skating rink in Lincoln for our hockey team and also available for ice-skating — I genuinely agree with Mark that if we can supply money for the 27th Street Bicentennial fountain, why can't we supply money for our "fountain of youth"?

When my son was a 12-year-old, he was much interested in ice-skating. He attended summer skating school in Green Bay, Wisconsin, where he received more encouragement from John Carlos, his pro. Because there was no ice-skating facility here, and because of his interest in skating, I would take him to Aksarben for lessons and practice. Pershing Auditorium management was not particularly interested in ice-skating. The Lincoln Figure Skating Club tried hard to promote skating, but it was a lost cause, with ice too seldom available.

Can't we encourage and promote this worthy cause? Let's get behind Mark Champion and our hockey team and promote his cause.

One Typical Day

Picture a young Nebraska farmer in a field of corn waiting to be husked. He has a husking pin and cotton flannel mittens, a wagon and sideboard. Let the ears fly—bang!—two or three a minute or more.

He is young, say, 25, slim and a hard worker. He can come in in the morning with a 100-bushel load, come to the house, put a small pumpkin pie under his belt, go out and unload, with a shovel, mind you. He can come in and eat a big dinner the good wife has prepared — meat, potatoes, vegetables, and more pumpkin pie. He goes out in the afternoon and repeats. Comes in about 4:30, unloads, puts the horses up and milks five or six cows, does the rest of the chores, comes to supper, then reads his paper.

This is a typical Nebraska farmer. Don't fool yourself. A farmer is no dummy. It takes brains to farm the good earth and not abuse it.

A Time For Gratitude

Have we all checked off our blessings lately? Since Thanksgiving is just around the corner, it's a good time to be aware of the care God has given us.

The earliest Thanksgiving in America was kept by the Pilgrims at Plymouth in 1621, in spite of a winter of great hardships. The Indians shared this first thankful feast of wild turkey.

In 1863 the holiday was officially proclaimed on Nov. 26, but since 1941 by joint resolution of Congress, the holiday falls on the fourth Thursday in November.

The customary turkey is a reminder of the four wild turkeys the Pilgrims and Indians shared in humble gratitude to a God who had walked beside them during many days of hunger and cold. They found they could still be thankful for the better days. And so should we also be grateful for our blessings, large or small.

Continued Opposition

Claude Canaday writes (Nov. 7) of unhappy refugees. How would he feel if day in and day out he could expect a phone call or telegram informing him that his brother, son or some other relative had been executed? How would he feel if, after many years, he could still remember the bang of the rifles that took away the lives of three peasant boys, one 18 years old and the other two, 17 years old? We knew the trial was to start at eight o'clock, but the graves were already dug at seven o'clock.

How can the American Revolution be compared with Castro's? Has anyone ever heard of the American revolutionary government having thousands executed after victory?

As long as there is injustice in Cuba, we Cubans who believe in justice will oppose actions that ignore the right of the Cuban people to be free.

THE FORD TEAM: STILL PLAYING WITHOUT HELMETS

KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

Ford's Vulnerability

WASHINGTON — When "The Making of the President 1976" is written, or some other book like it, the days and weeks of early November, 1975, will doubtless figure prominently in chronicling the fate of Gerald Ford.

These were the days when Mr. Ford stumbled over more than his syntax; they were days when Vice President Nelson Rockefeller announced that he did not want to be considered for renomination (while his aides put out the word that the President was really not very bright); they were also the days when at least three Republican senators — Baker of Tennessee, Mathias of Maryland and Percy of Illinois — gave some public or private indication that they might run in the spring primaries against the incumbent President of their own party. To assert himself, Mr. Ford has been obliged to indicate that he will run in all 30 state GOP presidential primaries.

It is virtually unprecedented — at least in recent times. The political revolt that ultimately toppled Lyndon Johnson in the March, 1968, New Hampshire primary had relatively little form or substance in the late autumn of 1967. Hardly anybody took Eugene McCarthy seriously. Robert Kennedy was still quiet, biding his time. And in Hubert Humphrey, Lyndon Johnson had a loyal vice president.

Gerald Ford, by way of contrast, must take stock of a frighteningly different situation. First, the implications of Vice President Rockefeller's decision to take up a posture of political independence. Washington already hums with speculation that Rockefeller will jump into the late spring primaries if Gerald Ford is irretrievably defeated in the opening contests. And in the meantime, the Rockefeller Republicans — hitherto an important organizational element of Ford intra-party strength from New England to the Midwest — are clearly free agents once again.

Secondly, Mr. Ford's principal party opponent, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, is now close to Mr. Ford in some polls and ahead of him in one or two. Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss is already describing Reagan as a rougher potential opponent in the general election because he would not have to defend the Ford administration's record.

Lastly, a large element of the feudal baronage of the Grand Old Party — senators, governors and other power brokers — are openly in revolt or maneuvering behind the thinnest of political veils. Each new senator who hints at a primary bid rips another seam from the robes of Mr. Ford's presidential and party authority.

Consider: if this is the situation that prevails three and one half months before New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary on Feb. 24, what will the circumstances be in February, March or April? If Gerald Ford cannot win a fairly decisive victory in Florida and New Hampshire, the whole pack will be upon him. And once the aura of presidential office has been thus stripped away, it will be difficult to restore. After Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson were badly injured in the New Hampshire Democratic primaries of 1952 and 1968, they both announced their retirement. The chance of Gerald Ford's similar retirement is becoming steadily more possible.

Does this mean that Ronald Reagan is the probable Republican nominee? Perhaps, but Reagan, like Eugene McCarthy in 1968, may be out front too soon. If he unhorses President Ford in the early primaries, he too will have to face a pack of new opponents, possibly including Vice President Rockefeller.

Moreover, after such a brutal, fratricidal clash, the Republican nomination might not be worth very much (barring the realignment possibility of Reaganite fusion with Wallace forces). My own feeling is that Ronald Reagan remains unaware of the magnitude of either his undertaking or opportunity.

San Francisco — "I intend to become just a plain housewife." Who said that? Elizabeth Taylor, that's who. Awoke early and found in the paper that Richard Burton is laying a diamond ring worth a million dollars on Liz. May she wear it in good health.

The "just a plain housewife" quote I found in the clips. When she said that Elizabeth was walking down Sugar Plum Lane with Eddie Fisher. That was the last plain talk we heard from Just Plain Liz.

She shed Ed. Married Richard Burton while he was still in his Roman armor. Since then the marriage has been up and down like a yo-yo. But you can't say it's been plain.

From the outside Just Plain Housewife looks like a meaty part in the great soap opera of life. But—

The plain housewife rises in the morning. She takes the curlers from her plain hair. She looks in the mirror and sees her plain face.

From somewhere in the house, the children's voices come like bird song.

"Let me have the ax! You said it was MY turn!" Whack!

Did Liz's decision to become a plain housewife electrify the nation? Set bluebirds winging for the chicks who are giving The Best Years Of Their Lives?

The clips don't say. At the time, Fisher was making heavy bread at Las Vegas. I wouldn't imagine the plain housewife gig included running the mop over the kitchen floor.

Back to the breakfast table for Plain Jane, Housewife. Across the table Plain Joe is hidden behind a coffee cup and the sports page.

Plain Jane: "Plain Joe, aren't you happy you married a plain housewife instead of a glamorous movie star?"

Plain Joe: "Holy mother, is it that late already?"

He rushes out. Offstage we hear a car starting and then — crash!

Plain Joe (from offstage): "Who in this and that left the garden wheelbarrow in the middle of the driveway?"

We gave Elizabeth front page coverage when she wed Ed and made the speech about her future.

She was saying the glamor life (that all plain housewives envied) was not really that great. That housewives were the ones who had the Best Things in Life.

At this point housewives across the nation put down the paper and say: "Oh yeah? Wait until she puts three loads of clothes through the washer every day." That's what I think.

The housewives of the nation waited for the cake to fall. And when Liz, the Plain Housewife, became a simple, barefoot glamor queen again, they said: "See? What did I tell you?"

Things were back on the track. The plain housewife's life is not enriched by adding another plain Jane to the kitchen cabinet.

What we want to read under the dryer are stories of a Jane whose plainness you can't see through a million dollars worth of diamonds.

San Francisco — "I intend to become just a plain housewife." Who said that? Elizabeth Taylor, that's who. Awoke early and found in the paper that Richard Burton is laying a diamond ring worth a million dollars on Liz. May she wear it in good health.

The "just a plain housewife" quote I found in the clips. When she said that Elizabeth was walking down Sugar Plum Lane with Eddie Fisher. That was the last plain talk we heard from Just Plain Liz.

She shed Ed. Married Richard Burton while he was still in his Roman armor. Since then the marriage has been up and down like a yo-yo. But you can't say it's been plain.

From the outside Just Plain Housewife looks like a meaty part in the great soap opera of life. But—

The plain housewife rises in the morning. She takes the curlers from her plain hair. She looks in the mirror and sees her plain face.

From somewhere in the house, the children's voices come like bird song.

"Let me have the ax! You said it was MY turn!" Whack!

Did Liz's decision to become a plain housewife electrify the nation? Set bluebirds winging for the chicks who are giving The Best Years Of Their Lives?

The clips don't say. At the time, Fisher was making heavy bread at Las Vegas. I wouldn't imagine the plain housewife gig included running the mop over the kitchen floor.

Back to the breakfast table for Plain Jane, Housewife. Across the table Plain Joe is hidden behind a coffee cup and the sports page.

Plain Jane: "Plain Joe, aren't you happy you married a plain housewife instead of a glamorous movie star?"

Plain Joe: "Holy mother, is it that late already?"

He rushes out. Offstage we hear a car starting and then—crash!

Plain Joe (from offstage): "Who in this and that left the garden wheelbarrow in the middle of the driveway?"

Plain Jane: "Well, here goes for another plain day."

We gave Elizabeth front page coverage when she wed Ed and made the speech about her future.

She was saying the glamor life (that all plain housewives envied) was not really that great. That housewives were the ones who had the Best Things in Life.

At this point housewives across the nation put down the paper and say: "Oh yeah? Wait until she puts three loads of clothes through the washer every day." That's what I think.

The housewives of the nation waited for the cake to fall. And when Liz, the Plain Housewife, became a simple, barefoot glamor queen again, they said: "See? What did I tell you?"

Things were back on the track. The plain housewife's life is not enriched by adding another plain Jane to the kitchen cabinet.

What we want to read under the dryer are stories of a Jane whose plainness you can't see through a million dollars worth of diamonds.

Wednesday was billed as "final report" day for the 1976 United Way campaign. However, the fund-raising drive to support some 25 human service agencies and programs, still is $12,000 short of its nearly $1.5 million goal.

The campaign stands at 98.8%, with pledges of $1,480,122 toward the $1,498,100 goal raised.

Despite expressing pleasure at the record amount of pledges, campaign chairman Jack Wells cautioned against overconfidence.

"The final percent or two is traditionally the hardest portion of the entire campaign," he said. "We're going to hit the top, but we need everyone's help."

Last year's campaign fell short of its $1,430,206 goal by approximately $47,000 and allocations to agencies and programs were cut a 3.4%.

Boosting the amount pledged to date were gifts from Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and Kawasaki.

Participating in the campaign for the first time, Kawasaki reported $9,051 pledged by 299 employees.

LTT recorded the largest single gift with $91,955 from the firm, employees and members of Communication Workers of America 7470, a 10% increase from last year.

Goodyear and members of United Rubber Workers 286 contributed $73,385 in the city's largest employee drive.

Those companies were honored at Wednesday's report luncheon.

Also cited were federal employees who contributed $38,498, an 11% increase from last year.

Other firms honored were Abel Co., Brunswick, Dorsey Laboratories, Clark and Enersen, Nebraska Neon Sign, National Bank of Commerce, KOLN Television, Norden Laboratories, Outboard Marine, Metro Mail Advertising, Instrumentation Specialties and Burlington Northern.

Law Officials Say Hot Pursuit Used Only For An Emergency

High speed chases are sometimes unavoidable and only used when major crimes are involved or lives are endangered, law enforcement officials said Thursday.

The remarks came in response to a Cornhusker Motor Club request that law enforcement agencies end or reevaluate what the club called "hot pursuit" tactics.

A National Highway Traffic Safety Administration study concluded that 300-400 persons a year are killed in accidents involving hot pursuit, Club President Robert C. Hastings said.

Five Omaha traffic fatalities this year resulted from hot pursuit or related tactics, he said.

Police Chief George Hansen

said no pursuit policy has been developed since he became chief but that one probably will be developed "in the near future."

"Quite frankly, I'm of the opinion that any high speed chase in the city is extremely dangerous and should be undertaken only when it's a very serious matter," he said.

Hansen said that if police have the license number and have identified the driver "we'll catch up with him sometime anyway."

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Del Zieman said the sheriff's office permits hot pursuit if the officer "knows that the individual has committed a felony or that he is endangering the lives of citizens by his driving."

Driverless Bus Halted At Gateway

Larry Nobbe, 28, was driving his van from the Gateway Shopping Center Thursday when he was confronted by an approaching Waverly School District bus without any passengers — and without a driver.

Nobbe parked his van, ran the bus down, opened the bus door, "which is not easy when you're running like hell," and stopped the vehicle.

While all this was going on, the bus driver was in the state motor vehicles licensing office applying for a bus driver's license.

Suit Seeks Damages In Fatal Crash

A lawsuit seeking $552,275 in damages from a Wichita, Kan., truck driver and his employer, Prickett and Sons, Inc., of Plainville, Kan., was filed in U.S. District Court Thursday on behalf of Dale E. Damon, a 1974 traffic accident victim.

The suit alleges that Damon was driving a tractor-trailer north on Hwy. 183 on July 8, 1974, when truck driver John Gaffney turned his tractor-trailer south onto Hwy. 183 from an I-80 off ramp.

Damon's vehicle collided with the trailer, tipped into a ditch and trapped him in the cab, the suit says. It says the cab caught fire, killing Damon.

Charging that negligence by Gaffney was the "sole and proximate cause" of the accident, the suit seeks $500,000 for Damon's widow, Darlene J. Damon, $50,000 for "great mental and physical pain and anguish" suffered by Damon before his death and $2,275 for funeral expenses.

Omaha Chief Says 'Hot Pursuit' Not Factor In Crash Fatal To 3

Omaha (AP) — Police Chief Richard Andersen says "hot pursuit" or related tactics were not involved early Tuesday morning when an Omaha police cruiser slammed into another auto, killing three persons.

Anderson made his comments

Thursday, answering a Cornhusker Motor Club statement urging law enforcement agencies to re-evaluate and possibly end tactics involved in high-speed chases.

In a news release Wednesday, Robert C. Hastings, president of the 137,000-member motor club, said, "Omaha has counted five traffic deaths this year resulting from two separate incidents of hot pursuit or related tactics, and the victims were all innocent bystanders."

However, Andersen said the officer involved in Tuesday's crash was answering a routine call at normal status, and did not have his car's red lights flashing or siren on.

At the same time, Public Safety Director Richard Roth said, "Because of the nature of law enforcement, there are times when you must pursue. It wouldn't be reasonable, for example, to order that an officer not pursue a suspect over 45 or 55 miles per hour."

Roth said suspects running from murders, armed robberies and rapes should normally be pursued.

"There's always a chance of death or injury in a high-speed chase. We hope the officers' common sense, training and experience will help them make the right decision," Roth added.

County Board Approves New Insurance Plan

The Lancaster County Board voted Thursday to accept an insurance bid from Blue Cross-Blue Shield for an employee health insurance package.

The regular board meeting Monday was recessed to Thursday to give the county commissioners time to determine how much the county could afford to pay for the plan.

The board agreed to pay 67% of the employee insurance, the same percentage it pays under the present health insurance package.

The new insurance will become effective Jan. 15 for county employees who chose that benefit. Currently more than 650 county employees are covered under the group plan.

Elected officers were Jerry Johnston, president of the board; Brad Kistler, first vice president; Shirley Daugherty, second vice president; Linda Pfeifer, secretary; Dick Longacre, treasurer; and Sand Grossbart, chairman of the board.

New board of directors members are Al Hansen, Bill Smith and Mike Fosdick. Re-elected members are Lupe Everman, Dee Everitt, Jo Smith and Ted Schaffer.

High speed chases are sometimes unavoidable and only used when major crimes are involved or lives are endangered, law enforcement officials said Thursday.

The remarks came in response to a Cornhusker Motor Club request that law enforcement agencies end or reevaluate what the club called "hot pursuit" tactics.

A National Highway Traffic Safety Administration study concluded that 300-400 persons a year are killed in accidents involving hot pursuit, Club President Robert C. Hastings said.

Five Omaha traffic fatalities this year resulted from hot pursuit or related tactics, he said.

Police Chief George Hansen

said no pursuit policy has been developed since he became chief but that one probably will be developed "in the near future."

"Quite frankly, I'm of the opinion that any high speed chase in the city is extremely dangerous and should be undertaken only when it's a very serious matter," he said.

Hansen said that if police have the license number and have identified the driver "we'll catch up with him sometime anyway."

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Del Ziemann said the sheriff's office permits hot pursuit if the officer "knows that the individual has committed a felony or that he is endangering the lives of citizens by his driving."

Deciding when to pursue a fleeing suspect "puts the officer in a difficult situation," he said.

"If you stopped and it turned out that the guy had kidnapped somebody and if he later killed them, what would you do? How would you feel?" Ziemann asked.

Col. C.P. Karthaus of the State Patrol said troopers are trained in "pursuit techniques and practices" and that the patrol "depends a great deal on the good judgment of the officer at the time."

Karthaus said troopers are required to operate their cars within the law except in emergencies. The troopers are required to "exercise due caution" and "keep mindful of what can happen," he said.

Driverless Bus Halted At Gateway

Larry Nobbe, 28, was driving his van from the Gateway Shopping Center Thursday when he was confronted by an approaching Waverly School District bus without any passengers — and without a driver.

Nobbe parked his van, ran the bus down, opened the bus door, "which is not easy when you're running like hell," and stopped the vehicle.

While all this was going on, the bus driver was in the state motor vehicles licensing office applying for a bus driver's license.

Suit Seeks Damages In Fatal Crash

A lawsuit seeking $552,275 in damages from a Wichita, Kan., truck driver and his employer, Prickett and Sons, Inc., of Plainville, Kan., was filed in U.S. District Court Thursday on behalf of Dale E. Damon, a 1974 traffic accident victim.

The suit alleges that Damon was driving a tractor-trailer north on Hwy. 183 on July 8, 1974, when truck driver John Gaffney turned his tractor-trailer south onto Hwy. 183 from an I-80 off ramp.

Damon's vehicle collided with the trailer, tipped into a ditch and trapped him in the cab, the suit says. It says the cab caught fire, killing Damon.

Charging that negligence by Gaffney was the "sole and proximate cause" of the accident, the suit seeks $500,000 for Damon's widow, Darlene J. Damon, $50,000 for "great mental and physical pain and anguish" suffered by Damon before his death and $2,275 for funeral expenses.

Omaha Chief Says 'Hot Pursuit' Not Factor In Crash Fatal To 3

Omaha (AP) — Police Chief Richard Andersen says "hot pursuit" or related tactics were not involved early Tuesday morning when an Omaha police cruiser slammed into another auto, killing three persons.

Anderson made his comments

Thursday, answering a Cornhusker Motor Club statement urging law enforcement agencies to re-evaluate and possibly end tactics involved in high-speed chases.

In a news release Wednesday, Robert C. Hastings, president of the 137,000-member motor club, said, "Omaha has counted five traffic deaths this year resulting from two separate incidents of hot pursuit or related tactics, and the victims were all innocent bystanders."

However, Andersen said the officer involved in Tuesday's crash was answering a routine call at normal status, and did not have his car's red lights flashing or siren on.

Retarded Citizens Group Honors Local Residents

Al and Donna Mach were given the Persons of the Year Award Tuesday night at the annual meeting of the Capital Association for Retarded Citizens.

Tom Fricke, manager of the Lincoln Hilton Hotel, received the employer of the year award. Eileen Brown, a teacher in the training for Occupational Proficiency (TOP) program, received the teacher of the year award.

Professional of the year was Region V social service worker Mike Vaughn.

Other recipients were Jack Carroll of the Top program, good guy award; Joyce Urborn of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation, good gal award; Leland Olsen of the vocational service center, volunteer of the year; and JoAnn Ninneman, advocate of the year.

The Eagles Auxiliary Aerie 147, Capital City Footprinters and Lincoln South Optimist Club were named organizations of the year.

At the same time, Public Safety Director Richard Roth said, "Because of the nature of law enforcement, there are times when you must pursue. It wouldn't be reasonable, for example, to order that an officer not pursue a suspect over 45 or 55 miles per hour."

Roth said suspects running from murders, armed robberies and rapes should normally be pursued.

"There's always a chance of death or injury in a high-speed chase. We hope the officers' common sense, training and experience will help them make the right decision," Roth added.

County Board Approves New Insurance Plan

The Lancaster County Board voted Thursday to accept an insurance bid from Blue Cross-Blue Shield for an employee health insurance package.

The regular board meeting Monday was recessed to Thursday to give the county commissioners time to determine how much the county could afford to pay for the plan.

The board agreed to pay 67% of the employee insurance, the same percentage it pays under the present health insurance package.

The new insurance will become effective Jan. 15 for county employees who chose that benefit. Currently more than 650 county employees are covered under the group plan.

Elected officers were Jerry Johnston, president of the board; Brad Kistler, first vice president; Shirley Daugherty, second vice president; Linda Pfeifer, secretary; Dick Longacre, treasurer; and Sand Grossbart, chairman of the board.

New board of directors members are Al Hansen, Bill Smith and Mike Fosdick. Re-elected members are Lupe Everman, Dee Everitt, Jo Smith and Ted Schafer.

Mayor Presents Views To Class

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Mayor Helen Boosalis told a social behavior class that one of the goals of her administration is to have "a responsive and open city government."

And to the mayor, she's been in office almost six months, an open government means more than a campaign promise. It means going out and meeting Lincolnites, at clubs, at meetings and in the classroom, where she went this week.

Many of the some 60 students in the Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College class weren't quite clear what the mayor meant by "an open government."

She tried to explain. "It means that we should listen better."

Listening, she said, through the collective voices of citizens involved in the Goals and Policies Committee, a committee she urged the students to attend.

City Hall needs to listen to the people, she said, since she believes it hasn't always been so open in the past.

Mrs. Boosalis told the students, many of them adults, that she has taken a more aggressive role in leading city government.

"The mayor should be more aggressive in proposing legislation to the City Council," she said, inferring that her predecessor, Sam Schwartzkopf, was not.

Additionally, Mayor Boosalis said she thinks it was a mistake when the mayor was removed as the presiding officer of the City Council about five years ago. That contact with the lawmakers is necessary, she argued, in order for the mayor to keep in touch with what's going on.

Since being elected, Mrs. Boosalis sits in on all council meetings, "so I get the same effect."

When one student asked the mayor to pinpoint what the city's biggest problem is, a flabbergasted mayor responded, "Oh, dear. You tell me — you're the citizens."

'PROFESSOR BOOSALIS' . . . guest lecturer at SeTech social behavior class.

So, some of them did. Most of them kept quiet.

The students who talked said they thought unemployment is a problem, that parking downtown is scarce, that the snow removal program could be improved, that utility rates were high.

Mrs. Boosalis said she thinks "one of the critical problems" facing the city is the lack of lower to moderate housing

"How you solve that I don't know," she said, pointing out that the city's Urban Development Department is working to rehabilitate older homes and neighborhoods.

"Energy is also a problem," the mayor said.

When the class's instructor, Gerald Egan, asked the mayor if she is satisfied that the new Police Review Board will adequately deal with citizen complaints against the police, Mrs. Boosalis voiced confidence that it would.

Under the procedure set out by the City Council, the police department will have an opportunity to check out complaints before a hearing is held.

"I'm pretty satisfied that with the kind of police chief we have, any grievances we have will be satisfied by internal investigation," she said.

Egan asked, "You like our new police chief then?"

"Oh, yeah," laughed the mayor.

Mrs. Smith Uncertain Of Candidates

By TOM COOK

Outstate Nebraska Bureau Blair — The great GOP challenge in the 1976 presidential campaign is to patch the conservative coalition that was built and shattered by Richard Nixon.

That is the opinion of Margaret Chase Smith former senator from Maine, who also reflects uncertainty in the Republican Party by refusing to support a candidate for next year's race.

Ronald Reagan is making a strong showing in his unofficial quest for the party nod, but Mrs. Smith is unsure of the political substance of the former California governor's ideas.

Raps Ford Also However, President Gerald Ford fared little better from the veteran Republican lawmaker, who will conclude a week's stay at Dana College today.

Benjamin Stern Services Held; Taught At UNO

Omaha (AP) — Graveside services for Benjamin Stern, a retired Army colonel and former assistant mathematics and physics professor at the University of Omaha, were held here Thursday.

Stern, 75, died Wednesday of cancer. He joined O.U., now the University of Nebraska at Omaha, after retiring from the Army in 1954.

Stern received numerous awards during his military career, including the Bronze Star, Legion of Merit and Croix de Guerre.

Mrs. Smith, who holds an unprecedented record of answering 2,941 consecutive roll call votes in the Senate, criticized Ford for his repeated absences from Washington.

She said one of her biggest regrets was supporting the presidential campaign of Nixon, whom she thought had outgrown "his aloofness and begun to listen to the people."

It was "refreshing" when Ford took office, but his "untimely pardon" of his predecessor shook Mrs. Smith's confidence.

'Expected Too Much' "I felt he would grow in the job, but he hasn't done so. Maybe I expected too much," she said.

Although she praised Ford as an excellent House minority leader and "a generally decent man," she wants the Republicans to select the best person for the office.

"I would like to see some competition at both political conventions. I don't want to see the nominations all locked up," she said.

Americans have lost respect for government, Mrs. Smith said, and a strong leader must be found to rekindle their faith.

Mrs. Smith said there is a conservative majority in the United States, and that a shift in party identification is probable.

Decries 3rd Party "We could well afford a political realignment, but it must be done carefully," she said. "I hope we never go into a third party."

Plaintiff Aids Defendant, But Still Wins Judgment

It was a case where the plaintiff helped out the defendant during the trial and still won the case.

Small claims court was designed to be informal and Lancaster County Judge Ralph Slocum believes that the informality helps to get out all the facts in a case.

This week a defendant was having trouble getting his point across in English.

Judge Slocum asked him if he would feel easier explaining his side in his native tongue, Russian.

If the Democrats can keep Gov. Wallace under their wing, Mrs. Smith said it would have a negative effect on GOP hopes of reuniting the 1968 and 1972 conservative coalition.

She hopes southern Democrats will eventually be absorbed into the GOP, but said it will have to begin at county and state levels.

If southern congressmen switched political allegiance, they would lose party seniority and therefore the chairmanships of important committees they now control, she said.

The only problem — the judge doesn't understand Russian.

But the plaintiff, local attorney Simon Galter, came to the rescue and translated the defendant's testimony to the judge.

The process worked just fine. The defendant kept assuring the judge that what Galter translated was correct, and the judge got his facts.

And Galter got his judgment — $150 for an attorney fee he believed the man owed him.

Villager Motel Is Suing LES Over Rate System

A local motel and convention center is asking the Lancaster County District Court to review the rate system currently used by the Lincoln Electric System (LES).

In a suit filed Wednesday in District Court, the Cotner Investment Corporation, parent company of the Villager Motel, contends that LES has violated an agreement by changing their billing policy.

For more than five years LES billed the Villager Motel on a "totalized" basis, totaling the electricity measured by four separate meters at the 250 room motel and convention complex, 5200 O St.

That method gave the motel the benefit of being a "primary metered" customer and meant a savings, according to the suit.

This March, LES took out the totalizer equipment and began billing the motel on the individual meter readings, according to the suit.

The change in policy has resulted in bills more than $6,000 higher than they would have been under the "totalized" system, the suit contends.

Monthly increases under the new system ranged from less than $400 to more than $1,000, according to information presented in the suit.

The change in policy was made for the "sole purpose of avoiding the defendant's contractual service obligation," and "deprives the plaintiff and other similarly situated of the benefit of their substantial investment in electrical equipment," the suit contends.

Judge William Hastings issued a temporary injunction ordering LES not to disconnect electric service until after the issue can be resolved in court.

At the same time the motel will be paying the monthly LES billings into the Clerk of the District Court, according to Hastings' order.

This March, LES took out the totalizer equipment and began billing the motel on the individual meter readings, according to the suit.

The change in policy has resulted in bills more than $6,000 higher than they would have been under the "totalized" system, the suit contends.

Monthly increases under the new system ranged from less than $400 to more than $1,000, according to information presented in the suit.

The change in policy was made for the "sole purpose of avoiding the defendant's contractual service obligation," and "deprives the plaintiff and other similarly situated of the benefit of their substantial investment in electrical equipment," the suit contends.

Judge William Hastings issued a temporary injunction ordering LES not to disconnect electric service until after the issue can be resolved in court.

At the same time the motel will be paying the monthly LES billings into the Clerk of the District Court, according to Hastings' order.

Lack Of Public Confidence Worries Education Official

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Schools must reflect and channel change to affect the "general turmoil of our society," the National School Boards Association president said Thursday in Lincoln.

Cecil L. Gilliat of Shelby City, N.C., said the "most important issue" today is lack of confidence in governmental agencies, including school boards.

But a national poll shows "The public does not understand or appreciate boards of education," the Kansas native told 700 members of the Nebraska State School Boards Association (NSSBA) and the Nebraska

Association of School Administrators (NASA) at their joint annual fall conference.

"I can't report to you that all is well with boards of education," said Gilliat, himself a 22-year board veteran. He cited problems such as teacher strikes, collective bargaining and changing enrollments.

And tensions across America between school boards and superintendents complicate the issues, he said. Erasing those loggerheads also requires a commitment from an informed public, to reassert local control of public education.

Stronger Control

Gilliat called for a bicentennial effort to strengthen local boards' influence, saying there "must be no doubt who is and should be in control."

The public and educators must deal with the "impact of the courts, (which are) not backing the administrators, not backing the teachers" in decisions that make their jobs increasingly difficult.

A retired florist, Gilliat said just as he "can't scatter seeds on ill-prepared soil," neither can school boards deviate from their aim "to make children grow."

Message Same

Next addressing the general assembly, Omaha Westside Community Schools Supt. H. Vaughn Phelps too stressed local control, which he said many forces now try to weaken.

That would disrupt schools' preparation of children for "affection" lives, said Phelps, also national president of the American Association of School Administrators (AASA).

Without reasserting leadership, Phelps said, "certainly teachers will control education, and not the public." He contrasted strong teacher unity with school boards and administrators who disagree totally or treat each other as enemies.

H. Vaughn Phelps

Nebraska was one of the first states to pass a negotiations or bargaining law for teachers, Phelps said, which upped prestige of teachers but also changed their behavior and relationships with their superiors.

Phelps urged a renewed three-way allegiance "instead of reducing leadership and the decision-making process," which he said only confuses parents and the public.

Alienated Managers

Without such cooperation, he said, schools will alienate their top managers, and potential leaders in school systems won't seek administrative positions as a result.

As defensive mid-level administrators now begin to seek their own collective bargaining legislation, Phelps noted that would weaken the effective operation of educational plans in each school.

NASA President John Prasch, superintendent of the Lincoln Public Schools, lauded Phelps for using his AASA presidency to exert national leadership.

Citing the appropriateness of the administrators' and school board members' joint convention, Prasch said, "Unless we work together, we will not accomplish the things that need to be done for the boys and girls of our state."

Sculptor Will Visit Third City

Grand Island — John Raimondi, creator of the Interstate 80 bicentennial sculpture "Erma's Desire," will be in the Grand Island area next week to discuss his controversial work with the people in the area.

It has been proposed that his sculpture be located near an I-80 interchange south of Grand Island, but many residents of the area are opposed to having the futuristic art work located there.

Monday night the 27-year-old artist and lecturer will be in Gibbon to talk about contemporary art and the development of "Erma's Desire."

His 7:30 p.m. presentation at the Gibbon High School Auditorium is being sponsored by the "Give Erma a Home Committee." This group has indicated it would welcome having the sculpture relocated near Gibbon.

"One of the most important aspects of the Nebraska sculpture project all along has been the Artist in Residence program which insures that Nebraskans will have the opportunity to meet the artists and question them about their work," said Art Thompson, project director.

Weston Webb, chairman of the host committee in Grand Island, and Thompson expressed the hope that persons on both sides of the controversy will take advantage of the opportunity to get acquainted with the artist.

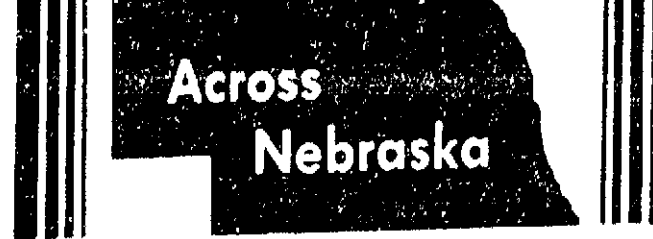

Other opportunities the public will have to meet with Raimondi, currently an artist in residence at the Portland, Maine, Regional Vocational Technical Center, include:

Tuesday — 2 p.m., Hall County Board of Supervisors, courthouse at Grand Island; 7:30 to 8 p.m., public reception First Federal Building, Grand Island.

Thursday — 10 a.m., Central City High School; afternoon, Aurora High School; evening, First National Bank reception in Aurora.

Monday noon Raimondi will meet with the Grand Island Rotarians and Tuesday noon he will be a guest at the Sertoma Club in the Third City.

The artist will spend Wednesday in Lincoln for a meeting with the Sculpture Corporation.

New Laurel School Proposed

Laurel (UPI) — Voters in the Laurel-Concord School District in northeast Nebraska will ballot Dec. 9 in a special election on a proposed $825,000 bond issue for a new elementary school at Laurel. If approved, the bonds would increase the property tax levy by 7.5 mills. The new school would accommodate about 200 students and would replace a structure built in 1906.

Baptists Moving Quarters To Topeka

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Representatives of member churches of the Kansas-Nebraska Convention of Southern Baptists voted Wednesday to move headquarters from Wichita to Topeka. Plans call for construction of a $400,000 building on Topeka's west side. The move would place the headquarters closer to a majority of Southern Baptist churches in the Kansas-Nebraska area. During the convention delegates heard Anita Bryant in a two-hour presentation of religious songs and inspirational talks.

Tentative OK Given Jail Plans

Grand Island (UPI) — The City Council has formally approved plans for a $1.7 million jail facility and the Hall County Board gave tentative approval. The board will take final action within the next two weeks. Board chairman Bob Boehm said the council action was more than he had hoped for "and it looks like we are on our way" in getting the joint city-council facility built.

Boys Town Suggests Millard Alter Plans

Omaha (AP) — Boys Town officials have suggested that Millard school officials consider building their new high school on the south side of Pacific Street at about 156th St.

The suggested switch is aimed at having Millard drop its condemnation efforts on a site northwest of 144th and Pacific Sts.

Boys Town owns both tracts in question, and would sell the western-most site for a "fraction of the cost" of the 144th St. site, according to the Rev. Robert Hupp, Boys Town director.

However, Robert Bartels, president of the Millard School Board, said the condemnation attempts will continue.

"The other land is less desirable, and we're not all that sure that it would be a better choice for students and for the taxpayers," said Bartels, adding, "Besides, we don't know for sure the land there would really be cheaper."

Boys Town is seeking an injunction to delay the condemna-

Omaha Woman Gets Probation In Manslaughter

Omaha (AP) — Julia Caniglia, 28, of Omaha, who pleaded no contest to manslaughter in connection with a shooting death, has been placed on two years' probation by District Judge Rudolph Tesar.

Tesar told the woman, "I don't ordinarily put people on probation for shooting someone, but that's what I'm going to do. You've never been in trouble before and you'd better not be in trouble again."

She was charged in connection with the death of Michael G. Dokmonovich, 22, also of Omaha.

Dyas Leads Zorinsky In Two Different Polls

By The Associated Press

Two separate polls show former state Democratic party head Hess Dyas of Lincoln with an edge over Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky in the race for the 1976 Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

One of the polls was conducted for Dyas, who has already announced his candidacy, the other by the Nebraska Young Democrats.

In Dyas's poll, sample ballots were distributed to 500 persons statewide.

According to the survey, 44.3% of the Democrats polled marked Dyas's name, while 35.1% went for Zorinsky, who is a registered Republican. Officials said 20.6% of those participating declined to mark either candidates' name or were undecided.

Jack Cassidy, who is heading the Dyas campaign in Douglas County, said the poll showed Dyas leading in the state's 1st and 3rd Districts, but trailing in the 2nd District, which includes Omaha.

The Young Democrats' poll was conducted among the Democratic county chairmen and the party's central committee members. It showed Dyas leading Zorinsky 102-17, officials announced Thursday.

In the meantime, Zorinsky said he will announce his future political plans during his regular, weekly news conference next Wednesday.

35 Laid Off As Cushman Ends Golf Cart Line

The jobs of about 35 Cushman Motors employees were terminated Thursday with the discontinuation of the firm's golf cart production.

Dean Cooper, director of industrial relations at Outboard Marine Corp., of which Cushman is a subsidiary, said the layoffs were part of anticipated cutbacks resulting from ceasing golf cart manufacture, which was announced several months ago.

He said no other employment cutbacks are anticipated at the plant in the near future.

Tornado Cost $125 Million

Omaha (AP) — It has been six months since the May tornado that devastated a part of Omaha and an insurance official said the best estimate of damage is $125 million.

Richard Windrum, regional manager of the General Adjustment Bureau Inc., made this report to the mayor's disaster review task force Wednesday.

He said $69,248,500 either has been or will be paid by insurance companies, but $35,751,500 in losses were not insured.

Chicago Chapter Backs Nebraska Gag Resistance

Chicago (AP) — The Headline Club chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists (Sigma Delta Chi) has criticized a gag order issued in the preliminary hearing of Erwin Charles Simants, 29, of Sutherland, Neb.

The Chicago group called upon the judge to rescind his order barring publication of some information because "an infringement on the free flow of information anywhere in the court system is harmful to the proper functioning of government."

Simants is charged with six counts of first degree murder in the deaths of the Henry Kellie family in Sutherland.

A group of Nebraska news organizations has appealed the gag order to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lincoln County Court Judge Harold Ruff initially issued the order which later was modified by Lincoln County District Court Judge Hugh Stuart.

Tiny Tot Park Made

Vienna (UPI) — The city of Vienna has a park that is off-limits to children who can walk. The facility was established for infants at the suggestion of a group of young mothers in the Josetadt District. It was designed with the advice of child psychologists, nursery school teachers and mothers. Facilities include parking space for carriages, crawling lanes and a place to change diapers.

Dyas Leads Zorinsky In Two Different Polls

By The Associated Press

Two separate polls show former state Democratic party head Hess Dyas of Lincoln with an edge over Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky in the race for the 1976 Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

One of the polls was conducted for Dyas, who has already announced his candidacy, the other by the Nebraska Young Democrats.

In Dyas's poll, sample ballots were distributed to 500 persons statewide.

According to the survey, 44.3% of the Democrats polled marked Dyas's name, while 35.1% went for Zorinsky, who is a registered Republican. Officials said 20.6% of those participating declined to mark either candidates' name or were undecided.

Jack Cassidy, who is heading the Dyas campaign in Douglas County, said the poll showed Dyas leading in the state's 1st and 3rd Districts, but trailing in

Chicago Chapter Backs Nebraska Gag Resistance

Chicago (AP) — The Headline Club chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists (Sigma Delta Chi) has criticized a gag order issued in the preliminary hearing of Erwin Charles Simants, 29, of Sutherland, Neb.

The Chicago group called upon the judge to rescind his order barring publication of some information because "an infringement on the free flow of information anywhere in the court system is harmful to the proper functioning of government."

Simants is charged with six counts of first degree murder in the deaths of the Henry Kellie family in Sutherland.

A group of Nebraska news organizations has appealed the gag order to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lincoln County Court Judge Harold Ruff initially issued the order which later was modified by Lincoln County District Court Judge Hugh Stuart.

Tiny Tot Park Made

Vienna (UPI) — The city of Vienna has a park that is off-limits to children who can walk. The facility was established for infants at the suggestion of a group of young mothers in the Josestadt District. It was designed with the advice of child psychologists, nursery school teachers and mothers. Facilities include parking space for carriages, crawling lanes and a place to change diapers.

Omaha Woman Gets Probation In Manslaughter

Omaha (AP) — Julia Caniglia, 28, of Omaha, who pleaded no contest to manslaughter in connection with a shooting death, has been placed on two years' probation by District Judge Rudolph Tesar.

Tesar told the woman, "I don't ordinarily put people on probation for shooting someone, but that's what I'm going to do. You've never been in trouble before and you'd better not be in trouble again."

She was charged in connection with the death of Michael G. Dokmonovich, 22, also of Omaha.

Boys Town Suggests Millard Alter Plans

Omaha (AP) — Boys Town officials have suggested that Millard school officials consider building their new high school on the south side of Pacific Street at about 156th St.

The suggested switch is aimed at having Millard drop its condemnation efforts on a site northwest of 144th and Pacific Sts.

Boys Town owns both tracts in question, and would sell the western-most site for a "fraction of the cost" of the 144th St. site, according to the Rev. Robert Hupp, Boys Town director.

However, Robert Bartels, president of the Millard School Board, said the condemnation attempts will continue.

"The other land is less desirable, and we're not all that sure that it would be a better choice for students and for the taxpayers," said Bartels, adding, "Besides, we don't know for sure the land there would really be cheaper."

Boys Town is seeking an injunction to delay the condemnation.

Tornado Cost $125 Million

Omaha (AP) — It has been six months since the May tornado that devastated a part of Omaha and an insurance official said the best estimate of damage is $125 million.

Richard Windrum, regional manager of the General Adjustment Bureau Inc., made this report to the mayor's disaster review task force Wednesday.

He said $69,248,500 either has been or will be paid by insurance companies, but $55,751,500 in losses were not insured.

"When you have one of these storms once every 30 or 40 years, you would place an unnecessary burden on builders and homeowners if you require them to beef up every building in town," Rogers said.

Omaha Contractor Accused Of Tax Evasion

Omaha (UPI) — A federal grand jury Thursday returned a nine-count indictment against the president of one of the nation's largest construction firms, alleging in part income tax violations of more than $500,000.

The indictment further alleges Fred Hawkins of Omaha profited from some $430,000 in material assets purchased by his company but diverted to his own use.

Daniel Wherry, U.S. attorney for Nebraska, said the indictment capped a four-year investigation by the Internal Revenue Service into the activities of Hawkins, the Hawkins Construction Co. of Omaha, Hawkins Equipment Co. of Omaha, and three farms operated by Hawkins in Nebraska and Kansas.

Hawkins, who is also listed as treasurer of the firm, owns 100% of the company, which has been ranked as high as 235th of the top 400 builders in the United States. The company recently completed the multi-million dollar Omaha-Douglas County Civic Center in downtown Omaha.

Wherry said the time involved in the probe was unusual for the IRS, and that Hawkins, one of Omaha's most prominent civic leaders, was aware of the ongoing investigation.

The grand jury began meeting Tuesday and handed over the indictment Friday to U.S. District Judge Robert V. Denney.

Wherry said Hawkins was expected to appear in court voluntarily, probably a week from next Tuesday.

Hawkins was charged with "willfully and knowingly attempting to evade and defeat over $241,000 in income tax due and owing by Hawkins Construction Co., for the fiscal years 1969, '70, and '71." The indictment also charges that Hawkins himself attempted to "defeat and evade" more than $261,000 of personal income taxes for the calendar years 1969, '70, and '71.

The government further alleged the evasion resulted principally from expenditures for irrigation equipment, grain bins and other miscellaneous items related to Hawkins' farming operations in Guide Rock and Riverton in Nebraska and in Goodland, Kan., totaling more than $469,000.

"These items," the government said, "were illegally deducted as expenses by Hawkins Construction Co., resulting in substantial reduction of income taxes payable by the company."

The alleged false deductions, the government said, resulted in "constructive dividends" to Hawkins of more than $430,000 in material assets for the three years involved. Wherry said the difference between the $469,000 and $430,000 figures was based on the accounting system Hawkins' firm used.

Nitrate Pollution Study Endorsed

A study to pinpoint the sources of and ways to prevent nitrate pollution of groundwater in the Hall County area was endorsed Thursday by the State Resource Development Advisory Committee.

The committee urged the State Natural Resources Commission to grant the Central Platte Natural Resource District $86,250 for a two-year study of nitrate levels.

The study would be conducted by the University of Nebraska Conservation and Survey Division.

The commission is expected to act on the request at its Jan. 14 meeting.

The committee also said that Beverly Hanson, 19, Hastings; Susan Riepe, 18, Arapahoe; Diane Oshlo, 16, Grand Island; and Roger Bissell, 19, Kearney, were named state winners in their 1975 4-H projects.

Kearney State Antelope Claims Papers Removed

Kearney (AP) — Last week's edition of the Kearney State College student newspaper, The Antelope, has caused somewhat of a controversy on campus.

The paper is published each Thursday, and last Thursday was the school's annual Senior Day, in which high school seniors are invited to visit the campus.

The papers were delivered to their normal places for student pickup last Thursday, but some of them disappeared.

The front page of the paper included sketches of a nude man and woman relating to the theme of sexuality.

Newspaper staffers claim that the papers were removed from at least four locations, but only one person, Dave Laubersheimer, director of the Kearney State Student Union, has admitted to removing the papers.

"Censorship was not my idea. I wouldn't have taken them and destroyed them. They would have been put back Friday," said Laubersheimer. "I felt the paper was in extremely bad taste for Senior Day."

About 20 minutes after removing the papers, Laubersheimer said he received a call from Dean of Students Robert Nye, who told him to replace the papers.

Bonita Eaton, a senior from North Platte who serves as the managing editor of the paper, said the removal of the papers was a "surprise to all of the (paper's) staff."

"It was a betrayal to the readers and the advertisers — they were cheated," said Miss Eaton.

Railroad Trestle To Ease Omaha Traffic Congestion

Omaha (AP) — Construction of a trestle to relieve congestion at the present two-lane 64th St. tunnel beneath the Union Pacific Railroad tracks will begin next September or October, Douglas County Surveyor Louis Lamberty said Wednesday.

He said construction of detours for auto and train traffic will begin about May 1.

The County Board approved a construction agreement with the railroad Wednesday despite objections from Omaha attorney Ephraim Marks.

Marks objected to a provision that the county pay the railroad for certain construction work, whether it is approved by the federal government.

The federal government will pay 70% of the trestle costs, with the county picking up the remainder. The bottleneck at the tunnel was made worse when an Interstate 80 interchange was located directly north of the tunnel.

Simon Harrold, Omaha Waiter Who Served 8 Presidents, Dies

Harrold, whose relatives estimated his age at 82, was head waiter at the Happy Hollow Country Club for 51 years. In addition, he was manager of the Chamber of Commerce dining room for 56 years and served through 43 Ak-Sar-Ben coronations.

He traveled with the Chamber's Tribe of Yessir for 48 years on goodwill trips and was a drummer with the Dan Desdunes Band for many years.

The six counts involving income tax violations each carry possible penalties of up to a $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment, or both, and the three counts of false deductions each have a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine or three years imprisonment, or both.

Here's A Way Out . . .

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

The young man was sitting in jail wondering if his boss would fire him for missing work again . . . sitting, waiting for his court arraignment.

Just the night before, fortified by booze, he had burglarized an apartment, walking off with an armful of cameras and cash.

But instead of a court date this fellow got a visit from a white-haired man who offered him a chance to get out of jail, to have no criminal record, to work out his problems with professional help.

The specific details in this case are fictitious, but the chance to wipe the criminal slate clean is true.

And within the past eight weeks, 50 county residents, arrested for non-violent felonies, have entered this brand new program called Pre-Trial Diversion.

Responsibility Stressed

The program — for first-time felony offenders — stresses responsibility as it provides an alternative to the judicial system of arrest, arraignment, trial and sentencing.

And the program is picky. Only people accused of nonviolent crimes like drug use, burglary and forgery are eligible. That's about 70% of the local felony offenses, according to Eric McMasters, Pre-Trial Diversion director.

But only about one of every four people eligible by crime type meets the rest of the program's rules. The person can have no previous felony convictions and not more than two misdemeanor convictions (excluding intoxication and minor traffic violations.)

Must Change

In addition, the person must be able and willing to work on problems and change lifestyle patterns if necessary.

The patterns and problems which may have led to the felony are changed through individual counseling, as often as twice a week, and through goal contracts.

Each of the 15 women and 35 men currently in the program have thought out and signed these contracts which list the goals they promise to work on.

The goals, each with a timetable for completion, range from solving employment and personal problems to saving pennies in a piggy bank.

One woman might decide to spend more time each day with her children or take a night school money management course.

Go To Work

A man might contract to learn motorcycle repair work by getting involved in a vocational training program, while another person who holds a job might promise to go to work daily.

Old goals are met and new ones established, counselors counsel, restitution is made, responsibility is met. Each client continues in the program for at least six months, sometimes as long as a year.

Only if the client fails to live up to his obligations or withdraws from the program are the felony charges ever filed.

Nationally, pre-trial diversion programs lose about one out of every four clients, McMasters said.

So far two clients in Lincoln have run into problems, have been rearrested on felony charges and may be dropped from the program, he said.

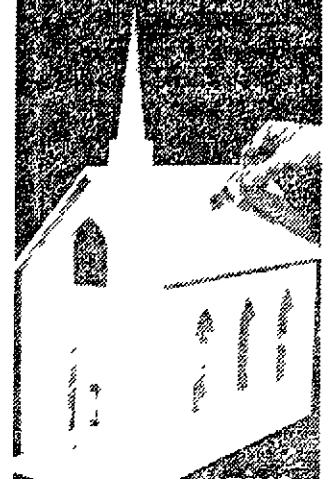

The local program, started with a federal grant, is much more intensive than the traditional probation programs. Each Pre-Trial Diversion counselor will handle only 30 to 35 clients at any single time and during the first year the program will serve about 200 clients.

This voluntary alternative to a criminal record uses outside community services — vocational, educational, counseling.

In addition, the Pre-Trial Diversion staff is already mapping out staff-provided services. Group counseling sessions to work on problem solving and life planning workshops will soon begin, according to Betty Smith, counselor supervisor.

Husband Backing Out Of Anniversary Plans

DEAR ABBY: We will have been married 10 years next January. Since we didn't have any fanfare when we were married, my husband promised that we would have a big blow-out on our 10th wedding anniversary.

I booked a band and hired a hall and made deposits on both. Now out of the blue, my husband says, "Cancel everything!" I asked him why, and he said, "I just don't want it."

I know it's not the money. Even if it were, I'm able to pay for it myself, as I have a good job.

I know there's no other woman. So what should I do?

I don't want to make him angry, but I really want this anniversary party, and I don't think he should go back on his word. Please guide me.

WANTS TO CELEBRATE

DEAR WANTS: Cool it for a while. He may have had a bad day. Don't mention the celebration until a month before the date. Then when he's in a good mood, hit him with your guest list and ask for his approval and suggestions.

If he still balks, you'll have to cancel the band and hall and probably take a loss on the deposits. You can't very well have an anniversary party without him.

Good luck. I'm in your corner. DEAR ABBY: I am 21-years-old and my boyfriend is 20. We've been going steady for a year and three months.

Being a very up-front gal, I told my boyfriend all about my past, and it just so happens that I have gone to bed with more guys than he has gone to bed with girls.

He wants to marry me, but he says first he wants to even the score.

Should I just sit around and wait for him to catch up with me?

J.

DEAR J: If you do, you are even more immature than he is, which in my opinion is far too immature for marriage!

DEAR ABBY: We have a boss in our office who has got to be the world's most conservative man.

Although he has a car, he won't buy a second car for his wife. Instead, he has her drive him to work every morning, and every evening around quitting time, it's like Russian roulette to see who he asks to drive him home.

Since we all need our jobs, we never turn him down, but after two years of this, it's really an imposition. (Some of us have taken to hiding around quitting time so we won't be asked.)

We are all tired of driving out of our way to accommodate him, but nobody has the nerve to tell him how we feel about it.

Can you help us?

UNPAID CHAUFFEURS
DEAR CHAUFFEURS: Com-

pose a letter advising the boss that the office crew has just gone out of the taxi business — and have everyone in the office sign it. I doubt that he'll fire the entire office force en masse. (P.S. If that doesn't work, put in an expense account for mileage.)

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you 10 years ago, but I didn't take your advice. My problem was that after 33 years of marriage, I found out that my husband was having an affair with a young woman who worked for him.

I told you that although I still loved him, I wanted to end our marriage.

You told me that I should bide my time, that as long as I still loved him I should try to forgive and forget, and that I should keep my marriage together, which is what he wanted to do.

My pride was so hurt that I divorced him, anyway. He married the young woman, but soon afterwards, he started calling me, telling me that he had made a terrible mistake. He said he still loved me, could never forgive himself for what he had done and wanted to come "home."

My pride still wouldn't let me take him back. Well, he died a year ago. He left a little something to his second wife, but the bulk of his estate he left to me. He was a rich man, and now I am a rich woman, but that doesn't matter. I guess he really did love me.

I wish I had taken your advice, Abby.

TEN YEARS WASTED

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my 60s. When I was 45, I had a change-of-life baby who is now 18, and he's driving me crazy!

He goofed off in school last year and had to go to summer school to graduate next June.

He's going with a 15-year-old girl who looks like she's 20. They are together night and day. Her mother called and asked me to tell my son not to hang around her daughter so much because they're entirely too thick. I tried, but got nowhere.

I'm afraid these kids are going to get into trouble and will have to get married. I want my son to go to college and make something of himself.

How can I break up this relationship? I'll do anything.

WORRIED MOM

DEAR WORRIED: I doubt that you can break it up. If you forbid them to see each other, they'll probably do so behind your back.

I do not approve of premarital sex, but if you have reason to believe it's going on (or is about to), the lesser of the evils is to make sure they are sufficiently informed so there will not be a hurry-up marriage and/or an unwanted baby.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: What are you doing Saturday night? If you want to see me, I'll be on the Miss Teenage America telecast on NBC.

U.S. No. 1 Not Always Best Available Grade

(c) Chicago Daily News

If you think No. 1 always means the best, think again.

If you buy a bag of potatoes marked U.S. No. 1, you are getting the second best potatoes you can buy. And a U.S. No. 1 apple is the third best.

On the other hand, if you buy a U.S. No. 1 lemon or onion, you ARE buying the highest quality item on the market.

The confusion is caused by the names used to categorize and set standards for grocery items. But the confusion doesn't stop with fresh fruits and vegetables.

Go into the supermarket and try to select some canned olives. You are likely to split your sides laughing or turn into a babbling idiot.

Most Confusing

The names used to designate the various sizes of ripe olives couldn't be more confusing.

If you want the biggest olive, you might select a can marked Large. But there are seven sizes of olives bigger than Large.

In fact, only two sizes are smaller than Large. Here is the way olives are classified, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The largest is Special Super Colossal; then come Super Colossal, Colossal, Jumbo, Giant, Mammoth, Extra Large, Large, Medium and Small. Mammoth is smaller than Giant but larger than Extra Large. (It might help to look at the pictures on the can to get an idea of the olive size.)

Are you laughing? Not if you are the family shopper and you have to sort through this maze. "People find this totally baffling," said Ellen Haas, consumer co-ordinator of the Community Nutrition Institute, a Washington-based consumer group that specializes in food policy questions.

People Couldn't Tell

"We did a survey in Maryland . . . of several hundred people. We asked them to pick the top item from among things like apples and potatoes. They weren't able to," she said.

The U.S. No. 1 that you see on items like potatoes and apples is what the USDA calls a grade standard. It's just like the "prime" or "choice" designation on beef. But the confusion results because the grades vary from product to product.

For example, on apples, the top grade is U.S. Extra Fancy. Second is U.S. Fancy, then comes U.S. No. 1.

The top grade for potatoes is U.S. Extra One. But for onions or lemons (and dozens of other products), No. 1 is the top grade standard.

152 Grade Standards

There are 152 grade standards covering 82 fresh fruits and vegetables. There are also grade standards for dairy products, meat, poultry, eggs, tobacco and grain.

Some shoppers feel the use of different grade standards for different products is a deliberate attempt to confuse consumers. The Agriculture Department, responsible for overseeing the application of the grade names, says the confusion is simply a result of the way the standards developed.

"Grade nomenclature is confusing to consumers," acknowledged David A. Patton, deputy director of the fruits and vegetables division of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

"It's not uniform. But the reason is that the standards were developed by and for industry and were not really intended to be used by consumers."

As the grade names came to be more commonly used in retail trading, they came under criticism from Congress and consumer groups.

As a result, USDA is trying to simplify the grade names.

Revision Slow Going

The revision will be a slow process. Agriculture Department officials say simple grade names for commonly used items, like tomatoes, apples, potatoes and corn, might be done in two or three years. But it could take as long as 10 years to implement the change for less commonly used fruits and vegetables.

That is because the change would be effected through normal process of revising grade standards. Grade standards are normally revised only as the need arises — perhaps a dozen a year.

After the changes are made for fruits and vegetables, USDA officials may tackle simplification of other standards.

(An earlier proposal to revise beef grading standards met with stiff resistance from consumers and has been temporarily shelved.)

Under the proposed new produce grading system, there would be four grade names.

U.S. Fancy would designate premium quality and would apply only to the top grade produced.

U.S. No. 1 would represent the chief trading grade. It would represent good, average quality products. It would be followed by U.S. No. 2 and U.S. No. 3, the lowest quality practical to pack under normal conditions.

Each grade would carry the same meaning, whatever the commodity.

Consumer groups say the proposal is a good first step, but many are concerned about the length of time it will take to implement.

Agriculture Department officials note that the grading standards are voluntary. But they point out that the standards are such an important marketing tool for the food industry that there is likely to be incentive to use the new standards even though there is no requirement to do so.

Popularity Of Shark Meat Up

Orlando, Fla. (UPI) — A fish market in Winter Park advertises "Get even with Jaws — Eat more fish."

It's a sign of the times, says the chief of Florida's Bureau of Marine Science, who points out that more and more people are hunting and eating sharks since that great white shark started gobbling up swimmers on movie screens.

"It's a case of a nation eating what once ate them," said Dale S. Beaumariage of the Florida Department of Natural Resources, recalling that vengeance-minded Australians started slaughtering sharks in such numbers that the government had to take measures to protect the shark population.

Beaumariage is one of the experts scheduled to speak at a "Sharks in Perspective" conference, a meeting spurned by members of the tourist-conscious Daytona Beach Chamber of Commerce, who suggested it be held someplace else — "like Panama."

Beaumariage said interest in shark hunting is booming and many restaurants have started featuring shark meat on their menus. With more shark fishermen out on the seas, we said, it could lead to development of a sharkskin tanning industry in Florida, a project that former Gov. Clayde Kirk tried unsuccessfully to promote several years ago.

While shark meat is generally available in gourmet restaurants, Floridians until now have been using it mostly to bait crab and lobster traps.

Beaumariage said shark meat spoils easily and needs special processing and treatment to give it proper flavor. Smoked shark is considered a delicacy.

Japanese and Norwegians harvest sharks with floating fish factories, Beaumariage said, and shark fishing has become a big industry in Australia.

While shark teeth are a current style fad, the market for shark livers, rich in certain vitamins, played out when chemists learned to synthesize the vitamins.

Bridge Put Bidding Skills To Test

By B. JAY BECKER

You are South and the bidding has gone:

South	West	North	East
1♣	1♦	1♥	1♠

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠K73 ♥J85 ♦K92 ♣AQ86
2. ♠J5 ♥AQ6 ♦A4 ♣QJ9752
3. ♠K8 ♥974 ♦AK ♣KQJ954
4. ♠AJ9 ♥J8 ♦A97 ♣AKJ63
5. ♠A64 ♥K952 ♦10 ♣AQJ74

1. Pass. Opening bids of one in a suit normally contain 12 to 21 high-card points. So, at the moment you open the bidding with one of a suit your partner has no idea whether your opening is of the weak, strong or intermediate class.

You generally have the opportunity to identify the strength of your hand at your next chance to bid. In the present case, that time is now. As your opening bid was clearly of the minimum class, you can best express those values by passing one spade. Any other call would show extra values and would thus misrepresent your hand.

2. Two hearts. Standing by itself, this is also a minimum hand, but it has risen appreciably in value because the A-Q-x of hearts have much more than their face value. Such excellent trump support for partner's obviously hollow suit should not be suppressed even though you're leaning on only 14 high-card points. Partner is entitled to have his voluntary bid respected when you hold such important fillers for his best suit.

3. Three clubs. This hand is in the intermediate class (17 to 19 points) and can best be identified by jumping to three clubs. Game is likely in either clubs, hearts or notrump. The final contract depends on what North does next.

4. Two notrump. This hand is also in the intermediate class, but the available evidence indicates that notrump is probably best. The jump to two notrump shows 18 or 19 points, notrump distribution and stoppers in both adverse suits. However, the final contract is still an open issue. North may be able to raise notrump, or he may prefer a suit contract. Wherever he leads you follow, because your values are flexible and can fit any type of hand he holds.

5. Three hearts. Here you have the kind of values that lend themselves strongly to suit play, and you flash this message to partner at once. The jump raise in this sequence is forcing to game. You can't treat this conglomeration as just a 14-point hand. Your four trumps, the singleton diamond and the potential four or five club tricks all join to put your hand into the 18-point class.

Court Reverses Decision, Upholds Firing Of Teacher

By The Associated Press
The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday overturned a decision of the Lancaster County District Court and upheld the firing of a Chadron State College language teacher.

Dudley Chase had claimed that when the State College Board of Trustees voted on May 24, 1974 and failed to get a majority of the seven-member board to vote for termination, his continued employment was guaranteed.

However, the board voted again on June 8, 1974 to fire Chase on a vote of 5-1.

The Supreme Court upheld the June 8 vote and overturned the decision of the Lancaster County District Court which said Chase was still employed by the college.

Court: Girl Must Pay Tuition

The Supreme Court said Thursday that Tammy Maddux would have to pay nonresident tuition if she wished to continue attending Chase County High School.

The girl's parents were divorced and her mother married Merle Frasier. The couple moved to Frasier's ranch, which is partially in Chase County and partially in Dundly County.

But the Chase County District Court said that since the ranch home was actually in Dundly County, the girl would have to pay nonresident tuition to remain enrolled at Chase County High School.

Auto Sales Jump 45%

Detroit (UPI) — The four U.S. automakers reported Thursday that early November sales jumped 45% over depressed year-ago levels in the biggest year-to-year gain in more than three years.

American Motors jumped a full 100%, General Motors 56 2%, Chrysler Corp. 47% and the Ford Motor Co. 22%.

It was the fourth consecutive 10-day period in which sales topped a 1974 period as the industry continues to climb out of its two-year slump — the deepest since the Great Depression of the 1930s. The jump was the highest since sales were up nearly 47% in late July of 1972.

The four companies sold 198,948 cars in the Nov. 1-10 period compared with 136,921 a year ago and about 9,000 more than most analysts had predicted.

Even with the strong acceptance of the 1976 models, the automakers still plan new cutbacks to keep production in line with sales and avoid any huge inventory buildups like the ones that last year shut down half the industry by mid-winter.

Benchley Novel To Become Film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Author Peter Benchley has discovered more treasure in the deep.

With his "Jaws" having become the biggest grossing film of all time, Benchley found a ready buyer for his next novel, "The Deep." Columbia Pictures has purchased rights for a movie to be filmed in the summer of 1976. "The Deep" is the story of a vacationing American couple, diving into the waters off Bermuda, who suddenly come upon an ancient mystery and modern-day intrigue which threatens their lives.

The High Court said the May 24 vote "was not a final determination nor did it divest the board of trustees of all jurisdiction and power to make the determination at a later meeting which would be final and effective."

The May 24 vote of 3-1 was one short of a majority of the seven-member board.

The court upheld a decision of the Douglas County District Court which said the Vistron Corporation was not liable because cattle owned by the Secular-Bishop Grain Co. died after eating fertilizer.

The Douglas County jury verdict said the grain company should pay for the fertilizer and Vistron was not liable for the death of the cattle. The Supreme Court upheld the lower court decision.

In other rulings, the court:

— Upheld a Lancaster County District Court decision in a lawsuit between University Products of Nebraska, Inc. and Gregory Jensen.

— Upheld the Douglas County District Court decision ordering Shirley Bonacci to pay $10,000 to Andrew and Lucia Greco in a contract dispute.

Detroit (UPI) — The four U.S. automakers reported Thursday that early November sales jumped 45% over depressed year-ago levels in the biggest year-to-year gain in more than three years.

American Motors jumped a full 100%, General Motors 56.2%, Chrysler Corp. 47% and the Ford Motor Co. 22%.

It was the fourth consecutive 10-day period in which sales topped a 1974 period as the industry continues to climb out of its two-year slump — the deepest since the Great Depression of the 1930s. The jump was the highest since sales were up nearly 47% in late July of 1972.

The four companies sold 198,948 cars in the Nov. 1-10 period compared with 136,921 a year ago and about 9,000 more than most analysts had predicted.

Even with the strong acceptance of the 1976 models, the automakers still plan new cutbacks to keep production in line with sales and avoid any huge inventory buildups like the ones that last year shut down half the industry by mid-winter.

Benchley Novel To Become Film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Author Peter Benchley has discovered more treasure in the deep.

With his "Jaws" having become the biggest grossing film of all time, Benchley found a ready buyer for his next novel, "The Deep." Columbia Pictures has purchased rights for a movie to be filmed in the summer of 1976. "The Deep" is the story of a vacationing American couple, diving into the waters off Bermuda, who suddenly come upon an ancient mystery and modern-day intrigue which threatens their lives.

The High Court said the May 24 vote "was not a final determination nor did it divest the board of trustees of all jurisdiction and power to make the determination at a later meeting which would be final and effective."

The May 24 vote of 3-1 was one short of a majority of the seven-member board.

The court upheld a decision of the Douglas County District Court which said the Vistron Corporation was not liable because cattle owned by the Scoular-Bishop Grain Co. died after eating fertilizer.

The Douglas County jury verdict said the grain company should pay for the fertilizer and Vistron was not liable for the death of the cattle. The Supreme Court upheld the lower court decision.

In other rulings, the court:

— Upheld a Lancaster County District Court decision in a lawsuit between University Products of Nebraska, Inc. and Gregory Jensen.

— Upheld the Douglas County District Court decision ordering Shirley Bonacci to pay $10,000 to Andrew and Lucia Greco in a contract dispute.

NU Matmen Open Season

By KEN HAMBLETON

Star Sports Writer Nebraska wrestling coach Orval Borgiali will get a chance to see just how good his Husker team is when they compete against some of the nation's best wrestlers Friday and Saturday in the Great Plains Open at the NU Coliseum.

"This will be a good meet for our wrestlers to see the best and compete against them," said Borgiali. "A strong showing here could give us a lot of momentum going into the regular season."

"This will be a tough meet. Maybe too tough," Borgiali said. "We're always worried about injuries in this kind of meet."

"Right now, we're in good shape with only two people out," Borgiali said referring to letterman Mark Borer and freshman Kent Lang, who suffered knee injuries.

With seven seniors, the most ever for Borgiali, and 11 returning lettermen, the Huskers figure to be in the thick of the Big Eight race this year.

"You always have to figure on Oklahoma State, winner of the past six conference titles, Iowa State, 1974's NCAA champion and Oklahoma," Borgiali said. "But we might crack the top three this year."

The Huskers will be pinning their hopes on Bob Johnson at 190, heavyweight Bruce Conger, Tony Jennings at 142 Bill Hoffman at 177. All four wrestlers placed in the top three in the Big 8 meet last year.

"Those guys can compete with anybody," Borgiali said. Tom Knobloch, at 158, Mark Borer at 167 and Ken Christensen at 150 are expected to fill the NU lineup with the strongest Husker team in years, according to Borgiali.

"We also have eight freshmen that were state champions last year in high school that could make the difference for us," said Borgiali, whose team finished 9-3 in dual meets last year.

Steve Hill, from Lincoln Southeast was Nebraska's 158-160 lb. wrestler.

There will be a reception Saturday morning from 9:30-11 in the Nebraska stadium office lounge for Fran Nagle, who's in Lincoln for masters' week and was the Huskers' starting quarterback for the 1949-50 teams.

Nagle Reception

There will be a reception Saturday morning from 9:30-11 in the Nebraska stadium office lounge for Fran Nagle, who's in Lincoln for masters' week and was the Huskers' starting quarterback for the 1949-50 teams.

My crystal ball shows Nebraska winning over the Cyclones 33-10, but it also lights up Oklahoma red by 21-14 over Missouri in their big game at Columbia, Mo.

It is interesting to note that the 1975 Huskers are averaging exactly the same number of yards rushing as the 1974 team had at the end of the season — 259.8 yards a game. Passing-wise, the average is about six yards a game lower, undoubtedly caused by last week's 105 yards against Kansas State.

Offensively, then, you must say Nebraska is as good as it was a year ago since the non-conference schedules both years were comparable. Improvement is noted on defense where the passing figures against the Huskers are just six-tenths of a yard apart, but where defense against the rush shows a 45-yard a game improvement.

Three Huskers are in the running for the Football Writers Association All-American team, which will be finalized at a meeting in Chicago Nov. 30. They are center Rik Bonness, defensive tackle Mike Fultz and monster Wonder Monds.

In other Big Eight games Saturday, Oklahoma State will whip Kansas State 24-3, as the Wildcats' touchdown drought con-

Spartans, 'Bolts Favorites

In perusing records of Friday's Class A and Class B football finalists, one fact sticks out like a 73 degree day in November — there are no common opponents between Lincoln East and Omaha Westside or between Lincoln Pius X and Waverly.

Considering the proximity of all four schools, that ranks as a rarity.

Having no comparisons from which to work seems to enhance the state championship matchups. No team really knows what to expect from the other.

Pius X, seeking a third straight state Class B championship, has been the most awesome team while cutting down nine straight challengers.

The Thunderbolts have averaged 38.6 points a game and have held their opponents to a 9.3 average. That's an average winning margin of 29.3 points. Their lowest offensive output is 26 points against David City Aquinas in the season opener.

Westside's 16.9-point average winning spread ranks next among the big schools. The Warriors have averaged 27.1 points and checked opponents to 10.2.

Waverly Picks Up

After a slow start the first half of the season, Waverly's offense has generated much more impressive point totals, giving the Vikings a 15.5-point average winning margin. Waverly owns a 20.8 offensive average and 5.3 defensive average.

East's offense has been held to one touchdown twice this season and to two touchdowns on four occasions. That accounts for the Spartans' not overly impressive 19.9 scoring average.

East has been stingy defensively though, yielding an average of only 8.8 points in 11 games, including two touchdowns to Lincoln High after the issue had been settled.

Here's the four big school finalists' records:

Omaha Westside (9-1) — Bellevue 14, Westside 6; Westside 3, O. North 7; Westside 34, O. Bryan 0; Westside 22, O. Tech 16; Westside 42, O. Roncalli 10; Westside 7, Creighton Prep 6; Westside 20, Burke 19; Westside 35, Council Bluffs 7; Westside 49, O. Ryan 6; Westside 27, Bellevue 18. Lincoln East (9-2-2) — East 6, North Platte 6; East 40, O. Gross 7; East 20, Grand Island 12; East 12, Hastings 6; East 14, Ralston 7; East 35, Millard 7; East 7, Northeast 7; East 12, Southeast 7; East 12, Papillion 7; East 34, Lincoln High 18; East 27, Grand Island 13. Waverly (10-0) — Waverly 22, Centennial 6; Waverly 6, Gretna 0; Waverly 6, Crete 0; Waverly 14, Norris 6; Waverly 14, Ashland 0; Waverly 32, Syracuse 6; Waverly 35, Auburn 7; Waverly 20, Seward 14; Waverly 45, Wahoo 7; Waverly 14, Kimball 7.

Hartungs Spark South's Record Win

By JEFF HAASE

Star Sports Writer Favored Omaha South walked away with Thursday night's Nebraska Boys' State Gymnastics Meet team title in record style at the East High Gym behind the standout performances of Jim and John Hartung.

The Hartung brothers dominated placing 1-2 in the first three vents, leading the Packers to a meet record 179.62 points, bettering the mark of 152 set in 1972 by Lincoln Southeast.

Jim Hartung, a 5-2, 120-pound sophomore, qualified first in five events to capture the all-around championship with a 54.10 total, edging John's 46.80.

Jim Beal of East took third in the all-around, placing third in the horizontal bars, parallel bars and still rings.

Lincoln Southeast's Mark Hobson finished fourth, qualifying fifth in the still rings and horizontal bars.

South outdistanced North Platte to give coach Richard

State Prep Playoff Picks

By Randy York

Lincoln Pius X (9-0) — Plus 26, David City Aquinas 6; Plus 28, York 26; Plus 39, McCook 0; Plus 39, Minden 6; Plus 35, Beatrice 27; Plus 42, O. Holy Name 6; Holy Nat, Council Bluffs 13; Plus 56, O. Cathedral 6; Plus 33, Hartington, CC 0.

Who's the best bet to emerge state champions Friday: Try East, Pius X, Wahoo Neumann, Scribner, Lawrence and Adams. Here's more specific reasoning:

Class A

Lincoln East (9-0-2) v. Omaha Westside (9-1), 7:30 p.m., UNO — Let the record show, Westside has the best overall talent and greater size. East's offensive line averages only 167 pounds, for instance. But in championship situations, the psychological tuneup is just as important as the engine. Remember Crete and Omaha Tech in the state Class B basketball finals last March?

East has almost crossed the ocean in terms of improvement since a season-opening tie against North Platte. That, folks, boils down to coaching. There's no better way for the Spartans to reward their teachers than putting Lee Zentic's 100th career win on the table two weeks before Thanksgiving. Projection: East 21, Westside 14.

Class B

Waverly (10-0) v. Lincoln Pius X (9-0), 7:30 p.m., Seacrest Field — Waverly has to be hoping a myth surrounds Pius X's stature. The 'Bolts are considered out of everyone's league in Class B. They average better than 35 points a game. Even Waverly coach Randy Hash admits his team probably needs three or four touchdowns to stay with its high-powered opponent. "People never really have taken us very much for real," says Hash, "but there's no doubt in my mind if we play well, we can beat Pius. I know they're the class of Class B. But we think we're pretty darn good, too."

Things have to go right for the Vikings from the start. If they duplicate last week's "miracle" performance against Kimball, consensus is they'll lose by three touchdowns. That would be an awfully tough pill for a proud defensive team to swallow. Nevertheless, it seems in the cards. Projection: Pius X 27, Waverly 7.

Class C-1

Plainview (10-0) v. Wahoo Neumann (9-1), 1:30 p.m., Memorial Stadium, Fremont — This is one of those games easy to waver back and forth on selecting a favorite. Didn't Plainview set Centennial down, 30-zip, and Neumann end up struggling against Gibbon, 27-21, last week?

Class C observers maintain no team, Class B or C, can throw a monkey wrench into Neumann's ground-eating wishbone. If Neumann is equally helpless containing Plainview "Superman" rusher, Tim McCrady, this could be the state's most dramatic championship matchup. Projection: Neumann 28, Plainview 20.

Class C-2

Scribner (9-1) at Grant (9-1), 1:30 p.m. — Unlike Classes A, B and C-1, this shapes up as a defensive battle. Consequently, it's another "I like Grant, no I like Scribner, I guess I like Grant, no Scribner" type of prediction.

Scribner's only loss is to Class C-1's Omaha Holy Name. Grant battled powerful Ogallala before losing, 14-0, early in the season. Scribner's 20-18 playoff win over Friend last week seemed more impressive than Grant's 13-8 triumph over Pleasanton. That's the only reason for taking No. 2 over No. 1 in the finals. Projection: Scribner 14, Grant 7.

Class D

Lawrence (9-1) v. Nelson (9-0-1), 1:30 p.m., at Superior — With two teams from the same county 16 miles apart meeting for the state championship, maybe a couple more fire trucks should be available.

Things are liable to get plenty hot. They were during the regular season anyway when Nelson pounded out an 18-14 victory over its Nuckolls County neighbor. Lawrence, a team with seven shutouts, will be more primed for the defensive task this time. Projection: Lawrence 14, Nelson 13.

Eight-Man

Adams (10-0) at Elgin (10-0), 1:30 p.m. — One thing really bothers a prep writer picking Adams. The Hornets are slow.

Very slow, admits Adams coach Ken Cook. That means they could be chasing Elgin's Kent Beckman around with as much futility as chasing a butterfly on the prairie.

Adams' defense is another problem. It's leaky. Even with those factors in mind, the choice is Adams. Even if the Hornets would finish last in every footrace, they're just likely to knock you down before you get to the finish line. Projection: Adams 28, Elgin 22.

Lineups

The Nebraska freshman football team, boasting a perfect 4-0 record this fall, winds up the season by hosting the Iowa State JVs at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln Friday afternoon at 1:30. Coach Jim Ross' Cornhusker yearlings have not only won all four games, but have blanked their four foes while amassing a 189-0 point bulge.

Iowa State appears to present the sternest test of the fall, however.

The Cyclone JVs assured the Ames school of its first winning JV season since 1961 last weekend with a 21-13 triumph over the Missouri JVs.

Iowa State enters the game with a 3-1 mark, losing only to the Waldorf JC varsity, a team ranked fourth in the nation in its division.

The two clubs have faced one common opponent — the University of Nebraska-Omaha JVs. Iowa State claimed a 41-8 victory, while the Husker frosh recorded a 41-0 shutout.

Nebraska's other wins include a 63-0 triumph over Marshalltown (Ia.) JC, a 45-0 victory over Kearney State and a 30-0 blanking of the Kansas State JVs.

Iowa State's other win was a 17-7 decision over the Drake JVs.

Nebraska holds a commanding 18-3 edge in the series, while coach Ross takes a 26-2 alltime freshman mark into the finale.

Nebraska's 60-man roster for Saturday's final home game of the season against Iowa State still has a couple of question-mark participants, but Cornhusker trainers expect both to be ready.

Still listed as nursing ailments are monster back Wonder Monds, who has a sprained ankle, and wingback Tom Heiser, who has a pulled hamstring muscle.

If Heiser can't go, Coach Tom Osborne said he will use tight end Rick Panneton at wingback and move up Ken Spaeth at tight end. Tim Borg would suit up at monster in Monds' absence.

The Huskers went through a short workout in sweat clothes Thursday.

After practice, Osborne praised the 21 seniors on the unbeaten Nebraska team. "Sometimes when you get to be a senior, you think more about personal goals than team goals," he said. "But with these seniors, it hasn't been that way at all. They have continuously stressed team effort."

Husker seniors making their final home appearance Saturday are: Rik Bonness, Jim Burrow, Tom Coccia, Rich Costanzo, Mike Coyle, Tony Davis, Dean

Also, Randy Garcia, QB; Dave Gillespie, I-B; Dean Gissler, DT; Jeff Hansen, I-B; Ted Harvey, DB; Bob Hayes, DT; Tom Heiser, WB; Gary Higgs, FB; Steve Johns, OT; Brad Jenkins, TE; Chuck Jones, DB; Greg Jorgensen, OG; John Lee, MG; Randy Lessman, P; Steve Lindquist, OG; Bob Lingenteller, OT; Terry Luck, QB; Chuck Malito, SE; Bob Martin, DE; Dan Miller, OG.

Also, George Mills, DT; Wonder Monds, DB; Larry Mushinskie, TE; John O'Leary, I-B; Rick Panneton, TE; Ray Phillips, DE; Clete Piller, LB; Jeff Pullen, MG; Dave Redding, DE; Tony Samuel, DE; Dan Schmidt, OG; Dave Shamblin, SE; Kent Smith, DB; Ken Spaeth, TE; Kurt Stacey, DB; Chester Talley, DE; Bobby Thomas, SE; Tom Thomas, C; Willie Thornton, MG; Larry Valasek, DB; Stan Waldemore, OG; Jerry Wied, DT; Jim Wightman, LB.

Here are the remaining predictions: Southeastern Conference: Florida over Kentucky, LSU over Mississippi State, Tennessee over Mississippi, Vanderbilt over Army.

Pacific-8: California over Air Force, Stanford over Oregon, UCLA over Oregon State, Southern California over Washington, Washington State over Idaho.

Southwest: Arkansas over SMU, Texas A & M over Rice, Texas Tech over Baylor, Texas over TCU.

East: Brown over Harvard, Dartmouth over Cornell, Penn over Columbia, Syracuse over Virginia, Yale over Princeton, Rutgers over Boston U., Villanova over Holy Cross, Colgate over William & Mary, Boston College is idle (a la Bryant) getting ready for Massachusetts, a real toughie.

South: Miami of Florida over Florida State, Georgia Tech over Navy, Maryland over Clemson, Houston over Memphis State, North Carolina State over Duke, South Carolina over Wake Forest, Tulane over North Carolina, Louisville over NE Louisiana, West Virginia over Richmond, VPI over VMI.

Midwest: Notre Dame over Pittsburgh, Miami of Ohio over Kent State, Ball State over Illinois State, Wichita State over Drake, Cincinnati over Ohio U., Bowling Green over Southern Illinois, Tulsa over Indiana State, Berlitz over Corona (the language will be better than the food).

West — San Diego State over San Jose State, Arizona State over Pacific, Arizona over Colorado State, Arkansas State over Texas-Arlington, Utah State over Boise State, Brigham Young over Utah, Hawaii over Texas-El Paso, Long Beach State over Cal State-San Luis Obispo, New Mexico over Wyoming, North Texas State over New Mexico State.

Since Slippery Rock has ended its season (on a winning note 17-14 over Clarion), my new favorite is Wabash over De Pauw in the battle for the Monon Bell. Wabash was old Wabash when DePauw was a pup and Wabash will be Wabash when DePauw has grown up, so the song goes. The Monon, incidentally, was a railroad that connected Wabash at Crawfordsville and DePauw at Greencastle back in Indiana.

Indiana Has 'Elephant I'

Coach Lee Corso has come up with what he calls an "Elephant I" formation on short yardage situations for his "pink elephant" Indiana Hoosiers, who will drop game No. 8 Saturday against Wisconsin.

He lined up two tackles side-by-side on one side of the offensive line with a third tackle just behind them in the wingback position against Ohio State and got a first down five times in five tries.

Ohio State and Michigan will win again Saturday as the Buckeyes and Wolverines head for their Big Ten title showdown a week from Saturday in Ann Arbor. It will be the eighth consecutive year the two have played for the championship. That's why the Big Ten is called the "Big Two and the Tiny Eight."

The Bucks will whip Minnesota and Michigan will pop Illinois. The other league game will find Purdue knocking off

Iowa for the third Boilermaker victory of the season — all against Big Ten teams.

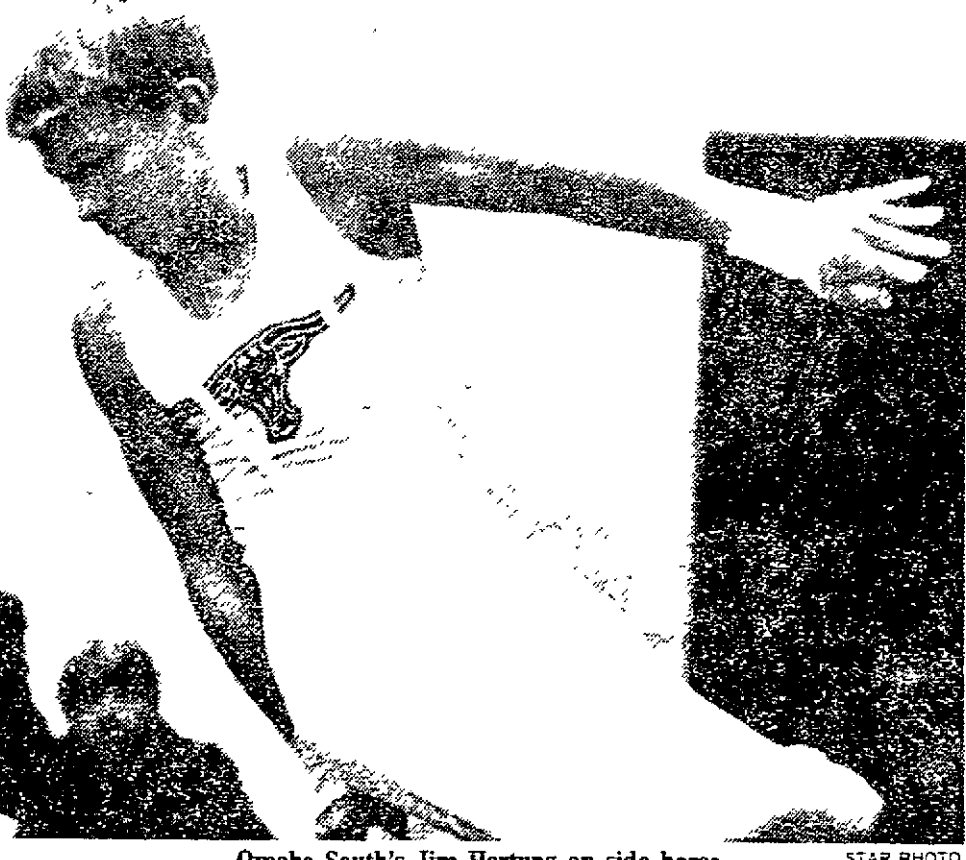

I guess Nebraska and Arizona State really don't share the 'longest winning streak (10) alive among "major" colleges. Arkansas State has won 12 in a row and since it's a Division I NCAA member it is considered major. It's streak has come at the expense of such "powers" as Texas-Arlington, McNeese St., and SW Louisiana two, NW Louisiana, Idaho, Memphis State, Lamar, Tennessee-Chattanooga and Southern Illinois.

Nearest thing to a power in that list is Memphis State. Arkansas State closes out with Texas-Arlington and Louisiana Tech. This is a graphic example of why the NCAA needs a "super" division of the top 80 or so majors. Arkansas State has a stadium with 16,343 seats and last year had 42,706 fans for five home games.

Northern Colorado, which is an NCAA Division II team, defeated Washburn of Kansas 22-7 last Saturday to keep alive its 16-game winning streak.

Picking The Other Teams

Alabama plays its traditional "patsy" before the Auburn game and will win handily over Southern Mississippi. Bear Bryant, wanting to make sure he hands Shug Jordan a one final beating in Shug's last coaching stint, arranged for an open date next Saturday. Shug, however, did the same thing (open date), but is matched against tough Georgia Saturday and will lose another one.

Omaha South's Jim Hartung on side horse.

Owens' Crystal Ball Foresees Nebraska, OU Victories

Huskers Head For No. 11

Nebraska, two games away from its goal of a perfect season, will get No. 10 Saturday against Iowa State in the final home game at Memorial Stadium. The Cornhuskers, however, will have to wait until next Saturday to clinch an outright Big Eight Conference championship.

My crystal ball shows Nebraska winning over the Cyclones 33-10, but it also lights up Oklahoma red by 21-14 over Missouri in their big game at Columbia, Mo.

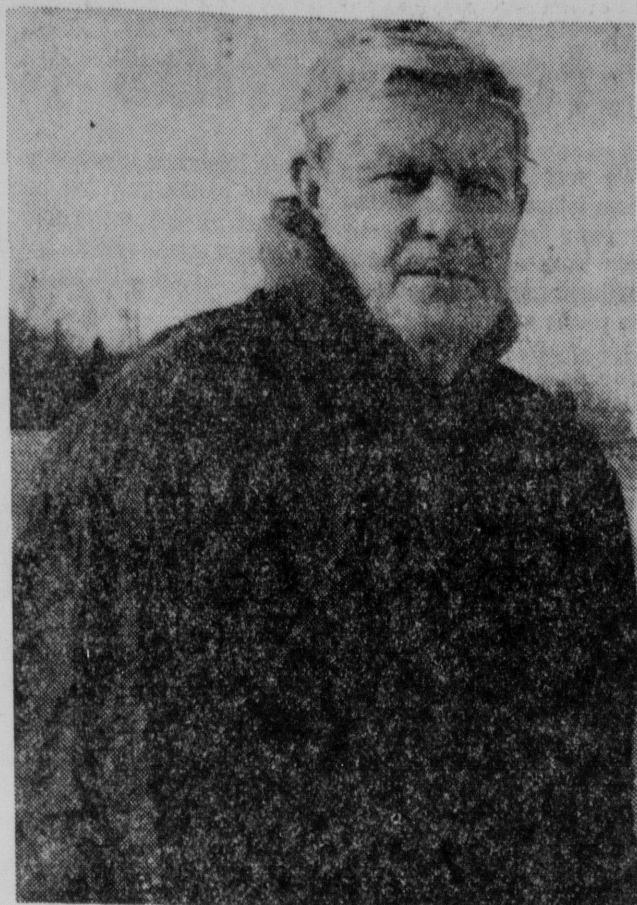

It is interesting to note that the 1975 Huskers are averaging exactly the same number of yards rushing as the 1974 team had at the end of the season — 259.8 yards a game. Passing-wise, the average is about six yards a game lower, undoubtedly caused by last week's 105 yards against Kansas State.

Offensively, then, you must say Nebraska is as good as it was a year ago since the non-conference schedules both years were comparable. Improvement is noted on defense where the passing figures against the Huskers are just six-tenths of a yard apart, but where defense against the rush shows a 45-yard a game improvement.

Three Huskers are in the running for the Football Writers Association All-American team, which will be finalized at a meeting in Chicago Nov. 30. They are center Rik Bonness, defensive tackle Mike Fultz and monster Wonder Monds.

In other Big Eight games Saturday, Oklahoma State will whip Kansas State 24-3, as the Wildcats' touchdown drought con-

Pius X coach Vince Aldrich.

Spartans, 'Bolts Favorites

In perusing records of Friday's Class A and Class B football finalists, one fact sticks out like a 73 degree day in November — there are no common opponents between Lincoln East and Omaha Westside or between Lincoln Pius X and Waverly.

Considering the proximity of all four schools, that ranks as a rarity. Having no comparisons from which to work seems to enhance the state championship matchups. No team really knows what to expect from the other.

Pius X, seeking a third straight state Class B championship, has been the most awesome team while cutting down nine straight challengers. The Thunderbolts have averaged 38.6 points a game and have held their opponents to a 9.3 average. That's an average winning margin of 29.3 points. Their lowest offensive output is 26 points against David City Aquinas in the season opener.

Westside's 16.9-point average winning spread ranks next among the big schools. The Warriors have averaged 27.1 points and checked opponents to 10.2.

Waverly Picks Up

After a slow start the first half of the season, Waverly's offense has generated much more impressive point totals, giving the Vikings a 15.5-point average winning margin. Waverly owns a 20.8 offensive average and 5.3 defensive average.

East's offense has been held to one touchdown twice this season and to two touchdowns on four occasions. That accounts for the Spartans' not overly impressive 19.9 scoring average.

East has been stingy defensively though, yielding an average of only 8.8 points in 11 games, including two touchdowns to Lincoln High after the issue had been settled.

Here's the four big school finalists' records:

Omaha Westside (9-1) — Bellevue 14, Westside 6; Westside 35, O. North 7; Westside 34, O. Bryan 0; Westside 22, O. Tech 16; Westside 42, O. Roncalli 10; Westside 27, Creighton Prep 6; Westside 20, O. Burke 19; Westside 35, Council Bluffs 7; Westside 49, O. Ryan 6; Westside 21, Bellevue 18. Lincoln East (9-0-2) — East 6, North Platte 6; East 40, O. Gross 7; East 20, Grand Island 12; East 12, Hastings 6; East 14, Ralston 7; East 35, Millard 7; East 7, Northeast 7; East 12, Southeast 7; East 12, Papillion 7; East 34, Lincoln High 18; East 27, Grand Island 13. Waverly (10-0) — Waverly 22, Centennial 6; Waverly 6, Gretna 0; Waverly 6, Crete 0; Waverly 14, Norris 6; Waverly 14, Ashland 0; Waverly 32, Syracuse 6; Waverly 35, Auburn 7; Waverly 20, Seward 14; Waverly 45, Wahoo 7; Waverly 14, Kimball 7.

State Prep Playoff Picks

By Randy York

Class C-1

Plainview (10-0) v. Wahoo Neumann (9-1), 1:30 p.m., Memorial Stadium, Fremont — This is one of those games easy to waver back and forth on selecting a favorite. Didn't Plainview set Centennial down, 30-zip, and Neumann end up struggling against Gibbon, 27-21, last week?

Class C observers maintain no team, Class B or C, can throw a monkey wrench into Neumann's ground-eating wishbone. If Neumann is equally helpless containing Plainview "Superman" rusher, Tim McCrady, this could be the state's most dramatic championship matchup. Projection: Neumann 28, Plainview 20.

Class C-2

Scribner (9-1) at Grant (9-1), 1:30 p.m. — Unlike Classes A, B and C-1, this shapes up as a defensive battle. Consequently, it's another "I like Grant, no I like Scribner, I guess I like Grant, no Scribner" type of prediction.

Scribner's only loss is to Class C-1's Omaha Holy Name. Grant battled powerful Ogallala before losing, 14-0, early in the season. Scribner's 20-18 playoff win over Friend last week seemed more impressive than Grant's 13-8 triumph over Pleasanton. That's the only reason for taking No. 2 over No. 1 in the finals. Projection: Scribner 14, Grant 7.

Class D

Lawrence (9-1) v. Nelson (9-0-1), 1:30 p.m. — With two teams from the same county 16 miles apart meeting for the state championship, maybe a couple more fire trucks should be available.

Things are liable to get plenty hot. They were during the regular season anyway when Nelson pounded out an 18-14 victory over its Nuckolls County neighbor. Lawrence, a team with seven shutouts, will be more primed for the defensive task this time. Projection: Lawrence 14, Nelson 13.

Eight-Man

Adams (10-0) at Elgin (10-0), 1:30 p.m. — One thing really bothers a prep writer picking Adams. The Hornets are slow.

Very slow, admits Adams coach Ken Cook. That means they could be chasing Elgin's Kent Beckman around with as much futility as chasing a butterfly on the prairie.

Adams' defense is another problem. It's leaky. Even with those factors in mind, the choice is Adams. Even if the Hornets would finish last in every footrace, they're just likely to knock you down before you get to the finish line. Projection: Adams 28, Elgin 22.

Nebraska holds a commanding 18-3 edge in the series, while coach Ross takes a 26-2 alltime freshman mark into the finale.

Monds, Heiser 'Should Play'

Nebraska's 60-man roster for Saturday's final home game of the season against Iowa State still has a couple of question-mark participants, but Cornhusker trainers expect both to be ready.

Still listed as nursing ailments are monster back Wonder Monds, who has a sprained ankle, and wingback Tom Heiser, who has a pulled hamstring muscle.

If Heiser can't go, Coach Tom Osborne said he will use tight end Rick Panneton at wingback and move up Ken Spaeth at tight end. Tim Borg would suit up at monster in Monds' absence.

The Huskers went through a short workout in sweat clothes Thursday. After practice, Osborne praised the 21 seniors on the unbeaten Nebraska team.

"Sometimes when you get to be a senior, you think more about personal goals than team goals," he said. "But with these seniors, it hasn't been that way at all. They have continuously stressed team effort."

Husker seniors making their final home appearance Saturday are:

Rik Bonness, Jim Burrow, Tom Coccia, Rich Costanzo, Mike Coyle, Tony Davis, Dean

NU Matmen Open Season

By KEN HAMBLETON

Star Sports Writer

Nebraska wrestling coach Orval Borgiagli will get a chance to see just how good his Husker team is when they compete against some of the nation's best wrestlers Friday and Saturday in the Great Plains Open at the NU Coliseum.

"This will be a good meet for our wrestlers to see the best and compete against them," said Borgiagli. "A strong showing here could give us a lot of momentum going into the regular season."

"This will be a tough meet. Maybe too tough," Borgiagli said. "We're always worried about injuries in this kind of meet."

"Right now, we're in good shape with only two people out," Borgiagli said referring to letterman Mark Borer and freshman Kent Lang, who suffered knee injuries.

With seven seniors, the most ever for Borgiagli, and 11 returning lettermen, the Huskers figure to be in the thick of the Big Eight race this year.

"You always have to figure on Oklahoma State, winner of the past six conference titles, Iowa State, 1974's NCAA champion and Oklahoma," Borgiagli said. "But we might crack the top three this year."

The Huskers will be pinning their hopes on Bob Johnson at 190, heavyweight Bruce Conger, Tony Jennings at 142 Bill Hoffman at 177. All four wrestlers placed in the top three in the Big 8 meet last year.

"Those guys can compete with anybody," Borgiagli said.

Tom Knobloch, at 158, Mark Borer at 167 and Ken Christensen at 150 are expected to fill the NU lineup with the strongest Husker team in years, according to Borgiagli.

"We also have eight freshmen that were state champions last year in high school that could make the difference for us," said Borgiagli, whose team finished 9-3 in dual meets last year.

There will be a reception Saturday morning from 9:30-11 in the Nebraska stadium office lounge for Fran Nagle, who's in Lincoln for masters' week and was the Huskers' starting quarterback for the 1949-50 teams.

Favored Omaha South walked away with Thursday night's Nebraska Boys' State Gymnastics Meet team title in record style at the East High Gym behind the standout performances of Jim and John Hartung.

The Hartung brothers dominated placing 1-2 in the first three events, leading the Packers to a meet record 179.62 points, bettering the mark of 152 set in 1972 by Lincoln Southeast.

Jim Hartung, a 5-2, 120-pound sophomore, qualified first in five events to capture the all-around championship with a 54.10 total, edging John's 46.80.

Jim Beal of East took third in the all-around, placing third in the horizontal bars, parallel bars and still rings.

Lincoln Southeast's Mark Hobson finished fourth, qualifying fifth in the still rings and horizontal bars.

South outdistanced North Platte to give coach Richard

Beran the Packers' first state gymnastics championship.

North Platte won a close battle for second with 152.05, nipping Southeast's 149.09.

"This is the best they've hit all year," a pleased Beran said, of his team's record-setting performance.

"If we can match today's effort, tomorrow, we'll be in good shape," he said.

"What really pleased me was getting four kids in the finals in four events and three in two events," Beran said.

Jim, the reigning national A.A.U. Junior Olympic all-around champion agreed.

"This was our best team performance all year," he said. "Everybody hit pretty good."

The championship came as no surprise to Beran, in his ninth year at South.

"I knew this team had the potential from the start," he said. "I knew they could be

Huskers Head For No. 11

Nebraska, two games away from its goal of a perfect season, will get No. 10 Saturday against Iowa State in the final home game at Memorial Stadium. The Cornhuskers, however, will have to wait until next Saturday to clinch an outright Big Eight Conference championship.

My crystal ball shows Nebraska winning over the Cyclones 33-10, but it also lights up Oklahoma red by 21-14 over Missouri in their big game at Columbia, Mo.

It is interesting to note that the 1975 Huskers are averaging exactly the same number of yards rushing as the 1974 team had, at the end of the season — 259.8 yards a game. Passing-wise, the average is about six yards a game lower, undoubtedly caused by last week's 105 yards against Kansas State.

Offensively, then, you must say Nebraska is as good as it was a year ago since the non-conference schedules both years were comparable. Improvement is noted on defense where the passing figures against the Huskers are just six-tenths of a yard apart, but where defense against the rush shows a 45-yard a game improvement.

Three Huskers are in the running for the Football Writers Association All-American team, which will be finalized at a meeting in Chicago Nov. 30. They are center Rik Bonness, defensive tackle Mike Fultz and monster Wonder Monds.

In other Big Eight games Saturday, Oklahoma State will whip Kansas State 24-3, as the Wildcats' touchdown drouth continues, and Colorado will nip Kansas 14-13 as the Jayhawks disappoint the home folks at Lawrence.

Indiana Has 'Elephant I'

Coach Lee Corso has come up with what he calls an "Elephant I" formation on short yardage situations for his "pink elephant" Indiana Hoosiers, who will drop game No. 8 Saturday against Wisconsin.

He lined up two tackles side-by-side on one side of the offensive line with a third tackle just behind them in the wingback position against Ohio State and got a first down five times in five tries.

Ohio State and Michigan will win again Saturday as the Buckeyes and Wolverines head for their Big Ten title showdown a week from Saturday in Ann Arbor. It will be the eighth consecutive year the two have played for the championship. That's why the Big Ten is called the "Big Two and the Tiny Eight."

The Bucks will whip Minnesota and Michigan will bop Illinois. The other league game will find Purdue knocking off

Iowa for the third Boilermaker victory of the season — all against Big Ten teams.

I guess Nebraska and Arizona State really don't share the longest winning streak (10) alive among "major" colleges. Arkansas State has won 12 in a row and since it's a Division I NCAA member it is considered major. It's streak has come at the expense of such "powers" as Texas-Arlington, McNeese St., and SW Louisiana twice, NW Louisiana, Idaho, Memphis State, Lamar, Tennessee-Chattanooga and Southern Illinois.

Nearest thing to a power in that list is Memphis State. Arkansas State closes out with Texas-Arlington and Louisiana Tech. This is a graphic example of why the NCAA needs a "super" division of the top 80 or so majors. Arkansas State has a stadium with 16,343 seats and last year had 42,705 fans for five home games.

Northern Colorado, which is an NCAA Division II team, defeated Washburn of Kansas 22-7 last Saturday to keep alive its 16-game winning streak.

Picking The Other Teams

Alabama plays its traditional "patsy" before the Auburn game and will win handily over Southern Mississippi. Bear Bryant, wanting to make sure he hands Shug Jordan a one final beating in Shug's last coaching stint, arranged for an open date next Saturday. Shug, however, did the same thing (open date), but is matched against tough Georgia Saturday and will lose another one.

Here are the remaining predictions:

Southeastern Conference: Florida over Kentucky, LSU over Mississippi State, Tennessee over Mississippi, Vanderbilt over Army.

Pacific-8: California over Air Force, Stanford over Oregon, UCLA over Oregon State, Southern California over Washington, Washington State over Idaho.

Southwest: Arkansas over SMU, Texas A & M over Rice, Texas Tech over Baylor, Texas over TCU.

South: Miami of Florida over Florida State, Georgia Tech over Navy, Maryland over Clemson, Houston over Memphis State, North Carolina State over Duke, South Carolina over Wake Forest, Tulane over North Carolina, Louisville over NE Louisiana, West Virginia over Richmond, VPI over VMI.

Midwest: Notre Dame over Pittsburgh, Miami of Ohio over Kent State, Ball State over Illinois State, Wichita State over Drake, Cincinnati over Ohio U., Bowling Green over Southern Illinois, Tulsa over Indiana State, Berlinz over Corona (the language will be better than the food).

West — San Diego State over San Jose State, Arizona State over Pacific, Arizona over Colorado State, Arkansas State over Texas-Arlington, Utah State over Boise State, Brigham Young over Utah, Hawaii over Texas-El Paso, Long Beach State over Cal State-San Luis Obispo, New Mexico over Wyoming, North Texas State over New Mexico State.

Since Slippery Rock has ended its season (on a winning note 17-14 over Clarion), my new favorite is Wabash over De Pauw in the battle for the Monon Bell. Wabash was old Wabash when DePauw was a pup and Wabash will be Wabash when DePauw has grown up, so the song goes. The Monon, incidentally, was a railroad that connected Wabash at Crawfordville and DePauw at Greencastle back in Indiana.

ISU Fullback Said Doubtful

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State will face an awesome task Saturday when it meets No. 2 Nebraska with the possibility of being without its No. 1 fullback.

Mike Williams, seventh leading Big Eight ground gamer this season, was listed as doubtful by Coach Earle Bruce. He had a bruised ankle which has been slow mending this week, Bruce said.

Klarens Isler will either start at fullback or see considerable action, Bruce said after Thursday's short workout.

Otis Rodgers was back with the first unit at defensive end and will start Saturday against the Huskers after missing the Missouri game with a hyperextended elbow.

Bruce said no other changes were anticipated.

"Practices have been good both offensively and defensively this week," Bruce said. "Now, we need to play errorless football and eliminate fumbles and interceptions against a team like Nebraska."

The Cyclones have not beaten Nebraska since 1960 but played the Cornhuskers a memorable 23-23 tie in 1972.

Waverly Seeks Two State Titles

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

Prep Sports Writer

What could Class B Waverly and Class A Omaha Westside possibly have in common besides a shot at the state football championships in their respective divisions Friday night?

A shot at two state championships during the same weekend.

Both schools are represented in the first state football playoffs Friday night and the fourth state girls volleyball championships being held at Scottsbluff Friday and Saturday.

It's unlikely Westside coach Don Johnson will feel the effects of the girls missing in a crowd like that expected for the battle between East High and Westside at the University of Nebraska at Omaha field Friday night.

Hash Aware

But Randy Hash of Waverly is painfully aware that the ViQueens volleyball team, winners of every Class B state title since the tournament's inception, won't be in the stands.

Randy Hash
Waverly Coach

And volleyball coach Karen Stoner is also aware that the football team won't be in Scottsbluff to root for the defending champions like they usually are.

During the Waverly domination in volleyball, the school has picked up quite a following to Scottsbluff according to Hash.

"We really feel kind of bad about the two teams playing at the same time even though we're both happy to be in that situation," Hash says. "There's three or four cheerleaders on the volleyball team, and everyone going to Scottsbluff would be at the football game."

Felt Both Places

"But most of our boys always go out there too," he adds. "So it'll be felt both places."

Hash says there will be plenty of fans on hand for the Friday football game against Lincoln Pius X at Seacrest field, and also that not all of the Lincoln people at the game will be cheering for Pius.

"We very definitely have a Lincoln following," Hash notes. "An awful lot of the Waverly people work at Goodyear and the influence spreads. Especially when you're winning."

Hash admits to taking advantage of the best of two worlds living in a small town atmosphere like Waverly's and drawing from the area they do for school.

"We draw from Alvo, Eagle, Walton and even 70th street in Lincoln as far as out to Old Cheney Road," Hash says.

Likes Atmosphere

"I like the small town atmosphere," Hash adds. "It's really important to me when the people in the town get behind you. At Waverly, we've got a little bigger school system, but the small town atmosphere remains."

Living in that type of surroundings is one reason Hash was pushing for an afternoon game, although he agreed with Pius X for the 7:30 p.m. contest.

"The type of people that follow us would have gotten off work anyway," Hash says. "They'd be there both afternoon and night if they had to."

That's why Hash lives in Waverly while many teachers commute from Lincoln.

'Bad Guy' Gorsuch Set To Be In Best Behavior

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

After winning the Big 8 tennis championship as a freshman, Jack Gorsuch optioned out of college for a career in the sport.

For a 19-year-old who was ranked No. 2 in the country as a junior last year, Gorsuch has already earned the title of a "bad guy" in some tennis circles.

It's a title he isn't exactly proud of, and the talented native of Bridgton, Mo. is planning to try and shed that image in Lincoln Saturday and Sunday.

Gorsuch will be on hand for the Mid-Plains Indoor Invitational Tennis Tournament at the Lincoln Racquet Club as the No. 1 seed when play begins Saturday at 9 a.m.

"I'll try to be on my best behavior this weekend," Gorsuch joked from his Missouri home. "It's kind of a funny situation."

"You're at one place so short a time in this game, that any impression people get is a lasting one," he said. "If you have one blowup during a week-long event, people think of you as a bad guy. But in another place, there may be a good week, and everybody thinks you're great."

"I sure don't like to be considered bad," he added. "I like to think that the good guys always win. And I'll try my hardest to do just that."

Gorsuch will have some stiff competition in No. 2 seeded David Parker of Galesburg, Ill.

Parker owns a single win over Gorsuch in previous competition.

The No. 3 seed went to Colin Robertson of Oklahoma City, ranked No. 2 in the Missouri Valley this past summer.

Fourth-seeded will be Kent Woodward of Westminster, Colo.

Woodward qualified for the semifinals in the Denver World Championship Tennis tournament with the likes of Jim Connors, Ken Rosewall and John Newcombe.

To show the strength of the seeds, Nebraska's No. 1 player, Dave Weber of the Omaha Racquet Club, champion of the National Parks 35 and other singles title, is unseeded.

All matches will be played at the Lincoln Racquet Club, 5300 Old Cheney Road.

After the quarterfinals Saturday night, the only session closed to the public, Sunday's semifinals will begin at 10 a.m. and noon with the finals scheduled for 4 p.m.

There will be no spectator fee during Saturday's action but a small fee will be charged for Sunday's sessions.

Prize money of $1,000 is being offered to the field with proceeds from the tournament going to the Lincoln Tennis Foundation.

The foundation is sponsoring junior tennis development in Lincoln.

HOME TEAM IN CAPS. *Night game. HC - Homecoming.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15

Ark. 30 - SMU 23—Trying to break back-to-back draws.

BROWN (HC) 23 - Harvard 17—Moment of truth with Ivy League championship on line. Key here is availability of Crimson QB Kubacki.

Calif. 24 - A. FORCE 16—Offensive-minded Rose Bowl contender has tremendous momentum going. But this game is inconsequential.

Colo. 20 - KANS. 16—Celebrating KU has played steadier defense, but CU has proved it can do good job vs. Washburne. . . held Sooners to 177 total yards & O-State to 187. Favor Buffs' more versatile offensive weapons to bring Jayhawks down to earth. Both have bowl incentive.

DART. 24 - Cornell 14—Big Green offense nothing to shout about.

*FLA. ST. (HC) 20 - Miami-F. 17—Only FSU victory '74 came in 'civil war' vs. M-F.

FLA. 30 - Kentucky 23—As though Kentucky didn't already have 'enuf problems, it must now face hostile & vengeful Gators.

GA. TECH 24 - Navy 13—Reputed Middle defense hasn't faced Washburne since last year vs. Tech, & got torn up.

GEORGIA 24 - Auburn 10—Annual vendetta should bring out best effort from terribly-frustrated Tigers.

*LSU 20 - Miss. ST. 16—No compelling arguments for either side.

Mary. 31 - CLEMSON 17—Maryland won 41-0 year ago & had 3 TDs called back. Claborn's done it again.

*MEMPHIS 27 - Houston 17—Whetever dynamite Houston has on attack is more than offset by constant turnovers.

MICH. ST. 24 - N. Western 7—Brutal attack & pending probation has apparently taken sparkle out of Spartans.

Michigan 31 - ILLINOIS 10—Blackman blamed officiating for Illini's '74 defeat. Altha Ohio ST. titanic is next, this hasn't distracted Wolverines.

NEB. 34 - Iowa ST. 20—Oklahoma next, but like Michigan before Ohio ST., Huskers usually rip in this spot: almost as the from nervous anticipation. ISU's ground-oriented game gets swarmed under by savage Black Shield defense.

N. Car. ST. 24 - DUKE 14—Difference here may well lie in different philosophies & coaching techniques of Holtz & McGee.

N. Dame 17 - PIT 16—Pitt's best chance in years to avenge some of those recent beatings.

OHIO ST. 41 - Munn 7—Warmup for Michigan showdown, despite recent Gopher surge. Munn will face more pressure than he can handle.

OKLA. ST. (HC) 20 - Kans. ST. 16—Pokes won '74 on 2 blocked punts & 3 pass interceptions. . . won't need such breaks to dominate feeble K-S offense. Overburdened Wildcat defense was starting to cave in before puffy Nebraska effort. Fourth time K-State has faced Washburne: 2-1 on plus side vs. pointspread against Bone. Check wounded OSU QBing - Burk & Weatherize.

OKLA. 27 - MISSOURI 13—Missouri's rushing defense has taken lumps this season, & it will really be tested here by retribution-seeking Sooners. KU win vs. Okla. may give Tigers some ideas but that's about all. Oklahoma defense has completely blunted Onfro's team in recent yrs.

PENN 23 - COLUMBIA 17 — Columbia approaching respectability.

PURDUE 27 - Iowa 14—Tuff opposition has obscured fact that Purdue is playing pretty good ball now.

S. CAR. 27 - W. For. 24—This region's 2 most improved teams.

STANF. 27 - Ore. 13—Offensively, Ducks don't have more than couple of players who could start for Stanford.

Syr. 34 - VIRGINIA 7—Cavaliers have taken lot of bad beatings; can take just so much. Frugal Syracuse defense should throttle Virginia.

Tenn. 17 - Miss. 17—Vols came together at this time year ago, but it is ? whether history will repeat.

Tex. A&M 27 - RICE 7—Aggies won't have any trouble getting up for backyard antagonist. Big, active defense will pick Owls' feathers apart.

TEXAS TECH 27 - Baylor 17—Baylor try to run up score, but may not be able to help self. After last year, anything will be improvement.

*TULANE 17 - N. Car. 13—Tars just not doing things you have to do to win football games; too late to regroup now.

UCLA 28 - Ore. ST. 7—With Rose Bowl incentive & memory of Washington upset, Bruins should put end to OSU 7-game streak.

VANDY 24 - Army 7—Return of QB Fisher provides needed offensive spark for Commodores. Army outscored 245-47 last 7 games.

WASH. 17 - S. Calif. 14—Don't see how Trojans can pick up pieces from shattered season.

WIS. 26 - Indiana 17—Season over for both, if there ever was a season!

ISU Fullback Said Doubtful

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State will face an awesome task Saturday when it meets No. 2 Nebraska with the possibility of being without its No. 1 fullback. Mike Williams, seventh leading big eight ground gainer this season, was listed as doubtful by Coach Earle Bruce. He had a bruised ankle which has been slow mending this week, Bruce said.

Klarence Isler will either start at fullback or see considerable action, Bruce said after Thursday's short workout.

Otis Rodgers was back with the first unit at defensive end and will start Saturday against the Huskers after missing the Missouri game with a hyperextended elbow.

Bruce said no other changes were anticipated.

"Practices have been good both offensively and defensively this week," Bruce said. "Now, we need to play errorless football and eliminate fumbles and interceptions against a team like Nebraska."

The Cyclones have not beaten Nebraska since 1960 but played the Cornhuskers a memorable 23-23 tie in 1972.

Waverly Seeks Two State Titles

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
Prep Sports Writer

What could Class B Waverly and Class A Omaha Westside possibly have in common besides a shot at the state football championships in their respective divisions Friday night?

A shot at two state championships during the same weekend.

Both schools are represented in the first state football playoffs Friday night and the fourth state girls volleyball championships being held at Scottsbluff Friday and Saturday.

It's unlikely Westside coach Don Johnson will feel the crowd of the girls missing in a week like that expected for the battle between East High and Westside at the University of Nebraska at Omaha field Friday night.

Hash Aware
But Randy Hash of Waverly is painfully aware that the ViQueens volleyball team, winners of every Class B state title, won't be in the stands.

Randy Hash
Waverly Coach

Stoner and volleyball coach Karen Anderson also aware that the football team won't be in Scottsbluff to root for the defending champions like they usually are.

During the Waverly domination in volleyball, the school has picked up quite a following to Scottsbluff according to Hash. "We really feel kind of bad about the two teams playing at the same time even though we're both happy to be in that situation," Hash says. "There's three or four cheerleaders on the volleyball team, and everyone going to Scottsbluff will be at the football game."

Felt Both Places

"But most of our boys always go out there too," he adds. "So it'll be felt both places."

Hash says there will be plenty of fans on hand for the Friday football game against Lincoln Pius X at Seacrest field, and also that not all of the Lincoln people at the game will be cheering for Pius.

"We very definitely have a Lincoln following," Hash notes. "An awful lot of the Waverly people work at Goodyear and the influence spreads. Especially when you're winning."

Hash admits taking advantage of the best of two worlds living in a small town atmosphere like Waverly's and drawing from the area they do for school.

"We draw from 70th, Eagle, Walton and even 70th street in Lincoln as far as out to Old Cheney Road," Hash says.

Likes Atmosphere

"I like the small town atmosphere," Hash adds. "It's really important to me when the people in the town get behind you. At Waverly, we've got a little bigger school system, but the small town atmosphere remains."

Living in that type of surroundings is one reason Hash was pushing for an afternoon game, although he agreed with Pius X for the 7:30 p.m. contest.

"The type of game that follow us would have gotten off work anyway," Hash says. "They'd be there both afternoon and night if they had to."

That's why Hash lives in Waverly while many teachers commute from Lincoln.

'Bad Guy' Gorsuch Set To Be In Best Behavior

By CHUCK SINCLAIR

After winning the Big 8 tennis championship as a freshman, Jack Gorsuch optioned out of college for a career in the sport.

For a 19-year-old who was ranked No. 2 in the country as a junior last year, Gorsuch has already earned the title of a "bad guy" in some tennis circles.

It's a title he isn't exactly proud of, and the talented native of Bridgton, Mo. is planning to try and shed that image in Lincoln Saturday and Sunday.

Gorsuch will be on hand for the Mid-Plains Indoor Invitational Tennis Tournament at the Lincoln Racquet Club as the No. 1 seed when play begins Saturday at 9 a.m.

"I'll try to be on my best behavior this weekend," Gorsuch joked from his Missouri home. "It's kind of a funny situation."

"You're at one place so short a time in this game, that any impression people get is a lasting one," he said. "If you have one blowup during a week-long event, people think of you as a bad guy. But in another place, there may be a good week, and everybody thinks you're great."

"I sure don't like to be considered bad," he added. "I like to think that the good guys always win. And I'll try my hardest to do just that."

Gorsuch will have some stiff competition in No. 2 seeded David Parker of Gailburg, Ill. Parker owns a single win over Gorsuch in previous competition.

The No. 3 seed went to Colin Robertson of Oklahoma City, ranked No. 2 in the Missouri Valley this past summer.

Fourth-seeded will be Kent Woodard of Westminster, Colo.

Woodard qualified for the semifinals in the Denver World Championship Tennis tournament with the likes of Jim Connors, Ken Rosewall and John Newcombe.

To show the strength of the seeds, Nebraska's No. 1 player, Dave Weber of the Omaha Racquet Club, champion of the National Parks 35 and other singles title, is unseeded.

All matches will be played at the Lincoln Racquet Club, 5300 Old Cheney Road.

After the quarterfinals Saturday night, the only session closed to the public, Sunday's semifinals will begin at 10 a.m. and noon with the finals scheduled for 4 p.m.

There will be no spectator fee during Saturday's action but a small fee will be charged for Sunday's sessions.

Prize money of $1,000 is being offered to the field with proceeds from the tournament going to the Lincoln Tennis Foundation.

SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT IN LINCOLN AREA

The Iowa Reading Lab, of Des Moines, will offer a 4 week course in speed reading to a limited number of qualified people in the Lincoln area. A person is required to attend only one 2½ hour class per week, on the evening of their choice for 4 weeks only. The course guarantees to triple the person's reading speed with a marked improvement in comprehension and concentration. The guarantee, however, is a bare minimum as the average graduate will read 7 to 10 times faster. They can read almost any average book in less than one hour.

For those who would like additional information, a series of free, one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled. At these free lectures the course will be explained in complete detail, including classroom procedures, instruction methods, class schedule and a special 1 time only introductory tuition that is less than one-third the cost of similar courses. You must attend only one of the free meetings for complete details. You may attend any of the meetings for information about the Lincoln classes. These orientations are open to the public, above age 14, (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent if possible.)

If you have always wanted to be a speed reader but found the cost prohibitive or the course too time consuming

... now you can! Just by attending one evening per week for 4 short weeks you can read 7 to 10 times faster, concentrate better and comprehend more. If you are a student who would like to make A's instead of B's or C's or if you are a business person who wants to stay abreast of today's everchanging accelerating world, then this course is an absolute necessity. These Free one hour meetings will be held at the following times and places.

Thursday, November 13th

NU Leading In Scoring—Both Ways

Kansas City (AP) — Unbeaten and second-ranked Nebraska is doing best among Big Eight Conference football teams in the things that count most—scoring and holding the opposition to the fewest points.

The Huskers, who lead the conference in four major statistical departments, have made 291 points in nine games for an average of 32.3 points a game.

Oklahoma is second with a 29.7-point average and Colorado third with 28.1.

In scoring defense, Nebraska has allowed only 85 points or a 9.4-point game average.

Behind the Huskers are Kansas with an 11-point average and Oklahoma with 12.3.

The Huskers also are out front in rushing defense and total defense.

They have yielded 1,087 yards on 376 rushes and have a game average of 120.8 yards.

Oklahoma has given up an average of 146.7 yards and Colorado 179.6.

Nebraska's opponents have been able to gain only 1,967 yards on 553 runs and passes and averaged 218.6 yards.

Trailing the Huskers in total defense are Oklahoma with 235.9 and Kansas with 271.6.

Iowa State is the pass defense leader.

Oklahoma has allowed an average of 89.4 yards and Kansas 91.1.

Oklahoma's runners have made the best mark in rushing. The Sooners have rushed 587 times for 2,737 yards for a 304.1-yard game average.

Next are Kansas with 297.8 and Colorado with 283.8.

Missouri, as expected, is the leader in passing.

The Tigers have completed 105 of 202 tosses for 1,554 yards and averaged 172.7 yards a game.

Nebraska's game average is 146.4 yards and Colorado's 125.8.

Colorado is ahead in total offense.

The Buffs, on 709 plays, have gathered 3,731 yards for a 414.6-yard game average.

Nebraska ranks second with 406.0 yards and Missouri third with 380.0.

Selmons, Elrod Top Big 8's Nominees

Kansas City (AP) — The Selmon brothers — Leroy and Dewey — and teammate Jimbo Elrod of Oklahoma lead the parade of Big Eight Conference football players under consideration for the 1975 All-America team.

Almost every Big Eight board member has pointed the finger at the big, rugged defensive trio of the Sooners.

Frank Haraway of the Denver Post says Elrod "is the best I've seen at defensive end. At defensive tackle, it's Leroy. He's the best."

"Make it Dewey Selmon at middle guard with John Lee of Nebraska another exceptionally good one."

Bob Hentzen of the Topeka Capital-Journal describes Leroy as "the best defender in the Big Eight."

"How do you separate them ... Leroy and Dewey Selmon?" asks Steve Southerland of WREN Radio in Topeka.

"They are the hub of the Sooners' great defense."

Most of the board members singled out Nolan Cromwell, the safety turned quarterback at Kansas; defensive tackle Mike Butler and defensive back Kurt Knoff, also of Kansas; center Rik Bonness, cornerback Dave Butterfield, fullback Tony Davis, defensive back Wonder Monds and linebacker Clete Pillen of Nebraska.

And quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, tailback Tony Galbreath and split end Henry Marshall of Missouri, running back Joe Washington of Oklahoma, linebacker Gary Spani of Kansas State, offensive guard Derrel Goforth and running back Terry Miller of Oklahoma State and tailback Mike Williams of Iowa State.

NU Leading In Scoring—Both Ways

Kansas City (AP) — Unbeaten and second-ranked Nebraska is doing best among Big Eight Conference football teams in the things that count most — scoring and holding the opposition to the fewest points.

The Huskers, who lead the conference in four major statistical departments, have made 291 points in nine games for an average of 32.3 points a game.

Oklahoma is second with a 29.7-point average and Colorado third with 28.1.

In scoring defense, Nebraska has allowed only 85 points or a 9.4-point game average.

Behind the Huskers are Kansas with an 11-point average and Oklahoma with 12.3.

The Huskers also are out front in rushing defense and total defense.

They have yielded 1,087 yards on 376 rushes and have a game average of 120.8 yards.

Oklahoma has given up an average of 146.7 yards and Colorado 179.6.

Nebraska's opponents have been able to gain only 1,967 yards on 553 runs and passes and averaged 218.6 yards.

Trailing the Huskers in total defense are Oklahoma with 235.9 and Kansas with 271.6.

Iowa State is the pass defense leader.

The Cyclones have permitted only 56 completions on 137 throws for 734 yards with their nine opponents averaging only 81.6 yards.

Oklahoma has allowed an average of 89.4 yards and Kansas 91.1.

Oklahoma's runners have made the best mark in rushing. The Sooners have rushed 587 times for 2,737 yards for a 304.1-yard game average.

Next are Kansas with 297.8 and Colorado with 288.8.

Missouri, as expected, is the leader in passing.

The Tigers have completed 105 of 202 tosses for 1,554 yards and averaged 172.7 yards a game.

Nebraska's game average is 146.4 yards and Colorado's 125.8.

Colorado is ahead in total offense.

The Buffs, on 709 plays, have gathered 3,731 yards for a 414.6-yard game average.

Nebraska ranks second with 406.0 yards and Missouri third with 380.0.

Selmons, Elrod Top Big 8's Nominees

Kansas City (AP) — The Selmon brothers — Leroy and Dewey — and teammate Jimbo Elrod of Oklahoma lead the parade of Big Eight Conference football players under consideration for the 1975 All-America team.

Almost every Big Eight board member has pointed the finger at the big, rugged defensive trio of the Sooners.

Frank Haraway of the Denver Post says Elrod "is the best I've seen at defensive end. At defensive tackle, it's Leroy. He's the best."

"Make it Dewey Selmon at middle guard with John Lee of Nebraska another exceptionally good one."

Bob Hentzen of the Topeka Capital-Journal describes Leroy as "the best defender in the Big Eight."

"How do you separate them ... Leroy and Dewey Selmon?" asks Steve Southerland of WREN Radio in Topeka.

"They are the hub of the Sooners' great defense."

Most of the board members singled out Nolan Cromwell, the safety turned quarterback at Kansas; defensive tackle Mike Butler and defensive back Kurt Knoff, also of Kansas; center Rik Bonness, cornerback Dave Butterfield, fullback Tony Davis, defensive back Wonder Monds and linebacker Clele Pillen of Nebraska.

And quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, tailback Tony Galbreath and split end Henry Marshall of Missouri, running back Joe Washington of Oklahoma, linebacker Gary Spani of Kansas State, offensive guard Derrel Gofourth and running back Terry Miller of Oklahoma State and tailback Mike Williams of Iowa State.

Chuck Woodling of the Lawrence, Kan., Journal World describes Monds as "a head-hunter with great speed."

Helmet, Headlight Laws Cut Deaths, Study Says

(c) Newhouse News Service
Washington — Laws requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets and turn on headlights in daytime are effective in reducing the rate of fatal accidents, an insurance industry report says.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, a research organization supported by a number of insurance companies, compared the fatal crash rate in eight states with mandatory helmet use laws with that in seven other states without such laws. (In the comparisons, one state was used twice.)

The fatality rate declined from more than 10 per 10,000 registered motorcycles the year before the states enacted mandatory use laws to about 7 per 10,000 in each of the two following years.

"In contrast, the average fatal involvement rate in the ... matched states that enacted no helmet laws at the time the comparison state did so remained at about 10 per 10,000 registered motorcycles throughout the period studied," the report says.

The eight states that adopted helmet laws were Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland and Minnesota.

States without laws during the period were California, New Mexico, Montana, Virginia, Mississippi, West Virginia and Iowa, used twice in the comparisons.

Prior to 1967, only three states had mandatory use laws. Now, all but California and Illinois have them. Utah's law applies only at speeds above 35 miles per hour.

The report also compared fatal crash involvement rates in four states that require motorcyclists to use their headlight during the day — to make them easier for auto drivers to see — with four states not having such requirements.

The report found, "The proportion of fatal crashes involving motorcycles decreased from that of the prior year in each of the states enacting such laws relative to the total such fatalities in it and its comparison state."

The findings were judged "sufficiently encouraging to justify their consideration" in states that do not have headlight use laws.

The four states with mandatory use laws were Georgia, Illinois, New York and North Carolina. States without the laws during the period were Florida, Iowa, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The Sheldon Art Gallery has received an antique gold bracelet possibly from the third century B.C. and believed to have once belonged to Napoleon.

The bracelet was given to the gallery by an anonymous donor who also provided funds for the special case in which the bracelet is displayed.

City Tree Policy Rapped By Near South Residents

People living in the Near South neighborhood didn't exactly have flowery words of praise about the city's master tree planting program.

In fact, representatives of the neighborhood association think the existing policies aren't flexible enough and want the Parks and Recreation Board to do something about it.

The board decided Thursday to do just that.

Joan Stoner, 2424 Garfield, said many neighborhood residents own larger, older houses. As a result, she said, they would prefer planting large, shade trees in front of their lots rather than low, ornamental ones.

She also contended that people living along such streets as 25th from Sumner to Washington have been told by the city they can't plant a tree in the strip between sidewalk and street because the strip is too narrow.

Other homeowners decided they would plant trees at their own expense, following the city's master plan. But, the residents discovered, the trees for their block were patented ones and not available at local nurseries.

Wayne Willmang, city arborist, explained the reasoning for some of the policies.

For instance, the city requires that there be a minimum of six feet in the area between the curb and sidewalk or no tree will be planted. The parks department made that policy, Willmang said, on the recommendation of the Public Works Department. Protruding tree roots could cause a hazard to both pedestrians and motorists otherwise, he said.

Willmang said the department "is trying to achieve a mix" of trees from street to street in determining whether flowering trees or larger trees should be planted.

One problem in planting larger trees in older areas of town, he indicated, is the existence of overhead wires and small areas in which to plant a tree.

Willmang said the city now only uses one patented variety of maple, and that other species of maple are available.

Rentschler Guilty In Stock Sale Fraud

CHICAGO (AP) — William M. Rentschler, who managed former President Richard M. Nixon's 1968 Illinois campaign, was convicted Thursday of fraud in the sale of stock in a Malaysian timber-cutting operation.

Rentschler, 50, and two associates also were found guilty by a U.S. District Court jury of conspiracy and securities act violations. The verdict came after five hours of deliberations on the six-week trial before Judge Hubert L. Will.

Convicted with Rentschler were Lloyd D. Hardesty, 43, of suburban Westchester and Calvin Buehrer, 51, of Green Bay, Wis. Hardesty was acquitted of making a threatening telephone call to a stockholder in the purported timber-cutting company, Corporation Mid America Inc.

The three face maximum sentences of five years in prison and $10,000 fines on the conspiracy charges; five years and $5,000 on each of eight security fraud charges, and five years and $1,000 each on eight mail fraud charges.

Rentschler still faces unrelated charges of swindling more than $1.4 million in loans from 28 financial institutions.

The government charged that the three men defrauded investors out of $79,000 by telling them that the late U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen obtained for the company a concession to cut 40,000 acres of timber in Malaysia. It said stock purchasers also were told that the venture was backed by the Agency for International Development and could not fail because of Rentschler's political influence.

Two Nursing Homes Face Financial Crisis

Omaha (AP) — Two nursing homes operated by the Sisters of Mercy say they are losing about $24,000 a month combined because state-set payments for welfare patients meet only 60% of the cost of providing care.

Officials of St. Catherine's Continuing Care Center and St. Vincent's Home for the Aged are seeking a meeting with Gov. J. James Exon to ask for higher reimbursement.

"The present levels for welfare patients have left both institutions in a financial crisis," said James Johnson, administrator of Bergan Mercy Hospital, which coordinates administration of the two homes.

Both homes stopped accepting more welfare recipients about four weeks ago. More than half of combined total of both homes' patients are welfare recipients — 138 of 216 at St. Catherine's and 98 of 235 at St. Vincent's.

Johnson said with present welfare rates and anticipated increased expenses, the two institutions together are projected to lose more than $285,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1976. Each institution has an operating budget this year of about $1.5 million.

He said one major factor is an increase in the minimum wage for nursing home employees from $2 to $2.35 effective Jan. 1.

Another is the cost of updating the homes to meet the latest state and federal building codes.

Johnson said St. Vincent's had been breaking even in the last few years, but St. Catherine's has been borrowing money from the parent Sisters of Mercy, and now owes $360,000.

Asked what will be done if welfare payments are not increased soon, Johnson said, "We don't know what we will do if we fail to get relief."

The boards would like to see Gov. Exon reconsider his decision to delay implementation of a federal welfare reimbursement.

The new Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulation will mean that as of July 1, 1976 nursing homes must be reimbursed on the basis of daily costs to provide care rather than a set fee, Johnson said.

"The new regulations already have been put into effect in some states, but Gov. Exon has elected for budgetary reasons to postpone implementation in Nebraska until the federal deadline," Johnson said.

Johnson said the homes would like to see the welfare payments brought up to the same level charged for non-welfare patients. The homes charges to non-welfare patients are about 30% higher, he said.

Pope Rejects Reformers' Demands

Vatican City (UPI) — Pope Paul VI Thursday emphatically rejected Roman Catholic reformers' demands that bishops help cardinals choose his successor and warned against electronic eavesdropping during the secret ballot.

"The right to elect the Roman pontiff belongs solely to the cardinals of the Holy Roman Church," Pope Paul said. "Any intervention of any other ecclesiastical dignitary of lay power of whatsoever degree and order is absolutely excluded."

He recommended in a 62-page papal decree setting out the rules for the election of the next pontiff that electronics experts be added to the security staff of the sealed-off conclave.

"... Two technicians who by the use, if necessary, of appropriate modern equipment will test for the presence of ... technical instruments for recording, reproduction or transmission of voices and images," the Pope said.

Other changes in papal election procedures included:

— Formalization of an earlier ruling by Pope Paul, 78, stripping cardinals over the age of 80 of the papal vote.

— Enlarging to 120 the maximum number of cardinal electors.

— Possible use of an absolute majority vote if electors could not agree on a new Pope by the traditional two-thirds majority after nine days of voting and mediation.

— Reducing the number of conclave members by excluding cardinals' aides.

Dead Iowan Undercover Drug Agent

Pierre, S.D. (UPI) — South Dakota Atty. Gen. William Janklow Thursday lauded the efforts of an Iowa woman acting as an undercover narcotics agent who was found stabbed to death in a Rapid City motel this week.

Janklow said he plans to attend the funeral for Joleen Hass, 22, set for 11 a.m. Friday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Fort Dodge, Iowa. He said he would be accompanied by other law enforcement personnel from South Dakota.

"In the last three years she helped convict leading drug pushers in Iowa and assisted in cases in Vermillion, Yankton, and about 20 cases in Pennington County," Janklow said. "That girl had a heart of gold," he added.

No arrests had been made in Rapid City yet on evidence she had submitted, Janklow said, because it would have "blown her cover."

Earlier in the day, Jack Klauk, state's attorney for Pennington County, said Miss Hass had been working in Rapid City about six or seven months, but so far no cases had been filed in connection with evidence she had gathered.

Helmet, Headlight Laws Cut Deaths, Study Says

(c) Newhouse News Service
Washington — Laws requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets and turn on headlights in daytime are effective in reducing the rate of fatal accidents, an insurance industry report says.

The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, a research organization supported by a number of insurance companies, compared the fatal crash rate in eight states with mandatory helmet use laws with that in seven other states without such laws. (In the comparisons, one state was used twice.)

The fatality rate declined from more than 10 per 10,000 registered motorcycles the year before the states enacted mandatory use laws to about 7 per 10,000 in each of the two following years.

"In contrast, the average fatal involvement rate in the ... matched states that enacted no helmet laws at the time the comparison state did so remained at about 10 per 10,000 registered motorcycles throughout the period studied," the report says.

The eight states that adopted helmet laws were Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland and Minnesota.

States without laws during the period were California, New Mexico, Montana, Virginia, Mississippi, West Virginia and Iowa, used twice in the comparisons.

Prior to 1967, only three states had mandatory use laws. Now, all but California and Illinois have them. Utah's law applies only at speeds above 35 miles per hour.

The report also compared fatal crash involvement rates in four states that require motorcyclists to use their headlight during the day — to make them easier for auto drivers to see — with four states not having such requirements.

The report found, "The proportion of fatal crashes involving motorcycles decreased from that of the prior year in each of the states enacting such laws relative to the total such fatalities in it and its comparison state."

The report cautioned, however, that the conclusion that daytime headlight use laws were responsible for the reduction in fatalities "must be tempered by consideration of the possibility that the states changing their ... laws were not sufficiently comparable to the available comparison states."

The findings were judged "sufficiently encouraging to justify their consideration" in states that do not have headlight use laws.

The four states with mandatory use laws were Georgia, Illinois, New York and North Carolina. States without the laws during the period were Florida, Iowa, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Two Nursing Homes Face Financial Crisis

Omaha (AP) — Two nursing homes operated by the Sisters of Mercy say they are losing about $24,000 a month combined because state-set payments for welfare patients meet only 60% of the cost of providing care.

Officials of St. Catherine's Continuing Care Center and St. Vincent's Home for the Aged are seeking a meeting with Gov. J. James Exon to ask for higher reimbursement.

"The present levels for welfare patients has left both institutions in a financial crisis," said James Johnson, administrator of Bergan Mercy Hospital, which coordinates administration of the two homes.

Both homes stopped accepting more welfare recipients about four weeks ago. More than half of combined total of both homes' patients are welfare recipients — 138 of 216 at St. Catherine's and 98 of 235 at St. Vincent's.

Johnson said with present welfare rates and anticipated increased expenses, the two institutions together are projected to lose more than $285,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1976. Each institution has an operating budget this year of about $1.5 million.

He said one major factor is an increase in the minimum wage for nursing home employees from $2 to $2.35 effective Jan. 1.

Another is the cost of updating the homes to meet the latest state and federal building codes.

Johnson said St. Vincent's had been breaking even in the last few years, but St. Catherine's has been borrowing money from the parent Sisters of Mercy, and now owes $360,000.

Asked what will be done if welfare payments are not increased soon, Johnson said, "We don't know what we will do if we fail to get relief."

The boards would like to see Gov. Exon reconsider his decision to delay implementation of a federal welfare reimbursement.

The new Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulation will mean that as of July 1, 1976 nursing homes must be reimbursed on the basis of daily costs to provide care rather than a set fee, Johnson said.

"The new regulations already have been put into effect in some states, but Gov. Exon has elected for budgetary reasons to postpone implementation in Nebraska until the federal deadline," Johnson said.

Johnson said the homes would like to see the welfare payments brought up to the same level charged for non-welfare patients. The homes charges to non-welfare patients are about 30% higher, he said.

Sheldon Gallery Receives 2,200-Year-Old Bracelet

The Sheldon Art Gallery has received an antique gold bracelet possibly from the third century B.C. and believed to have once belonged to Napoleon.

The bracelet is on display in a special case at the gallery.

The bracelet was given to the gallery by an anonymous donor who also provided funds for the special case in which the bracelet is displayed.

The gold bracelet contains three engraved stones. Two are garnets, apparently dating from the classical, Roman or Greek periods.

The third stone, a ruby, was added to the bracelet after the original was lost. The ruby replacement has been identified as the work of Johann Pichler (1934-91), one of the leading engravers of the period.

According to Sheldon Art Gallery Director Norman Geske, the tradition of ownership indicates that the bracelet was acquired by Napoleon during his campaign in Egypt and the Near East.

The bracelet was later owned by Napoleon's sister, Caroline Murat, who was queen of Naples. It was kept in the Murat family until recent years.

No monetary value has yet been assessed on the gift.

City Tree Policy Rapped By Near South Residents

People living in the Near South neighborhood didn't exactly have flowery words of praise about the city's master tree planting program.

In fact, representatives of the neighborhood association think the existing policies aren't flexible enough and want the Parks and Recreation Board to do something about it.

The board decided Thursday to do just that.

Joan Stoner, 2424 Garfield, said many neighborhood residents own larger, older houses. As a result, she said, they would prefer planting large, shade trees in front of their lots rather than low, ornamental ones.

She also contended that people living along such streets as 25th from Sumner to Washington have been told by the city they can't plant a tree in the strip between sidewalk and street because the strip is too narrow.

Other homeowners decided they would plant trees at their own expense, following the city's master plan. But, the residents discovered, the trees for their block were patented ones and not available at local nurseries.

Wayne Willmeng, city arborist, explained the reasoning for some of the policies.

For instance, the city requires that there be a minimum of six feet in the area between the curb and sidewalk or no tree will be planted. The parks department made that policy, Willmeng said, on the recommendation of the Public Works Department. Protruding tree roots could cause a hazard to both pedestrians and motorists otherwise, he said.

Willmeng said the department "is trying to achieve a mix" of trees from street to street in determining whether flowering trees or larger trees should be planted.

One problem in planting larger trees in older areas of town, he indicated, is the existence of overhead wires and small areas in which to plant a tree.

Willmeng said the city now only uses one patented variety of maple, and that other species of maple are available.

Park Board Chairman Clancy Woolman said he would ask several members of the board to meet with the department's staff and residents to consider the complaints.

Rentschler Guilty In Stock Sale Fraud

CHICAGO (AP) — William M. Rentschler, who managed former President Richard M. Nixon's 1968 Illinois campaign, was convicted Thursday of fraud in the sale of stock in a Malaysian timber-cutting operation.

Rentschler, 50, and two associates also were found guilty by a U.S. District Court jury of conspiracy and securities act violations. The verdict came after five hours of deliberations on the six-week trial before Judge Hubert L. Will.

Convicted with Rentschler were Lloyd D. Hardesty, 43, of suburban Westchester and Calvin Buehrer, 51, of Green Bay, Wis. Hardesty was acquitted of making a threatening telephone call to a stockholder in the purported timber-cutting company, Corporation Mid America Inc.

The three face maximum sentences of five years in prison and $10,000 fines on the conspiracy charges; five years and $5,000 on each of eight security fraud charges, and five years and $1,000 each on eight mail fraud charges.

Rentschler still faces unrelated charges of swindling more than $1.4 million in loans from 28 financial institutions.

The government charged that the three men defrauded investors out of $79,000 by telling them that the late U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen obtained for the company a concession to cut 40,000 acres of timber in Malaysia. It said stock purchasers also were told that the venture was backed by the Agency for International Development and could not fail because of Rentschler's political influence.

Dead Iowan Undercover Drug Agent

Pierre, S.D. (UPI) — South Dakota Atty. Gen. William Janklow Thursday lauded the efforts of an Iowa woman acting as an undercover narcotics agent who was found stabbed to death in a Rapid City motel this week.

Janklow said he plans to attend the funeral for Joleen Hass, 22, set for 11 a.m. Friday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Fort Dodge, Iowa. He said he would be accompanied by other law enforcement personnel from South Dakota.

"In the last three years she helped convict leading drug pushers in Iowa and assisted in cases in Vermillion, Yankton, and about 20 cases in Pennington County," Janklow said.

"That girl had a heart of gold," he added.

No arrests had been made in Rapid City yet on evidence she had submitted, Janklow said, because it would have "blown her cover."

Earlier in the day, Jack Klauack, state's attorney for Pennington County, said Miss Hass had been working in Rapid City about six or seven months, but so far no cases had been filed in connection with evidence she had gathered.

Pope Rejects Reformers' Demands

Vatican City (UPI) — Pope Paul VI Thursday emphatically rejected Roman Catholic reformers' demands that bishops help cardinals choose his successor and warned against electronic eavesdropping during the secret ballot.

"The right to elect the Roman pontiff belongs solely to the cardinals of the Holy Roman Church," Pope Paul said. "Any intervention of any other ecclesiastical dignity of lay power of whatsoever degree and order is absolutely excluded."

He recommended in a 62-page papal decree setting out the rules for the election of the next pontiff that electronics experts be added to the security staff of the sealed-off conclave.

"... Two technicians who by the use, if necessary, of appropriate modern equipment will test for the presence of ... technical instruments for recording, reproduction or transmission of voices and images," the Pope said.

Other changes in papal election procedures included:

- Formalization of an earlier ruling by Pope Paul, 78, stripping cardinals over the age of 80 of the papal vote.
- Enlarging to 120 the maximum number of cardinal electors.
- Possible use of an absolute majority vote if electors could not agree on a new Pope by the traditional two-thirds majority after nine days of voting and mediation.
- Reducing the number of conclave members by excluding cardinals' aides.

Mark Pleads Innocent To 4 Murders

Waterloo, Iowa (UPI) — Jerry Allen Mark, accused of killing four members of a rural Cedar Falls family, entered a plea of innocent to four counts of murder in Black Hawk County District Court Thursday. Mark, 32, of Berkeley, Calif., was arraigned before Judge Peter Van Metre. Mark is charged in the Nov. 1 slayings of his brother, Leslie Mark and his brother's family in their farmhouse six miles northwest of Cedar Falls. A probable cause and bond review hearing were set for Nov. 20 at 9 a.m. and bond was continued at a total of $1 million.

Des Moines attorney Lawrence Scallise said following the arraignment he is considering asking for a change of venue in the trial, adding he doesn't think Mark could get a fair trial because of publicity on the case.

Many Disenchanted After ABP Meeting

Omaha, Neb. (AP) — About 100 stockholders of financially-troubled American Beef Packers, Inc. (ABP) met here Thursday for the firm's annual meeting, and many of them, mostly the smaller share owners, went away with a feeling that they had been had.

ABP attorney David Pavel estimated that those interested represented about 55% of the more than 1.9 million shares of common stock in ABP.

Newsman were not allowed into the session, which was presided over by ABP President and founder Frank R. West. Officials said only proxy holders and stockholders of record on or before Oct. 3 would be allowed to attend the meeting.

"I don't think the stockholders had too much to say," said Mrs. George Kearns of Avoca, after the meeting, which lasted less than three hours.

During the meeting, a new board of directors was elected. Its members will take office upon confirmation of ABP's amended and consolidated plan to pay back creditors.

Stockholders also approved negotiations for the sale of ABP's Beefland plant in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and the ABP plant at Fort Morgan, Colo. Pavel said negotiations for the sale of the two plants were held previously, but were later halted. He said the negotiations, with two firms he did not name, will resume in the near future.

Named to the new, nine-member board were West, C. H. Foster, Joseph Skram, William Chapman, J. R. Ham, Loren Lorenzen, Harold Yaffe, Scott B. Swanson and Gerald Freidberg.

The name of a San Francisco man, Joseph Russo, was placed in nomination for the floor, but Russo did not get enough proxies to win a spot on the board.

West was the only member re-elected. Chapman is the chairman of the court-appointed creditors committee in the limited ABP bankruptcy, and Swanson is West's son in law.

After the company's plan of arrangement is confirmed, the board will meet to elect a president. West has already tendered a conditional resignation from the top spot, and Skram, of Sterling, Colo., the former operator of two meat packing firms in Iowa, is reportedly in line for the presidency of the firm.

While ABP officials said things went smoothly, and were generally pleased with the meeting, that was not the case with many stockholders. Many of the stockholders said they felt everything occurring during the meeting had been mapped out in advance.

Power Station Contracts OK'd By OPD Directors

Omaha (AP) — Meeting here Thursday, the Omaha Public Power District (OPD) Board of Directors approved nearly $2 million in contracts for work on the district's new Nebraska City Power Station.

The board authorized the purchase of an auto transformer from the McGraw-Edison Power Systems Division for $939,842. The big transformer will transmit power from the 575,000-kilowatt Nebraska City facility, which is expected to be completed in 1979.

The board also awarded a $638,368 contract to the Fisher Controls Co., Marshalltown, Iowa, for the manufacture of control valves to be used at Nebraska City.

Envirex, Inc., Waukesha, Wis., was awarded a $301,292 contract for the installation of six traveling water screens and associated equipment. The large, revolving screens, according to OPD officials, will remove debris from the Missouri River water used in the plant's "once-through" cooling system.

Omaha Loses Potential ADM Plant

Omaha (AP) — Omaha recently lost a potential $32 million plant prospect from Minneapolis because of some legal conditions that detract from the area as an industrial location, Douglas County Commissioner Michael Albert said.

Albert said the firm was the Archer-Daniels-Midland Corp., a grain processing and milling firm.

Albert told of the loss of the prospect while urging county commissioners to approve three proposals to spur industrial development.

One proposal calls for dropping the sales tax on production equipment, another calls for a state income tax incentive for new or expanding businesses by offering an investment tax credit, and the third asks the county to investigate the possibility of asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to change an "arbitrary" boundary, the Missouri River, used in determining freight rates.

Many Disenclanted After ABP Meeting

Omaha, Neb. (AP) — About 100 stockholders of financially-troubled American Beef Packers, Inc., (ABP) met here Thursday for the firm's annual meeting, and many of them, mostly the smaller share owners, went away with a feeling that they had been had.

ABP attorney David Pavel estimated that those interested represented about 55% of the more than 1.9 million shares of common stock in ABP.

Newsmen were not allowed into the session, which was presided over by ABP President and founder Frank R. West. Officials said only proxy holders and stockholders of record on or before Oct. 3 would be allowed to attend the meeting.

"I don't think the stockholders had too much to say," said Mrs. George Kearns of Avoca, after the meeting, which lasted less than three hours.

During the meeting, a new board of directors was elected. Its members will take office upon confirmation of ABP's amended and consolidated plan to pay back creditors.

Stockholders also approved negotiations for the sale of ABP's Beefland plant in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and the ABP plant at Fort Morgan, Colo. Pavel said negotiations for the sale of the two plants were held previously, but were later halted. He said the negotiations, with two firms he did not name, will resume in the near future.

Named to the new, nine-member board were West, C. H. Foster, Joseph Skram, William Chapman, J. R. Ham, Loren Lorenzen, Harold Yaffe, Scott B. Swanson and Gerald Freidberg.

The name of a San Francisco man, Joseph Russo, was placed in nomination for the floor, but Russo did not get enough proxies to win a spot on the board.

Power Station Contracts Okd By OPPD Directors

Omaha (AP) — Meeting here Thursday, the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) Board of Directors approved nearly $2 million in contracts for work on the district's new Nebraska City Power Station.

The board also awarded a $638,368 contract to the Fisher Controls Co., Marshalltown, Iowa, for the manufacture of control valves to be used at Nebraska City.

Envirex, Inc., Waukesha, Wis., was awarded a $301,202 contract for the installation of six traveling water screens and associated equipment. The large, revolving screens, according to OPPD officials, will remove debris from the Missouri River water used in the plant's "once-through" cooling system.

Albert said the firm was the Archer-Daniels-Midland Corp., a grain processing and milling firm.

Albert told of the loss of the prospect while urging county commissioners to approve three proposals to spur industrial development.

One proposal calls for dropping the sales tax on production equipment, another calls for a state income tax incentive for new or expanding businesses by offering an investment tax credit, and the third asks the county to investigate the possibility of asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to change an "arbitrary" boundary, the Missouri River, used in determining freight rates.

Markets... Business

Stock Mart Is Mixed, Turbulent

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed in turbulent activity Thursday, veering back and forth with each development in the struggle to stave off default by New York City.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about 6 points at its mid-session peak, wound up with a 1.02 loss at 851.23.

Gainers, on the other hand, held a 784-to-622 edge on losers among the 1,857 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume reached 25.07 million shares, up from 23.96 million Wednesday and a virtual four-month high for the second day in a row.

Analysts said sentiment seemed to be mixed and sometimes just plain confused over the chances for a proposed plan for dealing with New York City's money problems and its possible impact.

Wall Street also was confronted with apparently conflicting evidence from the Ford administration on where it stood on the issue of federal help for the city.

Remarks by several Washington leaders in recent days had been interpreted as signs of a softening in opposition in the capital to the idea of federal assistance.

And at midday Thursday, Ron Nessen, President Ford's press secretary, made comments which were seen as a strong hint that the President might be willing to consider short term federal measures to tide the city over while it worked to straighten out its finances.

But later in the afternoon, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told a press conference in St. Louis the administration hadn't changed its position against federal aid.

When that news reached Wall Street, some profit taking that had appeared at midafternoon intensified and pushed the Dow to the negative side just before the close.

Other market indicators also showed slight declines. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index slipped .15 to 91.04, and the NYSE's composite of more than 1,500 common issues eased .02 to 48.20.

Stocks of New York City banks, which are major creditors of the city, managed to add to their recent gains. Citicorp rose  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  in active trading; J.P. Morgan was up  $\frac{1}{2}$  at 54, and Chase Manhattan picked up  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 28  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

Glamor issues typified the session's confused pattern. IBM was off  $\frac{3}{4}$  at 221  $\frac{1}{2}$  and Digital Equipment rose  $\frac{3}{4}$  to 136, but Burroughs rose  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 80  $\frac{1}{2}$  and Philip Morris added  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 54  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

It Could Be Better
Davenport, Iowa (UPI) — Studies have shown that gasoline efficiency could be increased by as much as 44% if driving habits were improved, the Motor Club of Iowa said.

Six Mid-State Directors Attend Hawaii Convention

Grand Island (AP) — The president of the Mid-State Reclamation District's board of directors confirmed Thursday that six members of the board are in Honolulu, Hawaii, this week attending a convention.

Confirming the trip was Bob Lowry of Cairo, one of the three members who did not make the journey to attend the National Water Resources Association (NWRA).

Last week, voters turned down a 15-year extension of Mid-State, effectively putting an end to the project.

Board members attending the convention include Hebert C. Wagoner of Central City, Herbert W. Pertz of Clarks, Wallace E. Peterson of Kearney, LeRoy Corrigan of Kearney, Norman Harris of Shelton and Howard V. Kelly of Grand Island.

In addition to Lowry, those not attending include Vernon Rice of Grand Island and Hans V. Larsen of Central City.

In a telephone interview, Larsen said he did not go because he had not made plans to attend, and that he had not attended too many NWRA conventions in the past.

Additionally, Larsen said he had not intended to run for reelection to the board.

Larsen also said Mid-State usually sent about six of its board members to the NWRA conventions.

Lowry defended the attendance at the Honolulu meeting saying it is "the" national convention of the year on water resources. Lowry added that Mid-State has been represented at past NWRA conventions.

While defending the trip, Lowry asked if there would have been so much concern expressed had the convention been held somewhere other than Hawaii.

Lowry said the attendance at the convention was approved and budgeted by the board last July, adding that all six members attending were pre-registered and that the registration fees were unrefundable.

As far as the use of tax funds are concerned, Lowry said all six members are paying for the trip from their own pockets, but that each would be reimbursed about $600, which is the average of expenditures made during last year's NWRA convention in Fresno, Calif.

Lowry said the board's main concern has been "to see what can be salvaged to recharge our underground water table and to preserve the district's water right application."

Thus, Lowry said, board members who had planned to attend the convention decided to follow through, despite last week's defeat at the polls.

Lowry said the convention attendance does not show the board's intention of trying to preserve or continue the Mid-State district, and that information gleaned from the convention will be given to interested citizens or the Legislature.

Crash Fatal To Omaha Woman, 25

A 25-year-old Omaha woman was killed Thursday morning when she ran into a ditch and was thrown from her car on Raymond Rd., 3 1/2 miles east of Hwy. 77, the Lancaster County sheriff's office reported.

The victim was identified as Julie A. Lofton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Lofton of Holdrege. Lofton is associate publisher of the Holdrege Daily Citizen.

Deputies said Miss Lofton was eastbound on Raymond Rd. when she lost control of her car and ran into a ditch. When she tried to return to the road, the car rolled, throwing her from it, they said.

Deputies said the accident was reported by Morris Willman, or rural Waverly, who discovered it on his way to work. The accident occurred sometime between 1:15 a.m. and 6 a.m., they said.

'Good, Open Discussion' Held On Rail Route Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen and business leaders from Iowa and Nebraska Thursday had a "good, open discussion" of the bid by the Western Association of Railroad Passengers for an experimental Amtrak run next year that would pass through central Iowa, aides said.

An aide to Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, who sponsored the session, said the Amtrak officials present helped them assess their proposal in the light of competitors' requests for different routes. But he said they gave "no substantial insight" into the agency's specific feelings about any one bid.

Miss Fromme Denies Saying 'I Hated Ford'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Fromme walked into the courtroom Thursday on the eighth day of her trial on a charge of trying to kill the President and blurted out "I never said I hated Ford."

The 27-year-old follower of Charles Manson also told U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride: "I do not even blame Ford" before she was sent her back to her cell.

Miss Fromme apparently referred to testimony Tuesday by a Sacramento grocery clerk, Ed Louie, who said she told him on Sept. 4: "I hate Ford." It was the day before authorities say she tried to shoot the President.

Miss Fromme made no reference to Manson, a convicted mass murderer now in San Quentin, as she did in earlier courtroom speeches. Her comments took place before the jury was led into the room.

For the first day this week, Miss Fromme did not blindfold herself before she left the jail. But she again refused to walk into the court building and was carried by an officer.

Police said Ralph Cutts, of 837 E St., was in the crosswalk when he was hit by a car driven by Althea Schessler, 57, of 4301 Mohawk. Cutts suffered a dislocated left shoulder and a fractured and dislocated right hip.

Man Is Reported In Fair Condition

A Lincoln man, Dan Linderman, 20, of 3327 S. 40th, was listed in fair condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital following a shooting at his home Wednesday night.

Police said that Linderman apparently accidentally shot himself in the abdomen with a small caliber weapon.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
